'BOND CASE PLEA SOLD'—KNAPP

Today

See Seattle.
When Col. Ewing Starts.
4 Billions of Diamonds.
Tom Slick's $30,000,000.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE Great Northern Railway announces a cut of five hours beginning next Sunday, in the running time between Chicago and Seattle. Other lines have cut time to meet the Great Northern.

The run will be made in 63 hours bringing Seattle as near to New York, Chicago and other Eastern and Mid-western cities as Los Angeles and San Francisco are now.

Fortunately for the Pacific coast and the 20,000,000 inhabitants that all live one day between San Diego and the Canadian line, "the coast" is a winter resort and a summer resort.

No part of the coast is more marvelous in summer climate and scenery than Seattle and the whole state of Washington.

Go there this summer, from the Atlantic, and you will spend the 10 hours saved on the round trip telling your friends that you really have seen America.

SPOON-FED newspaper publishers and others who say the race of fighting editors has vanished should see recent numbers of Col. Ewing's newspaper, the New Orleans States, with Col. Ewing's fight against the Governor of Louisiana.

CHARLES A. DANA, in his most energetic days, telling what he thought of President Hayes, could not surpass Col. Ewing.

The Colonel, of brachycephalic type, responds to things he doesn't like as a stick of dynamite does to a sledge hammer blow.

THIS country owns four thousand million dollars worth of diamonds. At 6 per cent, which is a low rate, it costs the owners $240,000,000 a year to look beautiful and shiny, not far from $1,000,000 a day. But it is worth it if it makes the owners happy.

A SMALL part of the four billions represents diamonds doing useful work, cutting glass, etc.

The most useful diamonds are little black stones, hardest of all, that Prof. Michelson, of Chicago University, employs for ruling with marvelously fine lines on spectroscopic plates. The black diamonds, attached to an automatic machine in a cellar far below ground where the temperature doesn't vary, move back and forth hour after hour, no man watching them.

WHEN Prof. Michelson takes you down where his black diamonds are working, you may stay only a minute, and are asked to breathe as little as possible, that the heat of your body and breath may not change the temperature of the small room. That is exactitude.

TOM SLICK, when young, was a mule driver, roustabout and tool dresser. He was also an American, intelligent, his eyes open. As he worked he thought, and he has just sold part of his oil holdings to the Prairie Oil Company for $30,000,000.

MR. SLICK, who does business as "Tom Slick, Incorporated," thinks he will spend a year in Europe, think up new plans, and start working again.

The American's mind, with few exceptions, is unable to endure idleness, and that keeps at work all those that know how to work.

THE big war proved that war is unprofitable, sometimes worse for the loser than for winner. Mexico's war seems to shake the theory.

MEXICO says that Gen. Escobar, who intelligently got out of Torreon as soon as Mexican airplanes began dropping bombs, is well on his way to Chihuahua carrying with him valuable loot, including millions of dollars taken from banks in Monterey, Saltillo, Torreon and other small cities temporarily occupied.

However, to say that temporary profit can be made from banditry doesn't prove that real war can be made profitable.

THE fierce Jones law, planned to chill the hearts of bootleggers, wipe out the whisky trade and make prohibition a success, claims its first victim in New York City.

TEN thousand dollars fine, five years in prison, was the program. Would not that frighten you?

IT DIDN'T frighten the first victim. He pleaded guilty.

The judge sentenced him to three months in jail, warning all the wicked that later the term would be six months in jail.

It's one thing to "put teeth into a law," another thing to use the teeth.

OTHER prohibition news. In Brooklyn, a bigger city than old New York, on Manhattan Island, bootleggers engaged in what is called a "racketeers'" fight. Policeman Daniel J. Maloney, in plain clothes, entered the battle as an ally of one of the gangsters. Sgt. Moriarty also entered the battle and shot Policeman Maloney dead. Nobody else was killed.

MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

FOCH, LONG ILL, DIES IN PARIS

PARIS, March 20.—(INS.)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, one of the greatest soldiers of modern times and generalissimo of the Allied armies in the field at the end of the World War, died this afternoon after a long illness. He suffered from heart and kidney trouble, aggravated by a recent attack of grippe and general physical debility.

Nine doctors have been attending the marshal from time to time since his condition became serious several months ago.

Marshal Foch died at 5:55 p. m. Members of his family were at the bedside.

78 YEARS OF AGE

It had been evident for the past 48 hours that he could not recover. His strength waned rapidly, although he seemed to rally briefly last night.

The marshal was in his seventy-ninth year.

The death of Marshal Foch removed one of the outstanding figures developed by the World War. Victory over the Germans in the last year of the conflict was attributed solely to his military genius.

POST-WAR DUTIES HEAVY

After the war the heavy burden of seeing that the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were executed devolved upon Foch. He also was sent to Poland to strengthen the military position of that country when it was seen that war between Poland and Soviet Russia was inevitable.

Despite his manifold duties and the constant call upon him to attend public functions and make speeches his health seemed normal until last autumn, when he began to fail.

The famous soldier was always keenly interested in the United States and Americans and during

Spring to Arrive Officially Tonight

Young men's fancies will be entitled to do some light turning after 9:35 p. m. today. At that hour, the weather bureau announced, spring will begin officially.

The sun will shine on the first day of spring, although most of the morning will be cloudy. No showers are in sight, Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. The temperature will be between 45 and 40 degrees.

Nature this year, observers of outdoor life say, is in pace with the calendar. Maples are bursting into bloom, pussywillow catkins are pushing aside their brown winter overcoats and another warm day or so will bring forth blossoms and crocuses.

30 GIRLS FIGHT SHOP BLAZE; 2 RESCUED

While two girls were carried to safety, more than 30 co-workers today battled with pillows to extinguish flames spreading in a mattress cover factory on the sixth floor at 916 Fifth avenue until firemen arrived.

The girls paused in their flight down an inclosed staircase to help firemen carry a hose line to the rapidly spreading flames.

Miss Julia Connelly, 19, of Baum boulevard, was carried to the street by Irving Epstein, 21, of 160 Devillier street, and Fred Schumaker, 20, of 737 Joseph street, Baldwin township, when she fainted as the flames leaped about her sewing machine.

GIRL OVERCOME

Other workers rescued Marie Keopfer, 19, of 208 Ormsby avenue, Mt. Washington, when she was overcome by smoke.

The blaze, which caused about $3,000 damage, started from an overheated motor providing power for a battery of 16 sewing machines in the American Textile Products Company plant. An oil-covered surface on a machine operated by Helen Brandon, 20, of 59 Chatham street, ignited, and the flames soon enveloped the long row of machines.

The girls ignoring the cries to flee to safety, beat at the flames with pillows, and prevented the fire from spreading throughout the factory.

FORCED TO FLEE

Burning cloth soon eneveloped the room in heavy smoke and the daring girls were forced to seek the stairway.

Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to thousands of dollars worth of mattress cover material stored in the workroom. Many of the girls lost their purses and coats in the fire.

The fire damage was estimated by Deputy Fire Chief T. G. Jones, who lauded the girls for their bravery in assisting firemen lug the hose-line to the top floor.

TRAINS HIT HEAD-ON, 17 DIE

TORONTO, Ont., March 20.—(AP.)—Seventeen persons are dead, including 13 passengers, and five seriously injured as the result of a head-on collision between two Canadian National Railways trains early today at Drocourt, near Parry Sound, Ont., according to an official statement issued from the office of the general manager of the central division here this afternoon.

Passengers reported that the car "Colonist," next to the baggage car of one train, caught fire after the wreck and several of the passengers were unable to escape. They told graphic stories of heroic attempts to escape cremation.

PASSENGERS UNIDENTIFIED

The passenger list of the Colonist is not yet available, nor is it definitely known how many people were aboard.

Conductor Barstead, Brakeman Ferguson and an unidentified newsboy were officially reported killed at railway headquarters in Montreal. The injured included Engineer Gauvreau, Fireman Horace A. Smith and Brakeman Savage, while Baggageman McRoberts was reported missing.

IN LONELY SECTION

Both trains were on the Toronto-Winipeg run, Conductor Barstead being in charge of No. 3, westbound, while Engineer Gaubreau was at the throttle of No. 4, bound for Toronto.

Reports failed to give the cause of the collision.

Another Blue Law Modifier Offered

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 20.—Another bill designed to liberalize Sunday laws was introduced in the House today by Representative Hoffman, Allegheny. The measure provides for a state-wide referendum on the subject to determine whether amusements would be permitted on Sunday after 1 o'clock p. m. Last week the Law and Order Committee refused to act on a series of bills providing for the same thing as the Hoffman bill hopes to accomplish.

Named Judge

EDWARD CHALFANT

FISHER NAMES CHALFANT FOR JUDGE

Edward C. Chalfant, second choice in the Allegheny County Bar Association election last Saturday, today was named judge of Orphans Court by Gov. John S. Fisher. The Senate immediately gave unanimous confirmation.

He fills the vacancy caused by the death of Judge J. J. Miller.

Chalfant with 316 votes in the lawyers' election was second to J. Smith Christy, who received 341 votes in the bar election held to suggest to Gov. Fisher men best fitted to succeed Judge Miller. W. W. Stoner, third in the running, received 126 votes.

Attorney Chalfant was born at Bridgeport, O., April 29, 1872, a son of the Rev. Dr. George W. Chalfant, for 25 years pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church here.

Following graduation from the Lincoln school he attended Pittsburgh Academy and later entered Lafayette College, being graduated in 1895. He was a law student with the late Judge J. McF. Carpenter and was in the first class of Pittsburgh Law School. He was admitted to the bar March 19, 1898, and in 1905 became a law partner of Thomas P. Trimble, now president judge of Orphans Court. Later he associated with Stephen Stone, J. Merrill Wright and A. Wilson McCandless, and is a member of the firm of Stone, Chalfant & McCandless. He was appointed a member of the board of law examiners in 1904 and elected secretary of the board. Upon the organization of the present board he was elected vice chairman. With his wife, Fannie O'Hara Barr Chalfant, and two children he resides in Sheridan avenue.

Bennett Phones Ill Daughter in Paris

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP.)—Richard Bennett, actor, has heard the voice of his daughter, Constance, from a Paris hospital, tell him that she is not critically ill. Bennett called the hospital by trans-Atlantic telephone. His daughter told him she had been suffering from peritonitis, but that her condition was so much improved that she expected to leave the hospital next week.

"Constance and Philip Plant are not divorced," Bennett said. "Phil was at her bedside when I called, and I talked with him."

MARSHALL MONEY SOUGHT

Charles E. Knapp is demanding $2,500 from the estate of the late Rody P. Marshall, attorney, on the ground that he was promised that sum for pleading no defense in the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company $320,000 bond swindle.

Knapp appeared before Judge Thomas P. Trimble in Orphans Court to press his claim, it was revealed today.

In addition, he asks $2,500 for cancelling a claim he held against the home of Edward A. Goodfellow so that Goodfellow could increase the equity he held in his home and obtain bond for his release from jail, where he was held in connection with the swindle case.

PROMISED $2,500 AID

Taking the witness stand, Knapp testified that Marshall had promised him $2,500, and to aid him in settling a charge against him in Clearfield county if he would plead no defense to his part in the fake bond deal.

Knapp testified he agreed to do this and carried out his part of the bargain for which he served 18 months in Western Penitentiary.

Knapp also testified that while he and Goodfellow were in jail, Attorney Marshall came to him and asked him to satisfy the $2,500 judgment against Goodfellow's home in Perrysville so that Goodfellow could offer his home as security and be released on bail.

He did so, Knapp said, and Goodfellow was freed.

John Gray, an employe of the City Public Works Department, testified Attorney Marshall had told him of promising to pay Knapp $2,500 for helping Goodfellow out.

AGREEMENT DENIED

It was in the yard of Goodfellow's home that detectives recovered much of the money which was paid over in the bond swindle.

With Knapp appeared Attorneys

M'KEESPORTER MAY GET POST

Attorney Harry M. Jones, city solicitor of McKeesport, has been mentioned as a prospect for appointment as Assistant Attorney General of the United States, according to Washington dispatches today. He was one of a score mentioned for the post.

Attorney Jones is the son of Judge T. C. Jones, of the county courts. In county politics, he generally has been regarded as an adherent of the faction led by State Senator Max Leslie.

U. S. Agriculture Aid Quits for Radio Job

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—F. M. Russell, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, has resigned to become vice president of the National Broadcasting Company.

Russell has served in various capacities in the Department of Agriculture since 1922. He has been assistant to the secretary since 1924.

MAN, 73, TAKEN ON CHARGE BY GIRL, 21

Seventy-three years old, James R. Cox was arrested today on the complaint of an attractive 21-year-old girl who told police that he insisted on showering attentions on her.

The girl, Ruth Mackey, 21, of 352 McKee avenue, Lincoln place, declares Cox drew a revolver on her after she informed him that she had a younger "boy friend."

Cox was arrested in Lincoln place today a few minutes after, it was charged, he had gone to the Mackey home for the girl. While her mother was talking with him at the door, Ruth slipped into a neighbor's home and called the police.

DREW GUN, GIRL SAYS

"Monday we had an argument outside the postoffice in Smithfield street," Ruth told the police. "It was very dark. I told him of a younger boy-friend in Hazelwood and he aimed a revolver at me, so I told him I'd see him

Hughes Will Sail For Geneva in May

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—Charles E. Hughes is expected to sail from New York about May 1, to take up his duties as a judge of the World Court at Geneva. The court will hold a session beginning May 15.

EXTRADITION OF FORNEY LEGAL, STATE CLAIMS

"Alfred Forney, fugitive racketeer, can be returned to Allegheny County from any part of the United States if he is located and served with a bench warrant," Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips stated today.

Phillips is an authority on the action of grand juries and extradition.

CONSTITUTION CITED

"The constitution of the United States states that 'any person can be brought to justice for treason, felony or other crimes.' The offense charged against Forney certainly comes under the head of other crimes," Attorney Phillips stated.

"The governor of any state that would refuse the extradition of Forney after the bench warrant had been served would be flying in the face of the Federal constitution. I am aware that certain state governments have refused extradition under similar circumstances but in doing so they knowingly defied the constitution."

CANADA GUARDED

Receiving a report that Forney was in Montreal with a party of friends, George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, has sent word to police of the Canadian city to be on the lookout for the racketeer. Mur-

GIRL, SHOT, MAN ACCUSED, WED

WHEELING, W. Va., March 20.—(AP.)—Miss Winnie Ramsey, 21, of Jacobsburg, O., shot down at her home the night of February 27, has become the bride of Thomas Weekly, 23, Powhatan, O., accused of the shooting.

The shooting occurred after the girl had elected to ride home from church with Charles Gates, 24. Weekly, arraigned on a charge of felonious shooting, fainted after he entered a plea of not guilty. He is at liberty on $2,000 bail.

2 SISTERS AND MAN HELD AS BROKER BLACKMAILERS

Two pretty sisters and a man were held for court today, accused of blackmailing a downtown broker, told Magistrate A. D. Brandon, in

The broker, M. L. Wishart, 40, a married man of Beverly road, Mt. Lebanon, testified that he was forced to write checks of $200 and $300 after he had been found in the apartment of the girls, Betty Leonard, 16, and Isabelle Leonard, 21, a model, of the Saybrook apartments, Craft avenue, Oakland. Two men, Joseph Geragocian, 26, and Herman Kamins, 35, who said they were rug salesmen and lived in the Loutellus apartments, Melwood street, are involved.

PICKED UP IN AUTO

Wishart, manager of S. M. Vockel and Company, investment brokers, in the Diamond Bank Building, told Magistrate A. D. Brandon, in Morals Court, that he was driving along Forbes street, Oakland, when the girls, walking, indicated they would appreciate a ride.

A few nights later, in their apartment, he was alone with the girls when the two men stepped into the room as Isabelle clapped her hands, Wishart testified. He was forced to give Isabelle a check for $200 and the men a check for $300, Wishart added.

CHECK PAYMENT STOPPED

"I saw Isabelle Leonard in the Diamond National Bank cashing my check, so I stopped payment on it," Wishart continued, "but she made such a scene that I gave her $25."

Wishart was held in $1,000 bond as a material witness. Geragocian was held for court and Kamins was held for investigation.

HELEN BRANDON IRVING EPSTEIN JULIA CONNELLY MARIE KOEPFER FRED SCHUMAKER

When fire believed to have been started by an overheated motor in oil-soaked boards on the machine of Miss Brandon burned in a mattress cover factory at 916 Fifth avenue, today, Miss Connelly was overcome and carried to safety by Epstein, aided by Schumaker. Miss Koepfer was overcome and carried out by girl co-workers, who also aided firemen.

GIRL SUES FATHER IN AUTO SMASHUP, AWARDED $6,176

A verdict ordering Gustave Winters, of Sturgeon, Pa., to pay his daughter, Gladys, $6,176 damages for injuries she suffered in an accident while riding in his automobile, was returned by Judge Harry bile, was returned to Judge Harry this morning. The father carries liability insurance, and it will be an insurance company which eventually will pay the claim.

Miss Winters testified that on November 15, 1928, she was riding in her father's automobile. She said the machine went down over an embankment between Castle Shannon and Perry, causing her to suffer a double fracture of the left leg below the knee, subsequent disfigurement and humiliation. She exhibited the scarred leg to the jury. She contended that the accident was due to defective brakes on her father's machine.

CONSCIENCE CLEAR IN PUBLIC WORK, SAYS DAUGHERTY

FOCH TO RANK WITH GREAT IMMORTALS

International News Service.

History being but a succession of biographies, the years from 1914 to late 1918 will be written largely from the life of Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France, a coiner of maxims and the foremost strategist of the Great War.

Marshal Foch rose from comparative obscurity after the first Battle of the Marne when his military genius was largely responsible for the Allied victory which stopped the German drive into France and saved Paris.

He was one of the few army commanders, Allied or German, whose stature did not diminish under the calm and studied scrutiny of peace.

FAME GROWS

Though there have been many to point a finger and say, "He made a mistake here," his fame will undoubtedly grow with the years, and in time, he may join the small company of immortals whose noteworthy members are Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon.

He was called to power and selected as the Generalissimo of 10,000,000 armed men, speaking a score of different languages, when in comparative disfavor and retired from active service.

France, even in war time, like other countries, had its politicians. They decided in April, 1917, that Foch was no longer fit for an independent field command. So, he was "kicked upstairs" and made French military member of the Supreme War Council.

This organization with representation from the various nations fighting on the Allied side, was a source of constant bickering and dispute. But Foch, like the true soldier he was, obeyed orders without question.

DECISIVE BATTLEGROUND

The Marne was the decisive battleground. The fate of France was hanging in the balance and the French had to fight or die.

It was Foch who saw the gap left between the First and Second German armies when Gen. von Kluck in his eagerness to reach Paris, swung too wide in his encircling movement. Foch saw his opportunity, and plugged it, and the rest is history.

Foch was the author of the memorable message which caught the imagination of the entire world and which ranks with the historic utterances of Ceaser, Nelson and Grant:

"My right is crushed. My left is in retreat. I am attacking with my center."

This message gave the keynote of his whole character—his indomitable will.

BORN IN 1851

Ferdinand Foch was born at Tarbes, a little city in the Pyrenees, close to the Spanish frontier, on October 2, 1851. He received his military education at Metz and served as a subaltern in through the disastrous Franco-Prussion War.

Foch was a major general, commanding the Twentieth Army Corps, when the first German Uhlan rode across the frontier in August, 1914.

It was not until 1918—the same year he was designated generalissimo of all the Allied armies—that he was made a marshal of France.

WINS NEW HONORS

After being appointed generalissimo Foch concentrated all his energies in welding a unified fighting machine. He was to deliver a telling stroke at the weakest point on the German front but he took his time for the preparations.

The big drive began along the southern end of the western front with the Americans pounding the German front on the Aisne, Meause and Argonne fronts.

The line cracked and the Allies then began hammering at the German front near the Belgian border. The Germans began falling back, their retreat becoming faster and faster.

TERMS OF SURRENDER

Foch's terms of surrender were sent to German Great Headquarters. The armistice was signed in a railway car near Compiegne, in the presence of the Marshal, and fighting ended at 11 a. m. on November 11, 1918.

The whole world heaped honors on Marshal Foch after the war. He received them all quietly. He had always led a retiring life in accord with his simple tastes and ideas.

He made a trip to the United States in 1921 where he was acclaimed as an international hero. He again met his old comrade in arms, Gen. Pershing, in America.

HONORED BY BRITISH

The year following the close of the war the British honored Marshal Foch by making him a field marshal in the British army. Previously he had been made a knight of the Grand Cross of the Bath, an honorable British organization. He was elected a member of the French Academy. Allied nations heaped medals upon him, including one from the United States.

the last days of his illness he spoke of the good wishes received from across the Atlantic.

VISITED IN U. S.

After the peace treaty was concluded Foch made a trip to the United States to see the country he had come to admire so much.

The doctors attending the marshal said today they were surprised by the strength of his constitution. On several occasions during the past few weeks of his illness he suffered sinking spells when death seemed near, but would rally and show a return of the vigor of yore.

Foch himself never seemed to realize the seriousness of his condition. On one occasion he called for the newspapers, and when he had glanced through them he fixed the chief of his doctors with a stern eye and asked:

"Am I really this sick?"

LED SIMPLE LIFE

A circumstance that puzzled the doctors was the continued appetite of the patient even after his condition became critical.

He had always lived simply, his meals were of the lightest. He never drank liquor. He probably received more invitations to banquets and dinners than any other man in France up to the time he had to take to his bed, but he never tasted the rich foods and wines set before him. He would toy with a piece of roll or perhaps have a little thin soup, but passed up all the highly seasoned meats. His favorite dish was a plain omelet with bread and butter and a glass of water.

FLYING PRIEST HOME—BY RAIL

The Rev. Dr. James R. Cox, the flying priest, returned to Pittsburgh from Harrisburg today—on a train.

Left behind in the capital was the big cabin airplane in which the pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church and Attorney Henry Ellenbogen were lost in the clouds over Maryland yesterday for four hours.

"We got lost going over and coming back," Father Cox related, "but the airplane trip wasn't a failure, even if I did lose time. It served to focus public attention on the coal and iron police.

"The pilot, Jim Rutledge, from Mayer Field, tried to follow the railroad back, but we got off our course and landed in Hagerstown at 5:30 o'clock last night. Rutledge said it wouldn't be wise to fly over the mountains in the dark, so we flew back to Harrisburg in an hour, and Ellenbogen and I took a train to Pittsburgh."

Father Cox flew to Harrisburg to plead for a stronger bill than Gov. Fisher's for the regulation of the coal and iron police activities. He took a plane because he wanted to be back in Pittsburgh last night for a public engagement, which he eventually missed.

Vauclain to Retire As Baldwin Head

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Samuel M. Vauclain is to retire as president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and become chairman of the board, it was reliably reported today in Wall Street.

Mr. Vauclain, who is in New York today, refused to discuss the report.

George W. Houston, associate of the Fisher Brothers of Detroit, who with Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago capitalist, now control the company's common stock, will succeed Mr. Vauclain, it was said.

BESIEGERS QUIT PALACE OF PRINCESS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 20.—A princess beautiful has turned back the siege of her castle. Beaten and routed, the besieging forces of subpena servers who would command her presence in a court have withdrawn from her domain much in the manner of defeated knights and tamed archers.

It all means that the Princess of Thurn and Taxis probably will not have to testify on Friday against her uncle, Josiah V. Thompson, much of whose former vast fortune has been distributed to thousands of creditors in bankruptcy.

"CASTLE" BESIEGED

For several days deputies and police have watched "the castle"—the home of the princess' mother, Mrs. Eleanor Niccolls—for 24 hours daily to hand her a slip of official paper which demanded her presence before the referee in bankruptcy in Pittsburgh on Friday.

The Princess is wanted to deny or affirm a report that she told friends $3,000,000 of Thompson's funds have been concealed from the creditors. At a dinner in New York "a gentleman friend" told her, so the report goes, that he turned over a $3,000,000 check to the Thompson interests.

The Princess hasn't moved so much as one titled step from her castle for days. She did peek from a casement at the besieging forces, a yeoman scout reported, but quickly withdrew.

SUES BARON

The princess herself is suing the bankrupt coal baron, Thompson, for $200,000 from the estate of her father, for whose estate Thompson was executor. She has won a verdict in the local courts, but Thompson, now held in contempt of court, hasn't paid, and is reported out of the state.

The princess, widow of a Hungarian nobleman, is the mother of three children, born to her first marriage, with Gerald Fitzgerald, wealthy Irishman.

Thompson's financial failure is pointed out as the greatest bankruptcy of an individual in the county's history.

MILLIONS LOST

His holdings were valued on paper at $60,000,000 when he went to the wall 12 years ago. Those 12 years have been spent in untangling the financial mess that affected scores of companies and thousands of individuals.

The collapse of the coal market is generally accepted as the reason for Thompson's failure. Prices shrunk and the Uniontown magnate's holdings did likewise, until the time arrived when one of the richest men in the country had no more to point to as his own than a pauper.

OFFERED BRIBE, KNAPP SAYS

Ralph H. Frank and Bruce Harrison.

Attorneys Meredith Marshall, brother of Rody, Oliver K. Eaton and Harry Weisberger, opposing Knapp's claim, held there was no record of such an agreement having been made and that it should be denied.

SETTLEMENT OFFERED

Eaton told the court that Rody Marshall had taken over the Goodfellow property which was valued at $15,000 and that liens and mortgages against it totalled $16,000. Eaton offered to turn the property over to Knapp if he would assume the indebtedness and pay to the Marshall estate the sum which Marshall paid out on the property.

Judge Trimble, indicated he would not allow Knapp's claims but instructed Attorney Frank to file a brief.

Goodfellow served a jail term for his part in the bond deal. Officers of the bank were acquitted of any wrong doing.

FORNEY CAN BE EXTRADITED

een asked that night clubs and hotels in Montreal be watched.

Murren stated that the information came to him from men who were acquainted with Forney while he conducted his alleged slot machine business on the North Side. The detective chief is confident that Forney will be located sooner or later and will eventually be brought back for trial on the 16 gambling charges from which he fled.

Forney twice has failed to appear in court when his case was called.

But while one group of officials is anxious to get Forney back, at least one believes the county is better off without him.

"KEEP HIM AWAY"—BRAUN

"Instead of offering a reward for the return of Alfred Forney to Allegheny County, a fund should be started to keep him away, "Sheriff Robert H. Braun said today, as he ordered his deputies to levy on the personal effects of John Welsh, of 2501½ McKee place, Forney's bondsman.

"I nearly fell dead in Harrisburg when I learned that a reward had been suggested for Forney's return," Braun said. "If a collection were started to keep him out of the county I would gladly contribute a dollar a week," Braun stated.

"I am always pleased to see a racketeer jump his bond, as by doing this he may do 40 years sentence outside of Allegheny county. We are well rid of a man like this who tempts children and boobs. The longer he stays away the better," Braun said.

"My deputies will serve the writ on Welsh and go along about their business as in any other case. I am not going to help make a hero out of this fellow Forney. He is being crowned with publicity, but I would like to crown him with a brick," the sheriff said.

Deputy sheriffs expected to serve the writ this afternoon on Welsh, who had signed a $2,500 property bond for Forney's release. Such action usually results in the bondsman furnishing the needed cash to satisfy the judgment. Welsh will be allowed $300 exemption, but after this amount has been deducted, his personal effects can be sold to meet the bond.

If Welsh cannot raise the $2,500, his goods will be disposed of at a sheriff sale. If he does not possess personal effects that could be sold, the property in Fifth avenue, Soho, on which he obtained the property bond, will then be put up for sale.

PLAN CHARTER COMPROMISE

A form of Metropolitan District charter that will have a chance of approval by the electors of Allegheny County at the special election to be held for that purpose is planned for enactment by the Legislature, and this will involve a compromise of the views of urban leaders on oneh and and suburban and rural leaders on the other.

This is apparent in the present state of the movement. A reconciliation of the opposing views will be sought this week, with W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, who returned to the city yesterday after several weeks' absence, in the role of referee.

There is no question in political circles that the charter bill prepared by the Metropolitan District Commission and now waiting in committee at Harrisburg will be substantially amended or be replaced by a substitute bill within the week remaining for presentation of bills. The point of compromise between the original bill, with its manifold changes in local government, and the so-called simple bill, merely constituting the metropolitan district, will be decided this week.

Mr. Mellon conferred yesterday with President of Council James F. Malone, who has advanced a suggestion for a simple bill to create the district, leaving the present forms of government undisturbed and giving Pittsburgh the advantage of its metropolitan population. Mr. Mellon is expected to hold other conferences during the week with leading proponents and opponents of the charter bill.

City of Industrial Achievement, Herr Styles Pittsburgh

STEEL, science, talkies, television, radio and electricity—Pittsburgh leads in the development of these vital factors in American life. The following article covers this wide range of topics:

By E. M. HERR,
President of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

(Written especially for the Sun-Telegraph and copyright 1929 by Pitt Publishing Company.)

E. M. HERR

PITTSBURGH is a city of splendid industrial achievement. In iron and steel, in coal and oil, in natural gas, in glass, in food products, and in electricity, Pittsburgh has established a record equaled by no other city. The continuous expansion of its industries has resulted in branches being established in many parts of the globe.

Those of us who have grown up with its industries are fully conversant with what Pittsburgh has accomplished in the past. What lies before it in the way of growth is always worthy of thought, discussion and publication.

Need Public Spirit

No city is more favorably situated to maintain the important position it now holds and has held for a great many years. However, in order to progress and to improve this position more than a location favored by nature is required. And to me the most necessary thing seems to be to foster a high degree of public spirit among her citizens. While there are many notable instances of citizens with the finest public spirit, the citizens of Pittsburgh as a whole are sometimes criticised for a lack of this public spirit. They have been engrossed in their work and as a result of their endeavors can point to many of the great industries not only in the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania but throughout the world. However, in order that Pittsburgh may take her rightful place as a great industrial and educational center, the men in control of its great industries must learn to co-operate with each other and to show a willingness to interest themselves in and to support all measures which will aid in the upbuilding of the city in every proper way.

City of Engineers

THE growth and development of the electrical industry within its environs is one of the outstanding industrial achievements of Pittsburgh, notwithstanding the fact that it is generally known as "The Steel City." In the electrical industry are found an unusually large number of high grade people, due principally to the engineering character of the product which requires the knowledge and services of many men with technical or college training. Such men make good citizens.

The industry is favorably located geographically, and with proper local conditions should be susceptible of almost unlimited expansion. The expansion of this and related industries in Pittsburgh will be commensurate with the resources which those interested in this expansion can bring to bear upon its development.

Train Men Here

AS I have stated, the electrical industry requires men with general as well as technical training and Pittsburgh is admirably equipped to provide the education and training needed by the men who must carry on its work. The Carnegie Institute of Technology and the University of Pittsburgh—the latter with its admirably equipped and manned Mellon Institute—are in our midst and supply a breadth of learning and opportunities for study so comprehensive that there is practically no branch of collegiate, scientific or engineering training that cannot be obtained through these splendid schools of higher education. That these facilities are appreciated and used by the youth, not only of Pittsburgh but of all parts of our country, is shown by the large number of students enrolled who come from homes lo-

Tuesday night. I didn't see him, so he called me up at home and I said I'll see you Wednesday night (tonight) and give you back the ring. He didn't wait for tonight, he came around this morning."

Ruth said that she had met Cox when he came to their home selling soap. He tried to get her a job with his employers and, that failing, in a five-and-ten cent store.

GIVE TWO NAMES

"He gave me a ring worth $50," Ruth added, "and he told me his business name was Wilson, but his right name Cox."

Cox lives with his daughter and son-in-law in Dagmar avenue, Beechview. He identified himself as the father of the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church.

When arrested, Cox had a bottle of chloroform, a hair tonic and a dozen or more pictures of Ruth in his possession.

Told that Cox had given his age as 73, Ruth said, "Why, he told me he was 48."

Harris Election Bill Indorsed by Women

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(AP.)—The executive board of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women yesterday indorsed the plan to consolidate the Harris and Davis voting machine enabling bills. The council also indorsed the Harris election bill requiring the signing of a check list by voters. The state council accepted the invitation extended by the Reading council to hold a regional conference in that city May 22.

LOST MONEY IN CABINET SERVICE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 20.—"I never did anything while I was in public office, as a servant of the American people, that I would not do again. I was worth a million dollars when I took the office of attorney general of the United States. I was not worth that much when I left the office, and I am not worth that much now."

Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the cabinet of the late President, Warren G. Harding, made this statement in an exclusive interview with International News Service today, as for the first time, he made a detailed defense of his record as a public official.

Harry Daugherty.

"I have a clear conscience," Daugherty declared. "I go to sleep promptly at night. I am out of public life and I do not know that I ever will return. I never think of the past. I think only of today, and tomorrow. I harbor no bitterness against any man, even my enemies, and everybody knows Harry Daugherty was never afraid to make enemies."

MADE ENEMIES

"I made more enemies, and perhaps more bitter enemies, because of my prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust act.

"I was the first attorney general who prosecuted under the Sherman law. It so happened that I prosecuted several millionaires. Now, I have nothing against capital, but I was determined to do my duty.

"That was why I was attacked and investigated. They struck at me below the belt. They deliberately misled the American people."

GUARDED MONEY

"The attorney-general didn't handle the money when I was in office. I organized the Department of Justice so that from five to fifty persons knew what I was doing all the time. I did it as a precaution—as a matter of safety.

"I resolved that I'd not take a drink while prosecuting the dry laws. And I did not until I became a private citizen again.

"All I ask is that the American people consider my record. I am proud of my record. The Attorney General's office is the easiest of all to run as far as peace of mind is concerned. He has to ask himself but one question, 'What is the right of it?'

"The question as far as the public is concerned should be: What kind of an attorney general was this man? Was he lied about? Was he a decent man as men go? Was he honest or wa. he a crook? The record stands for ever. It is there for anyone to see."

DARES LYNCHERS

Daugherty told of incidents in his tempestuous career, relating how one time in Ohio he had personally stood against a mob of 300 who were crying out to lynch him.

"You can't be a crook, standing out there with the storm lashing you," declared Daugherty. "Somehow they always wanted to get personal with me."

When it was intimated to him that he had plenty o' courage, Daugherty took issue, saying:

"No, it is not courage. It's sporting blood, I guess. I am the most patient man you ever saw. I never get mad in a scrap."

[Editor's note—This is the second of a series of articles based on an exclusive interview with Harry M. Daugherty, formerly a member of the Harding cabinet. The third and final article will appear tomorrow.]

2 WIVES CLAIM CRASH PILOT

NEWARK, N. J. March 20.—(AP.)—Two women today were claiming to be the wife of Pilot Lou Foote, sole survivor of the plane crash Sunday in which 14 were killed.

The woman known here as Mrs. Foote said at her hotel that Foote had a divorced wife and a daughter in Turlock, Cal., and that her own marriage to Foote took place in that state.

HUGE FLOOD HITS NORTH FLORIDA

CITIZENS FLEE HOMES OVER WIDE AREA

By HENRY LESESNE,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

ATLANTA, March 20.—Tons of flood waters were unleashed upon Northwestern Florida today from the rampant streams of Alabama and Georgia, which have left in their wake several dead, thousands homeless and millions in property damage.

Several Florida towns are inundated, and some 2,000 persons were reported homeless. A half dozen other towns were imperiled by the flood. Only one death has been reported from the Florida section.

WARNED BY COURIER

Hundreds of persons in Northwestern Florida were warned to leave their home in the lowlands by a courier who rode from Bainbridge, Ga., in a twentieth-century jitney in a race with the crest of the Apalachicola, Chattahoochee and Flint rivers. He was Edward H. Calvin, of Bainbridge.

Careyville and Milligan, Fla., appeared to be the worst hit towns. Only a few homes were left by the overflow at the latter place, reports said. However, all the residents were believed to have escaped. A large part of River Junction, at the confluence of the Flint and the Chattahoochee, was under water.

RELIEF UNDER WAY

Rehabilitation and relief work was well under way in the stricken zones of Alabama and Georgia, with some 20,000 being given succor in the latter state. At Montgomery today Gov. Bibb Graves was to meet with the Alabama congressional delegation to formulate plans for obtaining aid from the April 15 session of Congress.

Some concern was felt along the lower reaches of the Mississippi, although Army engineers believed that the levees would hold. The Father of Waters is three feet above flood stage at Memphis, and in the delta many farmlands are inundated by backwaters. Floods in parts of Illinois and Iowa are pouring torrents into the already swollen stream.

HELD AS FAKING AVIATOR

Ellis Sears, 33, of Wilton, N. H., had neither an airplane nor knowledge of how to run one, but he represented himself as a promoter of "hurry up taxi service," according to testimony in Central Police Court, where Sears was arraigned today as a suspicious person. Magistrate Thomas Jones ordered Sears held for investigation.

Detective Frank Norwicki testified Sears went to business men here and suggested they use his plane for quick business trips. He said his plane was in Schenley Oval. Representatives of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company here said that Sears had come to them with the proposition, stating he was from the insurance company's home office in Springfield, Mass.

DE MOLAYS END CONVENTION

Masonic and De Molay members joined with the Grand Council, Order of De Molay, in bringing its two-day convention to a close last night with a ball in the William Penn Hotel ballroom. Special entertainment marked the affair attended by more than 150 delegates and their families.

Yesterday's closing business sessions, at which committee reports and legislative recommendations were acted upon, was followed by a tour of the city. This included an inspection trip through the Munhall works of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Members of the Grand Council elected to the order's honorary legion of honor J. Willison Smith, of Philadelphia, right worshipful grand master of Pennsylvania, and Louis A. Watres, of Scranton, Pa., and Abraham M. Beitler, of Philadelphia, past grand masters.

CODY AND WIFE IGNORANT OF EACH OTHER'S ILLNESS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 20.—(AP.)—Mabel Normand, often described as the "hard luck" girl of the cinema firmament, and her husband, Lew Cody, well-known in the movies, are critically ill, neither aware of the other's condition.

Miss Normand is in her palatial home here, struggling against tuberculosis, which has affected both lungs. For days fever has sapped at her strength, her temperature staying at 102 degrees.

Attendants refrained from telling her that Cody, returned from New York, is attempting to recover from complete nervous prostration. It was feared the knowledge of her husband's illness might weaken the slender thread by which she clings to life.

Cody, in a health resort, near San Bernardino, is kept in ignorance of his wife's condition, physicians fearing the effect worry might have on his weakened nerves. His illness followed influenza contracted in New York while he was arranging for a vaudeville tour of Enrope.

In Trouble Zones Give a Look For Jones

The Smiths may predominate in the city directory, but in Central Police Station it's the Joneses who rank first in numbers, and with the advent of Police Judge Thomas D. Jones, the total number of Jonses is brought up to five.

Besides the magistrate they are Sergt. Albert Jones, Patrolman J. T. Jones, Elevator Operator Richard Jones and Janitor William Jones. And for those who like their continuity it is possible to be arrested by Policeman Jones, docketed by Sergt. Jones, given a hearing by Judge Jones, taken to the fingerprint department in an elevator operated by Richard ones and walk through halls that have been cleaned by Janitor Jones.

SEE NO TAX CUT FOR 2 YEARS

WASHINGTON, March 20. —(INS.)—The American people must wait two years, at least, for any further reduction in federal taxes.

This was the opinion expressed today by Vice President Charles Curtis, Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, and other administration leaders. A sharp increase in governmental appropriations, uncertainty over the business outlook for 1930, and a possibility that tax collections this year may not reach the amazing totals of 1928, they said, prohibit any effort at tax reduction either in the coming special session or at the following regular session of the new Congress.

The biggest fly in the tax reduction ointment apparently will be the total of congressional appropriations for the next fiscal year—the highest in the peace-time history of the government. In all, Congress authorized $4,663,564,000 in appropriations for the period July 1, 1928, to July 1, 1930.

This was $331,000,000 in excess of the amount originally appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The year 1930 will provide the Hoover administration with its greatest financial problem, according to the Republican spokesmen. The revenues and expenditures for the present year are fixed, with the government undoubtedly about to show a surplus on its books. But while the expenditures are fixed—and fixed sharply higher—for next year, the government's revenue depends entirely upon the taxable profits and income of citizens and business. Consequently, administration leaders are hopeful that business prosperity will continue throughout the year at the pace it maintained in January and February.

Boys Admit 10 Store And Six Auto Thefts

Two Negro youths admitted in Morals Court today they had entered 16 stores and stolen six automobiles.

The two, Edward Mason, 17, of 2510 Wyandotte street, and Samuel Galloway, 19, of 32 Carillo street, were arrested, police testified, with 1,500 stogies they are alleged to have stolen from the factory of Gordon Sloan, at 2243 La Place street. Magistrate A. D. Brandon held them while detectives check their activities.

FUND HERE AIDS FLOOD RELIEF

Voluntary contributions for the relief of Alabama flood sufferers were received today by the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, it was announced by Mrs. Frances Speer Reed, executive secretary, at the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Checks received here were forwarded immediately to the national officers in Washington and the funds will be available for emergency work in aiding the victims and in rehabilitating the devastated area, it was stated. At the same time a circular from Washington told of the activities of the Red Cross in making a hasty survey of the flooded region in order to determine the funds necessary to afford adequate relief.

BLAST KILLS 1, MENACES TOWN

CHESTER, Pa., March 20.—(INS.)—One man was killed and four others burned, one possibly fatally, as fire threatened the entire town of Marcus Hook, near here, today, following a terrific explosion in the Sun Oil Company's plant there.

The blaze started at 1:45 a. m., when still No. 7, filled with gasoline, exploded, showering the employes nearby with flaming oil. Shortly before 8 o'clock the flames still were burning furiously as firemen from six neighboring towns sought to bring them under control.

James McDee, Marcus Hook, was killed.

Stole to Buy Plane, Gets 30 to 60 Years

MEDIA, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old aviation student of Chester, Pa., was sentenced to 30 to 60 years in the Eastern Penitentiary by Judge Albert Dutton MacDade in Delaware County Court yesterday after he admitted a series of robberies to buy an airplane.

OFFICIAL ACTION GIVES IMPETUS TO DRIVE

Official protest by the state of Pennsylvania and the city of Pittsburgh against the Federal tax on earned incomes, announced through action by the House of Representatives at Harrisburg and Pittsburgh City Council, has spurred individual citizens in their appeals to Congress for relief.

Petitions in public places in Pittsburgh and its suburbs yesterday were signed by hundreds and the lists of signatures received by mail is the largest for a single day since the movement was launched by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers two weeks ago.

ALL CLASSES JOIN

The individual petitions come from all classes of professional people and wage earners. In the lists received in last night's mail, lawyers, dentists, engineers, coal miners, salesmen and railway trainmen predominated. There has been an increasing number of petitions from housewives. One woman homemaker, explaining her attitude, wrote on her petition:

"As a housewife I pay no income tax, but my husband does, and his whole family feels its injustice. We suffered much from illness, and on his annual salary of $4,500 we closed the year in debt. Nevertheless, he was obliged to pay income tax because he could not deduct expenditures of more than $1,500 for physician's services, drug bills, nurses' attendance and hospital charges. If I were superintendent of a factory instead of a home, I could enter all these extraordinary charges among our exemptions."

10,000 MORE PETITIONS

The supply of petition forms was exhausted yesterday, but an extra lot of 10,000 will be on hand tomorrow. These petitions are available at all the Dow Drug Company branches, the United Cigar Stores, the leading hotels and in the Court House and City-County Building. Mrs. Mercedes Cohill, who has charge of the petitions in circulation in the county offices, is getting many signatures. In the hotels people from all parts of the country are aiding the movement in Pittsburgh.

"Just give me about 50 of these," said Pierre Dupreux, of New Orleans, La., as he took a handful of petitions from the counter in the William Penn Hotel. "We are opposed to the unjust income tax on wage earners in Louisiana and have no newspaper down there to take the lead in bringing it to the attention of Congress. Now that a campaign for justice has been started in various parts of the country, we shall be heard from. The people in all parts of the country will rally to the support of the movement which the Hearst newspapers have so energetically undertaken."

KLOOZ FOR REDUCTION

L. Fred Klooz, president of the Roosevelt Hotel Company, called for an extra supply of petitions. He said:

"This movement is just getting started, but in two weeks it will sweep the country, and when Congress convenes in extra session next month the demand of the people for a fair assessment of taxes on wage earners will overshadow everything else. Among our guests here it is one subject over which there is no argument."

LaSalle Girts, vice chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on taxation, who is acting in the absence of Chairman Lloyd W. Smith, announced that he would call his committee for a meeting Friday for action on the question of the downward revision of tax on earned incomes. The report probably will be acted upon at the next meeting of the board of directors.

"Customer" Steals $400 Diamond Ring

A patron who seemed deeply interested in diamonds walked off with a $400 ring from the jewelry store of Jacobs and Friedman Company, 216 Clark Building, this morning, detectives were informed.

A clerk in the store said he had waited on several customers and noticed that one of the patrons left suddenly. An investigation showed that the ring had disappeared.

FLASHLIGHT STIRS PANIC AS CAPONE AWAITS QUIZ

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP.)—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader, summoned to appear before a federal grand jury, today appeared suddenly and mysteriously in the United States district attorney's office a few minutes beforde he was scheduled to go before the jury.

Capone, wearing a bright blue suit and a broad smile, was found seated in the district attorney's office while deputy United States marshals were guarding a corridor leading to the marshal's office where he had been expected to appear.

The gang leader refused to talk to newspapermen. He was not accompanied by any members of his gang, apparently, and no one connected with him was found inside or outside the Federal Building.

Capone finally consented to pose for one picture, and the district attorney's office was thrown into confusion and stenographers screamed as deputy marshals rushed in when a photographer's flashlight gun exploded prematurely.

Capone was called here to testify regarding the operation of liquor and gambling syndicates in Chicago Heights and other Chicago suburbs. His attorneys had stated that he would not testify unless given an "immunity bath," and district attorney's office has indicated that such immunity from prosecution would not be granted.

ARMS LOST, HIS CHILD ILL, BUT LUCK TURNS AT LAST

After weeks of multiplying misfortunes, there has come a turn for the better in the affairs of George A. Shirer, of 1110 Grand avenue, North Side.

Shirer's lot had been a hard one, indeed. First, he lost both his arms, the right one at the shoulder and the left at the elbow. Then he suffered an attack of rheumatism that left him unable to work even at jobs he had managed to keep without his arms.

But fate had yet its cruelest blow to deliver to the Shirer family. Shirer's daughter, 6, contracted pneumonia six weeks ago and as a sequel developed tuberculosis.

With these misfortunes overwhelming the Shirer family, the turn for the better came at last. Mrs. George A. Ley, of 1444 Duffield street, heard of the case. She communicated at once with her friends and Thursday night will hold a benefit bridge party for the Shirer family in the Hotel Schenley.

With the funds raised, Shirer's financial burden will be lifted and his stricken daughter will be sent away to the Pennsylvania mountains, there to have her chance for health and life.

COLLINS' BODY STOLEN, FOUND

HORSE CAVE, Ky., March 20.—(AP)—The body of Floyd Collins, who died after a 17-day battle to save his life when he was trapped in a sand cave in 1925, today again rested in its bronze and glass casket in Crystal Cave after its theft and recovery Yesterday. Dr. H. B. Thomas, owner of Crystal Cave, said an investigation would be pushed until the thieves were apprehended.

The body, which Dr. Thomas says has become completely mummified since its burial in Crystal Cave, was missed early yesterday. Aid of sheriffs of three counties was sought and yesterday afternoon the body was found on the banks of Green River, wrapped in a burlap sack, about 400 yards from entrance to the cave.

Dr. Thomas is at a loss to account for the motive of the thieves. He says he has no doubt that they expected to return to the river bank for the remains of the mountaineer cave explorer later.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure continues over the Gulf states, with a ridge extending westward to a high over the Pacific Coast states, but with diminished intensity. The low that was centered north of the lakes yesterday morning, is now far down the St. Lawrence valley, and another well defined low is centered over Manitoba, lowest barometer, 29.44 inches, at Minnedosa. The Southwest low moved eastward, and is now centered south of New Mexico.

This distribution of pressure is causing much cloudiness this morning, but no precipitation except at widely scattered places. Light rains occurred since yesterday morning over the lake region, and the Mississippi and Ohio Valley states. It is somewhat colder over the central valleys and warmer over the Atlantic Coast states and over the Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Pittsburgh is 16.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.0; Dam No. 6, 15.5; Dam No. 9, 16.9, and Dam No. 12, 15.4. The dams are down.

New two years ago —in the mode today

THE Lincoln's perennial beauty is untouched by passing fads and fancies. The Lincoln that first saw service two years ago is still one of the smartest cars on the boulevard. Its beauty is independent of time and place. . . . This two-year-old car is admired today for the fine thing it is—a Lincoln.

Lincolns that have stood the test of service — splendid cars with only a few thousand miles of use—are purchasable at prices that in no way indicate their true values. These cars are as smart—as much in the current mode—as new cars. They are as powerful, as quiet, and as thoroughly capable as a car can be made. They will provide a kind of satisfaction in motoring difficult to experience outside Lincoln ownership.

A few such Lincolns are now to be seen on our floor. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition. We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation. Drop in today.

SCHOOL BOARD O. K.'S BUILDING BOND ISSUE

The Board of Public Education has approved the $3,000,000 building bond issue providing for the erection of one new school, several additions and two athletic fields.

At the same time, action was deferred on the recommendation for two other new structures, the Lemington School and the Knoxville Junior High School. It was urged that these be given first consideration in the 1930 building program.

The building program for 1929, provided for in the bond issue, includes an addition to the Madison School to cost $204,000; Fulton School addition, $177,400; Baxter Junior High School addition; $375,000; new Arsenal Junior High School, $1,500,000; Taylor Allderdice Junior High School addition, $600,000; Douglas farm purchase, $40,000; land at Taylor Allderdice High, $14,000; Connelley Trade School equipment, $400,000; painting of new building, $29,200; Peabody athletic field, $85,000; Crescent School site, $35,000, and proposed South Hills athletic field, $90,000.

Action on a proposal that a committee confer with Council to gain permission for use of a part of Allegheny Park for an athletic field and stadium for use of Allegheny High and other schools, was deferred until a detailed plan of the project could be prepared.

$17,338 School Jobs Awarded by Board

Contracts for improvements totaling $17,338 were awarded by the Board of Public Education yesterday. Firms getting the awards and their bids were Bardona Nursery, landscaping Langley athletic field, $3,950; Freeland's Nurseries, Langley High playground landscaping, $6,750; Squirrel Hill Nursery, Administration Building and Allderdice athletic field, total $5,443; Safety Guard and Manufacturing Company, East Street School flagpole, $295; Builders Steel Works Company, Somers Vocational School flagpole, $285; Standard Floor Company, Linwood School, maple floor work, $217, and Rodden Electric Company, $398.

Westinghouse Gets U. S. Vessel Orders

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announced today that it has received an order covering all electrical equipment, including the turbo-electric propulsion, for three new United States Coast Guard cutters. When these three new cutters are placed in service, the United States Coast Guard will then have eight new vessels of the cruising type equipped with Westinghouse electrical apparatus.

Two Found Guilty In Taxicab Holdup

Accused of having held up a taxicab and taken $4 from the driver February 19, at Hazelwood and Sylvan avenues, Joseph McCarthy, 4419 Sylvan avenue, and Fred A. Haney, 1853 Fifth avenue, both of McKeesport, were convicted by a jury in Criminal Court. They were tried before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen and will be sentenced later. Both were passengers in a taxicab driven by James L. Brown, McKeesport.

Fulton School Annex Contracts Are Let

Contracts were awarded by the Board of Public Education yesterday for the erection of the Fulton School addition. The awards were made to Rubenstein Construction Company, general work, $141,240; Midgley Heating Company, heating and ventilating, $28,856; Julius Zangrille, plumbing, $12,200; W. C. Hammerle Electric Company, electric, $12,288, a total cost of $194,584.

COUNCIL ASKS ABOUT TRAFFIC PLAN DELAY

Public Safety Director James M. Clark has been called upon by Council to explain the withholding of contracts on bids received February 15 for traffic control equipment in the outlying districts and the reason for rejecting bids on two previous occasions.

President James F. Malone declared at a meeting of Council that the city, about a year ago, had appropriated $28,000 for the traffic system in question and that the installation still seemed remote.

Burton W. Marsh, traffic engineer, explained to Malone that bids were first advertised last October and on two subsequent occasions and that he did not know why they were rejected.

Marsh had appeared before Council to explain a request for authority to buy additional equipment costing $2,886.87 for the downtown traffic control system. Malone and Councilman John S. Herron objected to granting the extra funds on the ground that a contract for the entire system was let recently on a bid of about $68,000. Marsh explained the extra material under discussion would permit control of each section of the system in the City-County Building instead of having separate control of districts.

The protests of Malone and Herron were futile, as the extra expenditure was approved by the other councilmen present, R. J. Alderdice, Robert Garland, Harry A. Little and P. J. McArdle.

Sheriff and Chief Clash on "Petting"

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 20.—Sheriff Adam Stone and Police Chief J. J. McNicholas are clashing over the matter of "petting parties." Sheriff Stone is waging war on petters. Chief McNicholas, on the other hand, declares he will not interfere with people who stop their cars in public parks to "hold hands." He declines to co-operate in the sheriff's campaign to stop spooning.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income, as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

"Hey, Bill! I don't know which cigarette this is... but it sure wins my vote!"

W. H. (Bill) McCord, of Post & McCord . . . steel contractors for world's tallest skyscraper, new Chrysler building in New York, holds cigarette test with 94 workers.

Listen, friend. You're smoking a certain brand of cigarettes today because you honestly feel that it's the best brand for you.

And maybe you're right . . . certainly all tastes are not alike.

But have you ever really checked up on your choice? Have you ever said to Old Man Habit, "Now you step out of the room a minute. I'm going to smoke the four leading brands with brand names forgotten and let my taste tell me which cigarette is the best."

That's sporting . . . isn't it?

The other day one of these tests was conducted among the huskiest fellows in New York. A crew of those two-fisted chaps who work with steel girders, sky-high above the city streets.

There was no favoritism about it. These men selected their own boss, Mr. W. H. (Bill) McCord, as referee and score keeper. He dealt out the cigarettes with dark paper bands concealing the names. Each cigarette was numbered. All Mr. McCord said was, "Tell me, by number, which one you like best."

The box score tells its own story. 69 out of 94 men voted for OLD GOLD.

OLD GOLD wins time after time in these public tests, because it is made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant—Nature's finest. And because its very smoothness makes "not a cough in a carload" an obvious fact, as well as a popular slogan.

Stronger Bones, Better Teeth for your Children

Now a famous hot breakfast food gains needed Sun Vitamin from Ultra-Violet Rays

THIS is important news for mothers. Now for the first time, it's possible to get in a hot breakfast food—Quaker Farina—the bone building effect of sunshine!

Sunlight's part in health is generally known. But scientists only recently have learned just why sunlight has such beneficial effects. They call the reason Vitamin "D." This vitamin takes lime from the bloodstream, changes it into bones and muscle. No matter how much lime-containing food a child may eat, if Vitamin "D" is lacking, it yields only limited lime. When a child lacks the sun vitamin, bones fail to develop properly, appetite is poor. He catches cold easily.

In winter, children practically everywhere suffer from too little sunshine. 90% in northern cities, authorities say. So health authorities have long sought for a simple, easy way to give everybody more "sunshine." Now that way has been found. It is by "irradiating" Quaker Farina, famous hot breakfast food, with Ultra-Violet Light under the Steenbock Process. Thus it gains the "sun vitamin" and can pass it on to you!

All grocers have the new Irradiated Quaker Farina. This cereal is made of the creamy white heart of the wheat. It's of fine flavor, easy and quick to digest. And now because of Vitamin "D," it is healthful as no other hot cereal can claim to be. Start serving it to your children. NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated although some packages are not so marked.

This lad is getting plenty of sunshine—but only summer offers such opportunities

FEAR OF 'HEXER' BLOCKS GIRL'S DEATH CLUES

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Developments in the investigation of the death of Verna Octavia Delp have led the authorities to believe that the pretty 21-year-old girl was slain at a gun club near Catasaqua, Pa., and her body taken in a motor car to a nearby field, where it was found Saturday.

Police said that the investigation had been hampered because residents of the community who might throw light on the mystery surrounding the girl's death had kept silent for fear that a "hex doctor" would cast a spell upon them.

SEEK CAR DRIVER

They felt certain, they said, that Miss Delp had been taken to the gun club grounds Friday in an automobile and efforts were being made today to learn the identity of the driver of the car.

The authorities have been unable to learn what happened at the club Friday and they attribute the silence of some of those questioned to fear of the "hex" doctor.

"It is hard to believe that people will withhold information at this time because of such ridiculous reasons," said District Attorney Gearhart, "but it is true nevertheless. The investigators have encountered silence at nearly every point."

The District Attorney said he was convinced the girl's death was the result of the practice of witchcraft. This assertion was made after Frank Masters, a former friend of Miss Delp, had been absolved of any connection with her death.

Masters said that he had stopped going with the girl when he learned that she was friendly with another man and declared he had not seen her for several months.

SUICIDE DISCOUNTED

At least one of the cabalistic "hexer" notes found in the bosom of Miss Delp's dress is believed by the authorities to have been written by her, probably at the dictation of a "powwow" doctor. The writing was similar to that in letters written by the girl to Masters.

Physicians at a local hospital said it would be several days before they could complete the examination of the viscera of the body to determine what poison caused the girl's death.

The theory of suicide has been abandoned by the police.

NO TIME FOR LUNCH? YOU WON'T MISS IT IF YOU NIBBLE NESTLÉ'S

IPM

EVERYBODY praises the mellower, creamier flavor of Nestlé's Milk Chocolate. The secret is this—it's made with the purest, freshest, full-cream milk. And all that rich cream goes into Nestlé's until it's "richest in cream" of all. Look for the clean, silvery wrapper. In 5c and 10c bars, plain or almond.

Train Chief Hurt On "Speeder" Dies

Ralph Schramm, 30, of Cumberland, Md., a supervisor of train service for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, died in Mercy Hospital today of a fractured skull.

The morgue report said that he was injured when he was thrown from a railroad motorcycle—"a gas speeder"—in Gratztown, Westmoreland County, on February 18.

Blast Hurls Miner's Children From Beds

BRIDGEPORT, O., March 20.—The wife and five children of James Kunick, miner, were thrown out of their beds today when dynamite wrecked the front of their home near here. None was injured. Kunik was a leader in the "Save-the-Union" movement in Belmont County last spring.

HARRIS VOTING MACHINE BILL GETS HONOR

Special Telegram to the Sun-Telegraph.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 20.—Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton, will have the sole honor of sponsoring the voting machine measure that will go through this session of the Legislature.

The plan to call the bill the Harris-Davis measure has been abandoned.

Senator Albert Davis, Scranton, sponsor of the other voting machine measure, stated that the one he reported out today is the Harris bill.

"I reported it from committee with an affirmative recommendation," he said. "It is Senator Harris' bill."

From the opening day of the session it was known that organization leaders, basing their faith on the 400,000 majority in favor of voting machines, were in favor of some act that would put the new method of voting in practice.

The leaders of the organization Sunday decided they must pass a voting machine bill. The Harris bill was the one upon which they decided to concentrate, although they asked Deputy Attorney General William Schnader to combine the best features of the bills introduced by Harris and Davis.

JUDGE ANGERED BY ACQUITTAL 'FIRES' JURY

"We might as well close up Criminal Court if juries are to function in the manner that this body has," visiting Judge Charles M. Culver, of Bradford County, stated today in "firing" a jury in Criminal Court after a "not guilty" verdict had been returned in the case of Michael McCabe, 33, of River avenue, North Side.

"You have insulted the court and by such a verdict have placed the court's seal on such crimes.

"When highwaymen lie in wait and attack and rob workmen—and this was proven beyond a doubt—and then a jury renders a 'not guilty' verdict, it is plainly evident that they do not appreciate their responsibility and oaths as jurors."

After ordering the jurors paid and dismissed from further duty, Judge Culver ordered McCabe arrested on his own testimony and placed in jail. McCabe had testified that on the night of February 27, when Frank Potetz, of McKees Rocks, had been robbed, he was playing cards and drinking. The judge ordered charges of violating the Snyder act and being a common gambler placed against McCabe, who went to jail in default of $2,000 bail.

Hands Mate Gun To Kill Self, Faces Trial

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., March 20.—(A.P.)—Because Mrs. Rogerson Sawyer has admitted that she handed her husband a pistol when he threatened during a quarrel to commit suicide, she must stand trial in June charged with moral responsibility for his death.

She was at liberty today under $1,000 bond after the grand jury had returned a true bill charging that she encouraged the final act. The jurors refused to indict for murder as asked by the state.

Ernest Sawyer, at that time clerk of Superior Court, killed himself last December 7. Mrs. Sawyer testified at an inquest that they had quarrels and that she responded to his suicide threat by giving him a pistol. It was this weapon, she admitted, with which he shortly afterward fired a bullet into his brain.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Sore Throat Dangers When irritation, inflammation and difficulty in swallowing warn you of sore throat, take Tonsiline right off. It usually brings speedy relief. At druggists, 35c, 60c. Hospital size $1.00.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

AUTO STOLEN TO KEEP DATE WITH GIRL

To keep a date with a girl, William Lenz, 19, of 1635 East Thirty-fourth street, Cleveland, stole an automobile in that city and came to Pittsburgh last night, police said.

The date never was kept, because Lieut. Frank McNichols and Patrolman Levy Neff, riding through Schenley Park, discovered Lenz sleeping in the car. He fled when awakened by the officers, and was captured a short distance away.

Lenz confessed, according to police, that the car had been stolen. He refused to divulge the name of his girl friend, who formerly lived in Cleveland. Lenz was arrested on a suspicious person charge and will be turned over to Cleveland authorities, police said.

Bridge Plant, Down 17 Months, to Open

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 20.—After a shutdown of 17 months, the Penn Bridge Company, of College Hill, will resume operations within 60 days, it is announced. The company has been reorganized and financed. The new officers are president, J. M. Grier, Pittsburgh; vice president in charge of operations, Charles A. White, New Brighton; vice president and chief engineer, Louis Vincent, Pittsburgh; secretary, Homer H. Swaney, Beaver Falls and treasurer, A. S. McCombe, Pittsburgh.

Woman Sentenced For Cutting Boarder

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 20.—Annie McDuffie, Negro, of Montour No. 1, pleading guilty to slashing E. D. Shelton, erstwhile star boarder in her home, who decided to move while owing her a bill. She attacked him with a razor. Judge Erwin Cummins sentenced her to three months in the county jail.

Why Drug the Stomach

When Your Blood Cells Control High Blood Pressure and Most All Chronic Diseases?

The blood stream is merely the medium through which these energies float and carry on their duties. If the stream is thick and slovenly, if engorged, swollen, contracted or tortuous, is not the function hampered or arrested as the case may be? A clot in the brain—apoplexy. If a stoppage in the lungs or limbs—dropsy. If in the brain—paralysis. If in the heart—sudden death. If in the eye—blindness If too much blood—vertigo, insomnia. Repeated colds, low vitality, due to faulty blood. The germs themselves are harmless, but the toxins formed by them produce the poisoning. If an infection takes place, what suffers? The blood. In fever, where is temperature the highest? In the blood. In malaria, where is the germ? In the blood. In diphtheria, smallpox, rheumatism, gout—nearly all infections find their seat in the blood stream. Don't you believe it is time to give some special thought to these basic facts and eliminate this stomach drugging, which you know is wrong, neglecting the one only sure and effective avenue of medication—the blood stream?

Lack of Protein Hinders Cells' Work

Chemical analysis and physiological investigation establishes the living principle in the protoplasmic cell—the physical unit in both animal and plant life. When the body cells undergo degenerative changes in Bright's Disease, arteriosclerosis and in all chronic diseases, we find distinct and demonstrable evidence of impairment in nutrition.

Brownsville on New Pittsburgh Air Line

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 20.—Marshall C. Hoppman, of the Department of Commerce, in a visit here yesterday, said that Brownsville may soon be located on an air route between Pittsburgh and Washington. He stated that a proposed air line between Pittsburgh and Washington probably would be operated next year. This route as mapped out places Brownsville to the southwest, but the route could be deviated to include Brownsville if an adequate airport were provided here he said. Hoppman inspected six airport sites.

Sun Made Wine On Truck, Says Defendant

ERIE, Pa., March 20.—Judges W. H. S. Thompson and R. M. Gibson in Federal Court yesterday afternoon were called upon to decide between grape juice and wine. B. I. Miller, of Fairview, Erie County, was ordered to pay a fine of $50 after he said that the sun beating down on his truck had helped in the fermentation of the grape juice and that it had been his intention to deliver grape juice to a friend in Erie. Miller claimed he had made the grape juice the night before it was seized.

W.VA. EDUCATOR NAMED AID TO DAVIDSON

Dr. Samuel Edwin Weber, of Charleston, W. Va., has been named associate superintendent of Pittsburgh Public Schools in charge of personnel. The appointment was made by the Board of Public Education on recommendation of Supt. William M. Davidson.

Dr. Weber, at present superintendent of Charleston schools, will assume his duties as soon as he can obtain release from his present connection. The salary has been set at $10,000 a year.

The new associate superintendent was born in Ellis, Mo., in July, 1875, but attended public schools in Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of Lafayette and took a doctor of philosophy's degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

The appointment followed recommendations of a special commission appointed by the board and urged by the Citizens' Committee on Teachers' Salaries to develop an organization for the purpose of grading teachers. This system will permit the establishment on a basis upon which salaries can be determined. Among his other duties, Dr. Weber will make recommendations for advancement of such teachers rendering superior service; provide direction to the training of teachers and principals in service who aspire to qualify for the superior service salary levels and develop a program for the selection of new teachers brought into the school system.

Dobbin Through, Can't Even Give Him Away

WHEELING, W. Va., March 20.—The time has come when two men fight in court to disclaim ownership of a horse, and when nobody throughout the city will accept a horse as a gift.

The situation developed here when D. S. Nesbitt, a grocer, and Frank Branfass, livery stable operator, each sought to have the other declared the legal owner of a certain horse.

Nesbitt was the original owner of the animal, which he kept in Branfass' stable. Tiring of the expense, he asked Branfass to sell or give the horse away. Branfass did not or could not, so the horse was kept at the stable for 18 months. The Branfass sued Nesbitt for the bill.

Not only that, but search as they would, officers were unable to find anybody in the city who would accept the horse as a gift.

Held Up and Robbed On Railroad Bridge

Three Negroes held up Joseph Merik, of 215 Voeghtley street, on the Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge at Tenth street and robbed him of $73 in cash and a $13 watch last night, Merik told police.

Why Not Help Your Stomach

If it bothers you? Indigestion and its results—sour stomach, headaches, gas, rheumatism, too much acid which causes colds—quickly vanish with daily use of ACIDINE.

ACIDINE is better because it contains: 1. An entirely new combination of the best anti-acids. 2. A substantial amount of a powerful starchy food digestant, which eliminates one great cause of indigestion—inability to digest starches. 3. A protein digestant for meats. 4. A protective soothing preparation to prevent inflammation of the stomach walls. 5. A carminative to tone up and put life into the stomach. 6. The best, finest, purest U. S. P. materials it is possible to make.

It is a new discovery, recommended by doctors,—an ultra modern medicine for stomach troubles and resulting ills. No home should ever be without it. Your druggist recommends it or write the makers, Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Beauty!

The New Brambach

For more than a Hundred Years the Brambach has enjoyed a high reputation for its excellence of quality and beauty of tone. In fact, it has construction features not found in instruments at any price. Dainty in appearance, small in size, equipped with the patented Tone Expander, perfectly balanced action, and a ruggedness of workmanship, which contribute so markedly to that desirable feature in the Grand Piano you wish for your home—durability. An instruments which even the most exacting critic will find pleasing in all those essentials found only in true quality pianos. Yet so very modest in price SOLD ON TYPICAL SCHROEDER LOW PAYMENT TERMS.

LARRY RICH, MARIAN EVANS HEAD RADIO ATTRACTIONS

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

THAT funny man of the vaudeville stage—Larry Rich—who admits he has heard of Paul Whiteman, will make "whoopee" tonight in a special program over WCAE at 11:30 p. m. Marian Evans, recording artist, and Ray Mayer will help whoop it up.

WCAE will offer Dolores Cassinelli in a new chain program, the Happy Bakers, at 8:30 o'clock.

Selections from Friml's "Sometime" will be heard during the Foresters' program over KDKA at 8:30 p. m.

"Thelma" is the Show Boat production over WJAS at 8 o'clock.

SPEED DEMON AGAIN

The effort of Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave, already holder of the world's automobile speed record at 231 miles an hour, to wrest the motorboat speed record from Commodore Gar Wood, the American defender, on the Biscayne Bay, Miami, course today and tomorrow, will be broadcast over WCAE at approximately 4 o'clock.

Maj. Seagrave's boat is called the "British Challenger." Gar Wood's boat, "Miss America, Seventh," holds the world's record at 97.8 miles an hour. Jesse H. Jay, former boat builder and yacht expert, will describe the race. He will be introduced by William S. Lynch, NBC announcer.

WILD HOLLYWOOD SATURDAY NIGHT AS QUIET AS ANY MAIN STREET TOWN

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.

VERA GORDON traipsed to a party. She went upstairs to disperse of coat and hat. A friend came over and they chatted.

"They're doin' that hand kissing business downstairs," Vera confided as she reached into her bag, excavating a perfume phial. "I'm no fool," she beamed, rubbing a little on her own hands!

WILD HOLLYWOOD ON A SATURDAY NITE. Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, and Mrs. Daniels strolling into the Egyptian Theater to see a movie!

Speaking of Saturday nite, Hollywood boulevard on that eve resembles for fair the perfect Main street. Nearly every store is open. Swarms of people, the majority in variegated sport attire, stroll about. Cars stream up and down the boulevard. Accordion players, mandolin strummers, freak venders bid for pennies, nickels and dimes. Huddled in cadaverous bank entrance stands a weary eyed man promoting dancing dolls. A candle protected in an upright cigar box provides footlights for his product! A lollipop writer huddles over his "canvas" in a small candy store window writing coy colloqualisms on lollipops. Myriads of people who ordinarily stay home mill east and west in no hurry to get any place and careful to see others do likewise. Oh, boy, but it makes an exile homesick for Coney Island!

At Sixty Per Star Hits Tree

THE motor playboys 'pear to be giving late home comers the w. k. crowd act. Not so long ago, Dot Farley started home from nite work at the Hal Roach studio in Culver City. A coupla road hi-jinkers followed her and tried to push her car to the curb. Miss Farley stepped on the gas and reached home in safety. But nary a policeman did she spot all along the route.

Claire Windsor.

Marie Prevost was coming home from a friend's house in Bev Hills when a coupla motor playboys gave her the rush act. Marie clamped her foot down on the accelerator of her new Lincoln and breezed. She was hitting around 60 along the Bridle Path when, losing control of her car, it zowed into a tree. The playboys kept going. An hour later, a Samaritan hove into view and Marie hove back to consciousness. She suffered a badly smacked nose, which healed calmly enough.

A week ago, while week-ending with a gang at Hoot Gibson's mountain shack, Marie noticed the bridge of her nose turning beet-ish. She hit the trail to Hollywood and was operated on, the dok having to remove a bit of bone. Seemed that oil from her wrecked car had dripped on her wrecked proboscis and became infected. Marie is pretty lucky to be on the up and up and able to traipse with Doug MacLean in "Divorce Made Easy."

Zazu Powders Her Shiny Nose

ZASU PITTS and JULANNE JOHNSTONE lunching at ye Montmartre and Zasu deciding to powder her nose because Julanne's was a bit shiny! . . . SUE CAROL has bought herself a new home in Bev Hills. . . . AL CHRISTIE brought his favorite wire-haired fox terrior to the studio tother day. The little feller is 7 years old and is valued at a mere thousand dollars. . . . CLAIRE WINDSOR is seeing the sights of Havana these days. . . . VIOLA DANA trekking to San Francisco to rehearse in a stage play, "Spite Marriage," by Frank Craven. The legit is home sweet home to Vi. . . . A big racing day at Tia Juana on Sunday, with accounts of the revolution keeping a number of faithful standbys ter hum. . . . CONNIE TALMADGE and her fiance, T. Netcher, Lili Damiti, "Big Boy" Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borzage, Dorothy Sebastian and Clarence Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schildkraut among the hundreds in the club house joining voices with thundering hoofs. . . . LILYAN TASHMAN and an erstwhile Broadway chum speeding down Sunset blvd. Lilyan's Manhattan trip is out once more yet again. She starts work pretty soon in the "Gold Diggers," playing the role she played on the stage when Ina Claire dug deeper than the other fems. . . .

EXERCISE KEEPS :-: THESE ACTRESSES :-: FAIR AND HEALTHY

These girls, in "Blossom Time," now current on the Alvin stage, say that exercise not only keeps them in A-1 physical condition but it also improves their singing. Gymnasium work has been included on the daily routine of all chorus girls with the production.

Boxing is great exercise, says movie-making Mary Brian, whose new picture has to do with the squared-ring.

Marie Prevost.

Raquel Torres, cute Mexican actress, keeps fit for her various film roles by a little indoor tennis now and then.

New Fish Story By Mr. MacLean

DOUGLAS MacLEAN was reminiscing about a fish story his dad used to tell 25 years ago. No one in the family believed him but it ambles like this. The Rev. Mr. MacLean holidayed on a fishing trip to Catalina. Returning home, he recounted how on his first day of fishing he snagged what felt to be an average sized fish. He started pulling in his catch. When suddenly, the line became taut and he couldn't pull it. The catch started for the shore, towing the boat after it. It climbed onto a rock, revealing itself a sea-lion. The MacLean family and relatives laughed mightily at this amazing tale.

Douglas MacLean.

But—25 years late Doug came West and in due course went a-fishing at Catalina. An aged guide named Capt. Fisher piloted the craft. During the course of the day, the name MacLean reminded him of an earlier MacLean and the old codger narrated the story of the sea-lion swallowing the fish and towing the boat to shore!

MORAL: Give the fisherman an even break. . . .

TWAIN TALE NEXT IN ALVIN

Mark Twain's story of the Yankee who dreamed he was back in the days of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table, has been made into a musical comedy, "A Connecticut Yankee." It will be shown in the Alvin next week with the original cast headed by William Gaxton. The seat sale opens tomorrow.

Featured in the two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville in the Davis next week will be Harry Langdon, star of many motion picture comedies, and little Jay Ward, who will appear with Ward and Dooley. The bill will include seven other acts.

"Dracula," mystery melodrama, will play four more days in the Nixon, with matinees today and Saturday. This announced "positively" the last week in Pittsburgh.

Televox to Perform For Chemical Society

Televox, mechanical man, will go through its tricks tomorrow night at a smoker of the American Chemical Society in the Bureau of Mines auditorium. Roy J. Wesley, inventor, who arrives from New York tomorrow morning, will be in charge of the Televox demonstration.

New! Cook-Book Cake!

Exact recipe with each cake

Cherry Square Cake

Now at your grocer's

a "home-made" cake made from a Cook-Book Recipe —just as you'd make it yourself

Today, at your grocer's, you can buy a cake that's made just as you would make it yourself—from an old-fashioned Cook-Book Recipe.

Luscious CHERRY SQUARE is a new 2-layer white cake. Rich with milk and whites of eggs. Iced with red, ripe cherries in thick butter-cream icing. Delicious—as only rich icing and plenty of cherries can make it.

Exact recipe inside each wrapper

To give this cake its "home-made" taste, we make it as you would. From a tested Cook-Book Recipe—followed to the letter. (Inside each wrapper you will find the exact recipe we use. All ingredients and measurements.)

Make a CHERRY SQUARE Cake yourself from this recipe, if you care to, and compare it with ours. You will then see that this is a real Cook-Book Cake—that it must be baked with purest milk, freshest eggs and butter, and the best grade of sugar, pastry flour and flavoring extract to taste so good.

And this is true of all Grennan Cook-Book Cakes.

Money-back guarantee

Your grocer now has many varieties of delicious Cook-Book Cakes. Try one. If you don't agree that it is perfectly delicious—and that it has a real "home-made" taste—return the unused portion and get your money back. We want you to do this. We will repay your grocer.

LONGWORTH URGED TO PUT REAPPORTIONMENT FIRST

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Speaker Nicholas Longworth has been asked to "say the word" that will give House reapportionment legislation the right of way at the forthcoming extra session of Congress.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the House, on his return to the capital yesterday, announced that he would exert himself to obtain passage of a reapportionment bill at the extra session.

WATSON SEEKS ACTION

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, also indicated his purpose to obtain action there on a reapportionment bill.

It is not Tilson's purpose to ask for organization of the House Census Committee, which considers reapportionment legislation, unless events after Congress convenes make that course necessary.

RIGHT OF WAY ASKED

His desire is that the Senate act first on reapportionment and its related subject of census taking for 1930, as the House already twice has passed reapportionment bills only to see them die in the Senate.

Once the upper body passes a bill, a special rule can be reported in the House, providing for immediate consideration of the Senate bill, Tilson pointed out. Such a course would obviate the necessity of convening the Census Committee. McLeod's letter to Speaker Longworth said:

"Certainly, all other business before the Congress must necessarily be predicated upon the lawful constitution of Congress itself.

"Logically, therefore, everything else should be subordinated to a measure designed to remedy this serious situation, and a continuous, sustained effort should be made by the House, especially as reapportionment concerns the House primarily, to bring about a Constitutional Congress at the earliest possible time.

"Knowing that a word from you will be sufficient to decide this matter in favor of action on reapportionment, I respectfully request that the House be organized to deal with this question from the very beginning of the special session."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A TINY TOT

Printed lawn was chosen for this model, with organdy for the pockets. China silk in white or pastel shades is also attractive. Cotton prints, pongee and crepe de chine are suggested. This design is simple and charming. The raglan sleeve is very comfortable and dainty in the puff formation of the illustration. A neat collar and pleasing pockets complete this style.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6 months, 1, 2 and 3 years. To make the dress for a 2-year size will require 1⅝ yards of 36-inch material. For pockets and facing of contrasting material on collar and cuffs ¼ yard 27 inches wide is required.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gets 2-Year Term For Shooting Wife

BEAVER, Pa., March 20.—Tinsley Jordan, of Bridgewater, who pleaded guilty to shooting his wife, was sentenced to two years in the workhouse by Judge William A. McConnell. Mrs. Jordan told the court her husband shot her, locked her in her room and refused to call a physician.

Council Authorizes 5 Draftsmen's Jobs

Council has affirmed an ordinance authorizing the Department of Public Works to employ five draftsmen at $2,034 a year each for the division of surveys after amending the measure by eliminating a request for two principal assistant engineers at $3,600 each.

"Dead" Man Runs Amuck in Car; Only "Drunk"

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 20.—Two street car men believed they had found a dead man lying along the rails. Placing him on the car they had almost reached Brownsville when the "victim" revived and ran amuck, tearing the clothes from Motorman Mike Harford, of Uniontown. Reaching Brownsville, he continued on his rampage, but was finally subdued by a policeman and six pedestrians. He identified himself as Joseph Volteck, and said he had been "drinking."

Washington Girl Missing from Home

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 20.—Maxine Blue, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Blue, of 609 West Chestnut street, has been missing from her home since Sunday night. She was wearing a black dress, blue coat and a red hat. She had black bobbed hair, black eyes and is about five feet, five inches tall.

Safety Platforms Voted by Council

Council has affirmed an ordinance appropriating $2,300 for safety platforms for street car patrons at intersections of Liberty avenue, Ferry street and Diamond street and at Liberty avenue, Grant street and the driveway of Union station.

University Teacher Convicted in Bribery

READING, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Spencer B. Roland, teacher at Temple University, was found guilty yesterday of corrupt solicitation and bribery by a jury in Quarter Sessions court. It required only 45 minutes for the jury to decide that Roland gave a bribe of $100 wrapped around a hip flask of brandy to City Sealer Joseph T. Hayes, in connection with a coal shortage prosecution. The commonwealth contended Roland gave the money to Hayes to induce him to overlook the sale of short weight coal by a company in which Roland was interested.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Helen Todd Selects April 5 as Date for Her Marriage

SOMEONE has said life's a bit like a checkerboard—sometimes dark and sometimes light. But for some weeks the light squares have nearly disappeared. Now that Lent is nearly over, it's marvelously revivifying, isn't it, to find that everything, like the sky, is brightening up.

Although not a great many definite plans have been made for the spring months, we all know there are going to be some interesting events during April, and May and June. In April we shall have weddings, of course, with a few to be held in May. The month of roses will bring not only June brides but June debutantes. As I said some weeks ago, we're going to have a particularly interesting "little season" that month.

With Easter only a little more than a week off, we're beginning to hear of dates for April marriages. As usual, the first two weeks will be popular with brides-to-be.

HELEN TODD, daughter of George A. Todd, of the Schenley Apartments, whose engagement to G. Warren Wattles, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Warren Wattles, of Denniston avenue, was made known in January, has named a spring date for her wedding. Friday, April 5, is the day set for the ceremony, to be performed at 7 o'clock in the Third Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, of that church, and the Rev. Dr. C. Ronald Garmey, of Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, will be the officiants.

Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd will be her sister-in-law's matron of honor, and Darrel Ewing Morrow will be her maid of honor. Darrel's father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson Morrow, announced her engagement, by the way, to Helen Todd's brother, Robert Charles Todd, last June.

The bridesmaids will be Elizabeth Wattles, sister of the bridegroom; Margaret Rodgers, Mrs. Robert B. Caldwell, Marguerite Hine, all of Pittsburgh; Ruth Alice Brown, of Lake Providence, La., and Margaret Leach, of Baltimore.

James Coffman will be best man; and the ushers will include Kirkland Wiley Todd and Robert Charles Todd, brothers of the bridegroom; French V. Anderson, William H. Gentner, William Elkins, Robert B. Caldwell, all of Pittsburgh; and S. Morris Miller, of Wilmington, Del.

A reception in the University Club will follow the wedding.

FORTUNATELY all during Lent we've had news from home folks who are at the various winter resorts. Miami Beach has been the scene of much entertaining as well as Palm Beach. Among the Pittsburgh colony at Miami is Mrs. Andre E. Rickmers. Mrs. Rickmers and Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, who is related to the William J. Morrises, of Pittsburgh, are giving a luncheon there today in the bath Club, I hear.

* * *

SINCE St. Patrick's day fell on Sunday this year, some folks at the winter resorts deferred their entertainments in memory of Ireland's patron saint until Monday. Mrs. Albert D. Fell, of the Hotel Kenmawr, who is at Ormond Beach, was among the guests at a St. Patrick's dinner, preceding the St. Patrick's dance held at the Ormond Monday night.

League for Peace Head Talks Here

THE signing of the Kellogg treaty and the passage of the cruiser bill present a perfectly fair picture of what this country is, a country so strong and so ignorant that it is a danger to the world, like an adolescent boy in a playground, Miss Emily Balch, national president, told the Pennsylvania conference of the Women's International League for Peace yesterday. The deplorable thing, Miss Balch went on to say, is not that the cruiser bill was passed, but that the passage showed such slack thinking on the part of the people. Education beginning in the nursery is necessary in order to make people comprehend what war would mean, Miss Balch stated. Her brief talk came as the closing feature in the day's conference which was held in the Congress of Clubs. Business and reports occupied the morning session, at luncheon Miss Mildred Scott Olmstead, executive secretary, presided at a leaders' conference, and the afternoon session was opened by Mrs. Margaret Cousins, member from India, who spoke on "The Awakening of Indian Womanhood." Mrs. Cousins, who lived for 12 years in India, was secretary of the Woman's Indian Association and the first honorary woman magistrate, refuted many of the statements in Katherine Mayo's book, "Mother India," terming it slanderous and cruel and saying that the author had used medical reports of 30 years ago. The awakening of Indian womanhood has been incredibly swift, she said, and today the women have equal rights with men, in fact, India is the only country where women receive higher pay than men, but they are still illiterate, which is the source of all their problems. Mrs. Cousins believes that England will withdraw from India within a few years, particularly if the Labor Party goes into power. The national board members met this morning in Mrs. Carroll Miller's home, Von Lent place, and tonight their dinner and reception in the Congress clubhouse will be open to the public.

DR. O. E. JENNINGS, head of the botany department, University of Pittsburgh, will address the Nature Study Club at a dinner meeting tomorrow night in the Congress of Clubs, speaking on "Some Botanical Features of Forbes Forest." Miss Jane Roberts, a junior in Dormont High School, will give a short talk on stars. The board will meet at 5 o'clock to make summer plans for Na-wak-wa-Lodge activities. Many of the members are arranging to spend Easter vacation at the lodge in Forbes Forest near Ligonier. The lodge will be headquarters for the courses in field geology and natural history which will be conducted by the University of Pittsburgh at the request of the club.

MRS. D. K. BALLARD will give readings and there will be music and cards following the dinner which the Outlook Alliance will hold tomorrow night in the Congress clubhouse.

A LUNCHEON will be held tomorrow in the Chatham Hotel by the Presidents' Association, Ladies of the G. A. R.

IN her talk yesterday at the southwestern district meeting, Mrs. John A. Frick, of Allentown, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, stressed the duty of women to uphold the hands of President Hoover in his determination to enforce the laws of the country. Law enforcement was also stressed by Miss Gertrude MacKinney, of Butler, state chairman of legislation. Mrs. Helen R. Godcharles spoke of the lending library work which the federation has established. The morning session was taken up with reports of county work, 9 of the 14 counties being represented. The delegates, 135 in number, represented 65 clubs. The meeting was held in the Hotel Schenley.

"IN THE BALANCE," the junior play which will be presented Sunday afternoon at the joint meeting of the Council of Jewish Women and the Council of Jewish Juniors, is symbolical of the Council and its activities. Miss Bessie A. Kann is directing the players who include Miss Gertrude Friedlander, Miss Peggy Glassner, Miss Sybil Goldman, Miss Edith Horvitz, Miss Ruth Kramer, Miss Ethel Levy, Miss Nettie Lieblich, Mrs. J. A. Meyer, Miss Leora Osgood, Miss Leah Rothman, Miss Ruth Schwartz, Miss Minnie Stein, Miss Leah Steinman, Miss Elinor Wolken, Miss Sylvia Wechsler and Miss Violet Ziff. The meeting will be in the Y. M. & W. H. A.

MRS. CARROLL MILLER, a member of the Women's International League for Peace, will address the Business and Professional Women's Club at its dinner meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow evening. Her subject will be "International Peace." Mrs. Grace Fisher, chairman of music, will present a special musical program.

* * *

MRS. ELIZABETH M. VERMORCKEN will discuss "The Modern Novel" at a meeting of the League of American Pen Women Thursday afternoon in the Woman's City Club. Mrs. Harvey B. Gaul will preside at the tea table.

Truth—In Cap and Bells

IT IS the mission and the punishment of a professional flirt to go through life tapping the hearts of men, that they may overflow—for other women.

* * *

After two years an engagement doesn't have to be broken, it just naturally sags in the middle and comes apart.

When a man says, "Nobody understands me!" don't imagine he is suffering. He is merely trying to let you know in a modest way, that he is a profound, fascinating mystery, too deep for any woman.

Even a capricious woman can be loyal to one man—until she prefers another. But a man's heart is like a shuttle or a ferryboat — always going backward and forward between two women.

Many a man marries one woman in order to escape from a lot of others—and then plays around with a lot of others in order to forget that he is married to one.

The greatest shock an idealistic woman can receive is to wake up after the honeymoon and discover that she is married to a human being with a healthy appetite for beefsteak and onions, and a habit of sleeping with his mouth open.

Never try to keep a husband on a leash. The dog or the man that has to be TIED is always the one that eventually has to be advertised in the "Lost" columns.

A man's first lie makes a woman weep, the second makes her think, the third makes her mad—and all the rest merely make her laugh.

* * *

Horoscope

Thursday, March 21

A MOST flagrant example of the contrary force of the planets is found in this day's astrological chart. While the lunar trine to Uranus is held to indicate advantages and opportunities of signal benefit, though unexpected and revolutionary in nature, sustained by the skill, ingenuity and enlightenment to embrace these successfully, yet every other symbol holds a menace of obstruction and futility. With extraordinary acumen and efficiency, affairs may be engineered to the channels of success.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some sudden and unusual opportunities and advantages, with possible important change or travel, during the year; but these may be captured only by indomitable will, high efficiency and courage in overcoming obstacles and hostilities, subtle and also flagrant.

A child born on this day may have the talents and ingenuity of genius, but other native traits may prove a circumventing force, unless early training mitigate these predispositions.

Nothing is a misery unless our weakness apprehend it so.—Beaumont and Fletcher.

STRANGE when we fall in love how interested we become in all sorts of fortune-telling, isn't it? Some place their faith in what the tea leaves say. Others consult the crystal gazer. Still, others have implicit faith in the ouija board. And some search the world over for the gypsy fortune-teller, who spreads her cards and tells you—nothing!

But each in the hope that they'll be able to draw aside the curtain which obscures the future, and hoping that somehow some way, they'll be able to see the happiness in store for them, try to force the story.

And isn't it foolish? For when love comes to you, you should know that you'll be happy. For love means happiness and your fortune is entirely up to yourself. Even the little gypsy girl tries to make her cards tell the story that she reads for so many others and isn't content with her gypsy lover. And it spoils so much happiness. Be content in what you have and let the future—and love—take care of itself.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Hating Daily Tasks Makes Them Harder

WHAT is "overwork?" Every doctor every day tells his patients not to overwork. What is overwork, anyhow?

The ideal job is one that can be thoroughly done in seven or eight hours, is a pleasure to do, does not cause great fatigue, and can be taken up next day just where it was left. I guess that sort of a job would be hard to find, although it would seem to be most desirable.

DR. COPELAND

Some jobs are hard because they do not appeal to the mind. There is a mental antagonism that prevents happiness and content. They give a sense of overwork almost before they are begun.

The willingness to work and much of the ability to work hard, depend on the mental attitude. If you can get your mind reconciled to the beauty and attractiveness and desirability of the work you are doing, the battle is half won.

A trained mind helps one to adapt himself to his surroundings. The saner you are and the better trained, the more readily you overcome your disgust of a given job. In consequence, the ease of doing it increases.

The converse of this is not necessarily true. Lots of people "plug along" at a job, apparently sublimely indifferent to the whole undertaking. There is no mental rebellion against it. It is just done and that's all.

Merely to be content is not enough. This sort of content is purely animal. It does not show training—on the contrary, it proves the lack of it. It is the submission of the pack mule.

I do not question that many persons are hitched to work for which they are unsuited. Circumstances and necessity are holding them where they don't want to be.

This is unfortunate, because it causes discontent, impatience, bad humor, and unwillingness to work. All these emotions have the effect of friction. They make the work hard and tiring. Under such conditions it is not difficult to overwork.

One of the uses of exercise is to stimulate the action of the heart and lungs. It sends the blood in cleansing stream to every part of the body. It helps to purify the blood and promote the upbuilding of health.

If you enjoy your work, particularly if you revel in it, your emotional state is reflected in the same sort of stimulation of heart and lungs that exercise produces. Consequently, the work is done easily, fatigue does not come in, and the joy of the thing makes it a pleasurable task.

Overwork, overworry, fretfulness, discontent—all these are sisters or cousins. Certainly they belong to the same wicked family.

Don't misunderstand me, you enthusiastic ones! Just because you love your work and are keen to do it, are not sufficient reasons for working too many hours. You may not notice the effects of hard work and will be able to work longer and harder than the man who hates his work, himself and the world. But your nerves and muscles must have rest just the same.

Abundant and well-selected food, plenty of sleep and fresh air and all the other hygenic things, are essential to your continued well-being. Your eyes and all your muscles need a change of use.

With a carefully arranged schedule to work and play, of rest and sleep, you need never suffer the evil effects of overwork. Am I not right?

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Fears That Harry Might Again "Disappear"

I DID not dare look directly at Lillian when I said that her husband would "play second fiddle" to no one else but his young step-daughter. But beneath my lashes I saw her face flush violently—an almost unprecedented breach of her iron poise—and I quaked for fear that I had sorely offended her.

"Did Harry tell you that?" she asked after a long second.

There was no anger in her voice but a faint note of surprise which made me lift my head and look at her steadily.

"Yes, he did." I said, "before Junior's accident when he was debating whether it would not be best for him to disappear again—best for you and Marion, he meant."

She leaned toward me with face suddenly white.

"Harry is thinking of disappearing again?" she said. "Oh! I was afraid of that. I should have known that no one could hold him! The wanderlust has him!"

"Do you know that it would give me the greatest pleasure in the world to box your ears?" I inquired with an exaggerated sweetness of manner. "If you will kindly curb your imagination for a minute or two, I would like to tell you a few facts about your husband which you evidently do not know. In doing this, I am in a sense betraying his confidence, although he imposed no promise of secrecy on me. But I know that if he could see how you were twisting his motives he would wish me to tell you."

She did not attempt to answer me, only gazing steadily at me, her eyes shadowed with pain.

"In the first place," I said, "Harry, whatever his sins of the past, now deeply and sincerely loves you. I'm not going to tell you the glowing romantic terms in which he spoke of you—he can do that himself—but his feeling for you is one of which any wife might be proud."

Her eyes were suddenly starry, the shadows fled. I had done wisely, I saw in sounding that note first.

"In the second place," I went on, "the only reason he had thought of disappearing again was because he feared Marion's aversion to him was making you unhappy. For himself, I would stake a good deal upon his willingness, rather, his longing, to stay in his home the rest of his life. I tried my best to convince him that you needed him, and that he would serve your happiness far better by staying at home than by wandering away again. I think I succeeded, but, of course, you are the only one who can make him feel that."

She opened her lips to speak, but I put up my hand in protest and swept on.

"Thirdly, and lastly, Marion is going to love her stepfather far better than she did Robert Savarin. But you must give the child time. However—forgive me—I think you should give her some idea of what your life was with her father. There is such a thing as gravely injuring the living by mistaken loyalty to the dead."

A little shudder rippled over her, and for a long minute she did not speak. Then she rose and crossed to me, dropping her hand affectionately on my shoulder.

"Blessed old comrade!" she said pleadingly. "Will you do one thing more for me? I can follow your advice in everything else, but I cannot bring myself to discuss Marion's father with her. Would you, could you?"

I reached up and clasped her hand firmly.

"Of course," I promised her. "But just now, she does not need the revelation. She is more kindly disposed toward Harry now than she has been since he came home, a bit remorseful too, for his going away. All you will need to do as far as she is concerned is to be yourself these last weeks you are to have together. But—I think Harry badly needs the assurance that you need him and are happy with him."

"He ought to know that by this time," Harry's wife said smiling, "but I'll see that he gets the information again."

Cleaning Carpets

A dingy carpet can be brightened by using a mop wrung out of tepid water which has had a little ammonia put into it. Turpentine, too, is a good medium for brightening dark colors.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Informal Dress

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Do you think it a wise plan to move your hands about when talking? I think it shows lack of sense. In some respects, of course, it is necessary, but not in all.

2. I am going to a dance. It is going to be informal. Will you please tell me the proper kind of dress to wear? Would it be all right to wear a dress with long sleeves? PUZZLED.

I AGREE with you that to move your hands about when talking seems rather senseless and quite unnecessary.

2. There are so many degrees of informality that I couldn't tell what kind of a frock you should wear without more particulars. Will you write me some more about the party?

Initials—Middle Names

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a senior in high school and I would like to know the proper form for individual cards. Is it proper to have Miss Frances Martha Brown, or just Frances Martha Brown? I would like to have my middle name on the cards, but I am afraid it would be too long. Should Miss be used?

BROWN EYES.

MISS FRANCES MARTHA BROWN, is the correct form. This name is not too long, and you should use the Miss. Use your middle name, if you are fond of it, but do not use an initial to stand for this name.

Meeting His Mother

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am going to meet my fiance's mother in the near future and I would like to know what I should say to her when I am introduced. Is it proper for me to take her hand?

2. What shall I say when I leave?

3. Shall I invite her to my home?

CONSTANT READER.

WHEN such an important introduction as this is made, your fiance's mother will undoubtedly offer you her hand, and, as you take hers, you might say, "How do you do, Mrs. Allen. It is a very great pleasure to meet Bob's mother, and I have heard such beautiful things about you."

2. When you leave, say, perhaps, "Thank you so much for letting me come and meet you and for the happy time I have had. It has given me a special happiness, Mrs. Allen. Please let me see you soon again."

3. Yes, although a definite invitation to, say, dinner at your home would better come later from your mother.

Abused Hospitality

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A son brings home his college room-mate over the holidays. The visitor has previously met the daughter of the house, a young girl over 18, a senior in high school. Do you think it is the place of the guest to take his friend's sister to places of amusement during his visit, or, if he has friends in town, is it perfectly proper for him to spend all his evenings with his outside friends? Will you please let me know just what you think the guest should have done? MRS. M. J.

IT would certainly be most unmannerly of this guest to spend all of his evenings with friends and disregard his hosts. Or even for him to spend any great proportion of them with friends of his who are not known to the family that he is visiting. It would be polite and thoughtful of him to invite the daughter of the family to a matinee or dance or some other kind of party, but it should not be expected that he offer many invitations to her. Since he is the guest of the household, the family would plan one or two parties for him during his visit and the rest of the time he would dine with the family alone. For him to plan his evenings entirely with other friends is to indicate that he is using the home at which he is visiting as a hotel rather than as a home.

You Can't Dye a Dress with Promises!

You can't dye a dress—no matter how careful you may be—without real color. That's the idea behind Diamond Dyes. They are made to give you real service. They contain from three to five times more aniline than other dyes on the market.

Next time you want to dye, try Diamond Dyes. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare results. Note the absence of that re-dyed look; of streaking, or spotting. See how soft, bright, new looking the colors are. Then observe how they keep their brilliance through wear and washing. If you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes, your dealer will refund your money.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool.

Your dealer has both packages.

E. M. HERR WRITES ON PITTSBURGH

HAILS 'CITY OF SPLENDID INDUSTRIAL ACHIEVEMENT'

cated in almost every state in the Union.

The growth of these institutions of higher education has been very remarkable and they now rank among the largest of the collegiate and engineering schools of the country, and are in themselves an evidence that Pittsburgh stands in the front rank of those cities, which can provide the educational facilities needed to fit its young men and women for the most far-reaching and progressive work in its extensive and diversified industries.

Pioneers in Radio

That the industries of Pittsburgh are not only large, but progressive and enterprising, is well known.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was the first to utilize the art of radio transmission for broadcasting, when the art was still in its infancy, and it is this corporation's Station KDKA, located in Pittsburgh, that is the pioneer broadcasting station of the world. It has an unusual record of achievement, as its programs have been heard in practically every civilized country throughout the world and by explorers in both the Arctic and Antarctic regions.

The Westinghouse Company is now pushing forward into the field of radio transmission of form and sound, popularly known as talking movies, and also in television. Its large and splendidly equipped research laboratory is manned by men of the highest technical knowledge and attainments, who are not only keeping this great industry supplied with new developments of a technical and engineering character, necessary for progress in its broad field of endeavor, but are also constantly bringing out new inventions and novel adaptations of their skill in research which frequently enable very remarkable advances to be made.

Super-Engines Built

These advances are not always in the electrical field, as the Westinghouse Company occupies an outstanding position in the field of development and manufacture of prime movers. In this field the engineers of the Westinghouse have brought the steam turbine to a very high degree of efficiency and have constantly found means of increasing the size of such machines until today engines of approximately 200,000 horsepower are not unknown, and even larger sizes could be designed and built, if desired.

The form of internal combustion engine known as the Diesel engine was invented more than half a century ago but because of its weight and slow speed has never been in general use although it is very economical and efficient. Recently the engineers of the Westinghouse Company have developed a form of this engine of very light weight and rapid movement which, although as yet not fully developed, shows great possibilities in low weight per horsepower, combined with compactness and smoothness in operation.

Home Life Easier

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has always taken an active and leading part in the development of apparatus which makes possible the application of electricity to production in mill, mine and factory. Of late years it has also led in the adaptation of electrical devices to the necessities of the home and for domestic uses generally. This field is being rapidly developed, but is still in its infancy, but the day is not far distant when through this agency will be eliminated the household drudgery of dwellers in our cities, as well as the drudgery of those engaged in the fundamentally necessary and highly important work of cultivating and managing the farms, without whose product life could not continue.

When this day comes, Pittsburgh will no longer be known throughout the world as "The Steel City," but, even more important and broadly significant, as "The Electric City."

E. M. Herr

Next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph will contain articles by four distinguished pastors of local churches on "Spiritual Pittsburgh."

There in the shabby room . . . strangely, surprisingly, the most expensive piano in the world!

HIS ROOM was drab—the furniture plain and worn—but there were books and some fine prints—and in the corner, gleaming, a Mason & Hamlin piano.

For this young musician and composer felt that he could scarcely bear to have any piano less than the finest that the world of music knew. He earned only sixty dollars a week by teaching, but his wants were simple . . . his other wants. In music, his wants were soaring. And that, to him, meant a Mason & Hamlin.

So it is that you find these magnificent pianos in two types of home. In the mansions of the world, where famous canvases hang on the walls, where furniture and hangings are of breath-taking splendor, where floors are covered with fabulous Orientals . . . there you find the Mason & Hamlin, costliest of pianos.

And in those lesser homes where the only fabulous beauty is in the music loved and played . . . there too you find the Mason & Hamlin.

For both in the richness of its music and in its unequalled social reputation, the Mason & Hamlin stands proudly alone.

MASON & HAMLIN

I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat—

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

"Once I was worried—mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains commonly called rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

"I'LL SAY THAT KONJOLA IS THE MASTER MEDICINE"

Super-Remedy Came to the Rescue When Hope Had Been Abandoned; Stomach Trouble Quickly Ended.

If you have suffered for years; if a complication of diseases make life miserable, do not lose hope, for Konjola, the new and totally different medicine, is at hand with a remarkable record of successes over the most obstinate and chronic cases.

MR. J. P. DAVIDSON

Konjola bases its astounding success not on promises nor claims, but on a bed-rock foundation of accomplishments and results—and it is results that every sufferer wants. The Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, is pointing out facts that are more vital to all who suffer than any number of promises that could be made. This master compound of 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices from roots and herbs of known medicinal value—is winning new friends and fame daily simply for what it does; not what it promises to do. Medicines, like men, are known for their deeds. After all, results are what count, and this amazing Konjola can be counted on for results. Let us take, for instance, the case of Mr. J. P. Davidson, 421 Arch street, North Side, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I'll say that Konjola is the master medicine, because it benefited me after I tried everything and failed to gain the slightest relief. For five years before I started on this medicine I suffered intensely from stomach trouble. In fact, it was so disordered that I feared to eat a meal. I knew that the food would not digest, but formed a heavy mass in my stomach—torturing me beyond imagination. No matter how tempting the meals were, the nauseating sensation was ever present. Sluggishness of my liver added greatly to my suffering. I felt completely tired and worn-out, having no ambition or energy.

"One day I read of Konjola's remarkable victories in cases stubborn as mine. I decided to take one last chance for betterment. From the very first dose I knew that at last I had found the conqueror of my ailments. I responded immediately to the treatment. My system was cleansed and strengthened; my organs were regulated and invigorated. Slowly but surely my appetite was restored and the indigestion banished. I seemed to be hungry all the time and even the heaviest foods digested perfectly. I gained in weight and strength—greater energy and ambition is mine. My liver is functioning perfectly and I owe all my new health to Konjola—it is indeed the master medicine. Does anyone wonder why I publicly praise it?"

The files of this medicine are brimming over with the glad, happy endorsements like that of Mr. Davidson. Daily this medicine is adding to its fame and friends. Konjola presents an opportunity to regain your lost health—avail yourself, for Konjola knows not the word defeat.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn avenue and Sixth street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine

BATTLE LOOMS ON BUS FARES HERE

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN PITTSBURGH there are approximately 350 waiters. That is full-time waiters who earn their living that way. There are a number of college boys who take occasional jobs serving banquets, but they are not included in the number of full-fledged waiters. The German and the Italian predominate among the men who are so dexterous in carrying hot dishes.

* * *

One of the best-known is Charlie. He has been working for the same restaurant for 29 years. He is reputed to be worth $50,000, accumulated from tips and salary, only. He never speculated, but invested his savings in substantial real estate. He owns a series of houses and a row of garages.

He still waits on table more to pass the time than for any other purpose. He has been at the same restaurant so long that he is free to come and go almost as he pleases.

RACETRACK CHARLIE is another waiter that the waiters discuss. He has won as high as $5,000 in one day at the track. When the luck is running good Racetrack Charlie lays off waiting for a spell; when the luck goes bad he goes back to his post at the table. At present he is employed in a downtown club. Bald, and between 50 and 60, Racetrack Charlie is a walking encyclopedia of racetrack form. He knows the angles, as they say.

* * *

The union scale for waiters in $12 a week. This, besides the two meals they get in the establishment they serve, gives them a comfortable living. A waiter of established reputation knocks out about $50 a week.

There are always a few floaters around, the fellows at the undesirable stations in a restaurant, but in the main waiters have a good record regarding long service.

A MAN who employs many of them says that waiters would rather attend to the wants of a genial customer who tips moderately, if at all, than attend to grumpy customers who give as much as a quarter for a single tip. Nearly every waiter has what has come to be known as an "ace." This means that one steady customer tips out of the ordinary. In one downtown restaurant, for instance, a luncheon guest never fails to tip 50 cents.

The bus boy is the silent figure in the restaurants who always tries to steal your dishes when you're not looking. Some of them develop into waiters, while others remain bus boys until the gray shows in their wagging heads. The bus boy gets a very, very modest wage from the house, but he gets a share of the waiter's tips. This varies according to the business done. It is not uncommon for each waiter to give the "bus" a quarter a day.

IT IS a tradition that a bus boy seldom advances to a waiter in the same establishment. Experience has taught restaurateurs that it is better to break in ex-bus boys from other establishments.

One quaint figure in a local restaurant is the laundress. She has worked for the same house for 30 years. In the old days she did all the washing and ironing, or took charge of it, but now she checks the linens as they go out and come in. She must be the model employe, for she works about 14 hours every day, of her own choice, and in 30 years has missed but few days' work.

* * *

ONE waiter who has been serving the same crowd at lunch for years saves his customers the trouble of fishing out the usual tip. He simply takes what he deems right and they like the system. If he hits the right horse on the nose he cuts down the tip; if he has had bad luck he explains that the tip will be a little higher that day. And no one complains.

Overhead and Tunnel Proposed to Eliminate Crafton Crossing

WHERE CRAFTON PEOPLE DIFFER ON RAILROAD CROSSING ELIMINATION

DRIVER CAUGHT AFTER WRECKS

Accused by Mt. Lebanon police of driving while intoxicated, piloting his car into two others and resisting arrest, Milton E. Stemmler, Jr., of Curtain street, was under $500 bond today. He was arrested after a chase by Motorcycle Patrolman J. E. Wood, of Mt. Lebanon yesterday.

Wood alleged that Stemmler's car struck a machine occupied by Mrs. Rodney Beck and her baby in front of her home at 21 Castle Shannon road, throwing her and the child to the road. Stemmler fled, Wood alleged and his car crashed with one driven by W. F. Oxenreiter, of 304 Martin avenue. When Wood caught him, Stemmler struck him in the face, Wood charged.

Cross Soldier Won With Life Given To Widow

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—(AP.)—With formal military ceremonies, the distinguished service cross was awarded to Mrs. Lillian L. Landon, of Akron, O., and Lieut. Harley E. Banks, of Columbus, at Fort Hayes, here yesterday.

Mrs. Landon, the mother of three grown sons, received her medal in behalf of her late husband, Pvt. Charles L. Landon, who was killed in No Man's Land while vainly trying to rescue a wounded comrade. Lieut. Banks was cited for "extraordinary heroism" in assuming leadership when his company commander was killed and leading repeated attacks during three days' intensive fighting at Cote de Chatillon, France, in 1918.

AUTO KILLS SON, ASK $30,000

On account of their son and sole support being killede by an automobile, John Heigl, 65, and his wife, Caroline Heigl, 64, of Baldwin Township, have brought suit for $30,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against Mrs. Mazie Davis, 209 South avenue, Wilkinsburg.

The Hiegls set forth that their son, John Hiegl, Jr., aged 40, earned $150 a month and contributed it all to maintenance of his parents' home. He was run down by Mrs. Davis' car, which was being driven by her husband, Ardie Davis while standing in a street car safety zone in West Liberty avenue nearr McFarlane road, Dormont, November 4, 1926. He died the next day.

N. Boroughs Plan Holy Week Services

Holy Week services for women of the North Boroughs have been scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday of next week from 10 to 11 a. m. The services will be held in the following churches: Bellevue Methodist Episcopal, Bellevue Baptist, Forest Avenue United Presbyterian on both mornings; in the Avalon United Presbyterian Church next Wednesday morning and in the Avalon Presbyterian Church Thursday morning. Women speakers will address all meetings.

Girl Auxiliary To Play Bridge

The Girls' Auxiliary of the Mothers' Club of Carrick will be entertained at an evening bridge to be given by the chaperons of the auxiliary at its clubhouse, Spokane avenue, tonight. Mrs. John C. Attenborough is the chairman, and Mrs. Walter Sankey, co-chairman. They will be assisted by Mrs. Leo Hinger, Mrs. Helen Curtis and Mrs. Walter Hagerling. Bridge and "500" will be played, and 25 tables will be in play. Miss Ellen Brennan is the president of the Girls' Auxiliary.

Rules of the Quest

1. This is a selective search, not a motion picture popularity or beauty contest. It is an honest and sincere effort to find the Typical American Girl.

2. A National committee of judges appointed by Smart Set, will make the final decision and award the $5,000 prize in New York at a date set by the publisher of Smart Set Magazine. This committee is composed of Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, Vina Delmar, Jesse L. Lasky, John Golden, Guy Hoff and Margaret Sangster, editor of Smart Set and a representative of the Hearst newspapers.

3. A local committee of judges appointed by each co-operating newspaper will select the regional winner.

4. A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual or some club or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

5. Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch, listing age, weight, height, coloring, education and her social, business and athletic activities. Her qualifications will be considered by the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who will notify her if she has been selected.

6. The minimum age is 17.

Husband Charges Wife With Cruelty

Charging his wife with cruelty, George Bieth, Jr., 1667 West Liberty avenue, has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Mrs. Hilda Bieth, 123 Arlington avenue, Mt. Oliver. They were married May 20, 1925, and separated two weeks ago.

Home Missionary Society to Meet

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church will mee a 2 p. m. tomorrow in the church parlors. Mrs. H. W. Leonard will be the leader. The topic will be "The Church in Town and Country." There will be special music.

Ordinance Fixes Grade of Street

An ordinance establishing the grade of Bellbrook street from Pioneer avenue to the Paul Place plan of lots has been received by Council.

Ordinance Provides Gama Way Vacating

An ordinance vacating Gama way, Twenty-Sixth Ward, from Longfellow way to Watson boulevard, has been presented to Council.

Ask Improving Of Whited Street

Brookline residents in the vicinity of Whited street have sent to council a petition requesting at least temporary repairs to Whited street. The petition was signed by C. W. Cross, Mrs. G. W. Brooks, H. C. Hughes, P. J. Connors and Virgil S. Zahniser.

Property Damaged, Asks City to Pay

Leonard Peters has presented to Council a claim for damages to his property as a result of the improvement of Ley street.

Anniversary

MRS. HENRY M. HALLET

Mrs. Hallett, Forest avenue, Ben Avon, will have a part in the twentieth anniversary program of the College Club, to be given Friday in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex.

Railways Co. Asks Permit for Track

Council has received from the Traction Conference Board a letter approving an ordinance granting permission to the Pittsburgh Railways Company to lay a curve track at West Liberty avenue and Brookline boulevard.

SUES COUNTY, GETS $20,000

Miss Ella G. Maloney, well known charity worker, of Hays street and North Highland avenue, was awarded $20,000 in a consent verdict taken in Common Pleas Court before Judge James H. Gray in her suit for damages against the County of Allegheny.

She was struck by a county automobile just after she had alighted from a street car in front of her home August 28, 1927. Her skull was fractured and her left arm broken.

Neglect Charged In Wife's Suit

Declaring on the witness stand that she had several times contemplated suicide because her husband ignored her, but had refrained when she remembered her little boy and girl, Mrs. Otillie L. Reinard, 854 North Canal street, testified before Judge James H Gray in her suit for divorce from Theodore F. Reinard, of 1015 High street, North Side, a plumber. They were married in 1911, and she left him a year ago. For several years, she declared, he had neglected her, paying her no attention even when she was sick.

CROSSING ROW IN CRAFTON

How to eliminate Crafton's grade crossings is giving the business men of the borough as well as councilmen something to think about and the controversy has waxed bitter during the past few days.

The Crafton Business Men's Association favors an overhead crossing at Crafton avenue and State street.

Council stands five to three in favor of a tunnel underneath the Pennsylvania Railroad right of way from White avenue.

A bond issue of $125,000 has been provided for the purpose of eliminating the crossing, but the business men declare they did not vote their approval for a tunnel. At last night's protest meeting, petitions were circulated among the members in favor of the overhead.

Proponents of the overhead declare their plan would meet with the approval of the State Highway Department, which has rerouted both the William Penn and Lincoln highways through the town so as not to take motorists across the railroad tracks. The State Highway Department, it is said, will not consider the tunnel plan inasmuch as there is not sufficient outlet provided for through traffic.

BELLEVUE LINE READY TO FILE ANSWER

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company was expected to file an answer in Harrisburg today to the protest by the Allied Boards of Trade to the 25-cent bus fare to Bellevue.

The company was to have filed answer last week, but asked for a postponement until today. After the company's answer is filed, the Public Service Commission will fix a date for a hearing.

The Allied Boards' protest will lay the ground for a battle before the commission on the whole question of bus fares in Pittsburgh, which has been the cause of much criticism of citizens.

Attorneys George Kountz and W. G. Negley will represent the Allied Boards in the hearing.

The Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade and the Women's Community Association of the ward, through which the line will run, en route to Bellevue, have indorsed the protest. The Bellevue Board of Trade has withheld action on the protest.

WEST VIEW TO VOTE APR. 30

April 30 has been fixed as the date for a special election in West View to vote on a $50,000 bond issue for street improvements. Burgess D. A. Atkinson is preparing to issue a proclamation. The money will be used to carry out numerous paving projects, the remainder of the funds to come from assessment of benefits. The borough council recently passed the desire ordinance for the bonds.

Council Approves Mifflin Designation

Council has passed finally a resolution authorizing the city solicitor to petition the courts to designate as the Thirty-first Ward the former territory of Hays borough, recently annexed to Pittsburgh.

An accompanying petition provides for designating the sections of Mifflin Township, annexed February 15, as the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth districts of the Thirty-first Ward.

Injured in Fall Council Gets Claim

Florence McFarland, of 54 Semicir street, has presented to the city a claim for $250 as compensation for injuries suffered November 30, 1928, when she fell as a result of allegedly defective paving on Perrysville avenue near Mandale street.

Fire Companies in City Hall Protested

F. J. Osterling, architect, has forwarded to Council a letter protesting against the proposed housing of fire companies in North Side City Hall, Federal and Ohio streets. The writer questioned the legality of using the site for anything but park purposes.

28th Ward Seeks New Boardwalk

A petition from residents of the Twenty-eighth Ward (formerly Chartiers Township), requesting the construction of a boardwalk on Ringgold street, has been presented to Council. The paper contains a score of signers, headed by W. T. Shortley.

Church to Hold Council Supper

Sunday school teachers, officers and workers, of the Bellevue Christian Church, will assemble at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night for the second of a series of council suppers in the church rooms. Plans for Easter will be discussed. J. V. Schrock, superintendent, will preside.

STORE RAIDED, OWNER HELD

Leo Rodgers who conducts a confectionery store at 1938 South Eighteenth street, arrested Saturday afternoon by Lieut. James B. Earley and squad when they found 11 men playing cards in the rear of the store, was held for court by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday. It was testified that 10½ pints of moonshine liquor was confiscated during the raid.

Rodgers was charged with keeping a disorderly house. At the hearing held Sunday, Magistrate Sweeneey discharged the 11 men who were charged with visiting a disorderly house, and held Rodgers over for further investigation.

Zone Change in Niagara St. Sought

Attorney Harry A. Negley has asked Council for a hearing on an ordinance authorizing an amendment to the zoning law by changing property on Niagara street from a residential to a light industrial district.

BOY PLUNGES OVER HILLSIDE

Plunging 40 feet over a precipice, Blair Parker, 11, of 618 Fairview street, West End, was found lying unconscious where he fell and taken to the South Side Hospital in a serious condition. At the hospital today it was said that his skull was fractured.

The boy was playing alone on the steep hillside overlooking his home when the accident occurred. It is believed he lost his footing and plunged headlong from Attica street to Steuben street below.

Mrs. Elsie David, of 224 Steuben street, discovered him lying on the ground near her home and notified South Side police.

New Walks Fixed By Ordinance

An ordinance fixing the width and position of sidewalks and roadway of Starkamp street from Eathan avenue to Brookline boulevard has been presented to Council.

Tells Ideal

TYPICAL AMERICAN GIRL OUT OF FLAPPER CLASS

"The typical American girl has grown out of the flapper stage into something finer and more feminine. She is tending toward greater dignity and a better bearing than in the early post-war days. But she is not repressed in the Victorian sense, at all. Her attitude toward men is more wholesome, natural and is freer, than ever before. And I find her tolerant—oh! extremely so."

These were the words of Miss Dorthy Peterson, actress, as she sat in her suite in a downtown hotel and told the Quest Editor of her conception of the Typical American Girl. Miss Peterson is a demure young lady with auburn hair and a quiet manner of speaking. She went on to say that the Typical American Girl is athletic and beautiful.

HAS ASSURANCE

"Very beautiful. One walks along the streets these days and sees dozens and dozens of charming girls beautifully dressed and beautiful themselves. They have an air of knowing how to wear clothes, too.

"I think the Typical American Girl is probably of medium height, very slim, tastefully attired. She has a very decided air of assurance about her, but none of the boldness that characterized her sister of 10 years ago.

"And I think that she wants to get married. Girls always have wanted to marry and have a home and husband. They get out of college and aspire to have an abrorbing career, and are probably successful right away. But pretty soon they find there's something missing, so they get married. Then they find the real happiness which belongs in their lives.

CLOSE MARCH 31

The time for nominating friends for the Typical American Girl contest is drawing to a close. On midnight of March 31, the books will be closed and prepared for the judges. Meanwhile, several downtown department stores are making arrangements to enter members of their staff in the quest and the Quest Editor is working hard attempting to keep his correspondence up-to-date.

Send in your nomination. A clear picture and a description of the nominee's characteristics and appearance will do the work.

FLAG CONTEST ENTRIES EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

Entries in the first annual Flag Contest of the United States Flag Association have closed.

A conservative estimate of the number of boys and girls talking part in this great patriotic and educational movement throughout the country places the number at 250,000, nearly 4,000 schools and organizations have organized contest units. The exact figures will not be known for several days, or until each of the 18 sponsoring Hearst papers have had an opportunity to total up their figures and add the last minute entrants.

EXCEEDS EXPECTATION

Both the number of contestants and the number of contest units are far in excess of the number expected and hoped for when the contest was inaugurated. The awards of free trips around the world for two boys and two girls, a patriotic pilgrimage to historic shrines in the east for 36 boys and girls, and 10 scholarships to as many boys and girls, as well as thousands of medals, undoubtedly attracted many youngsters to the contest. However, Col. James A. Moss, President General of the United States Flag Association, is convinced that the educational value of the contest was the thing that attracted school authorities throughout the country.

HAVE UNTIL APRIL 12

The contestants in the Flag Contest have until April 12 to prepare the answers to the 75 questions about the flag that have appeared in the Hearst newspapers. Reprints of these 75 questions may be obtained by writting to the Flag Contest editor of the Sun-Telegraph. The essay on "Old Glory's Greatest Glory" must also be prepared by that date.

Schools and organizations will hold their local contests during the week of May 4 to May 11, and by June 1 the papers of regional champions will be sent to Washington for marking by the National Jury of Award.

All of these dates have been extended one week, due to the fact that the closing date for entries was changed from March 8 to March 15.

Today's Flagism

It was March 20, 1836, that Col. James F. Fannin and a company of 400 Texans surrendered to a vastly superior force of Mexican troops in the war between Texas and Mexico. One week later, all of the prisoners except 26 were brutally slaughtered by their captors. Texas eventually secured her freedom from Mexico and by her own choice was annexed to the United States—representing another star in the blue field of Old Glory.

Duffield Street Walks Sought

An ordinance fixing the width and position of sidewalks and roadway of Duffield street from Bryant street to Adelphia street has been received by Council.

Will Rogers says

NEW YORK, March 20.

It don't mean nothing to you all in the United States, but to us here in New York picking a Tammany Hall leader comes under the heading of news. Some of Tammany is claiming that Smith when governor gave the jobs to Republicans. Smith claims that makes it fifty-fifty, that Tammany gave their votes in November to a Republican.

Jimmy Walker don't care much who they put in just so it will be somebody that will help him stay in, and Gov. Roosevelt is so busy up in Albany with a pack of Republicans on his hands in the Legislature that he has no time to get mixed up in this.

But the whole town is in an uproar. Nobody don't know who to hand anything to.

Yours, WILL.

NINE INDICTED AT ERIE, DOPE SELLERS GET TERMS

ERIE, Pa., March 20.—Nine persons were indicted by the Federal grand jury late yesterday.

Joseph Pickels, Walter Patterson and Joseph Greeves, were indicted on charges of violating the Mann act, it being claimed that they transported Mary Curci, 17, from Yatesboro, Armstrong County, Pa., to Struthers, O.

Samuel Nicoletti, of Scottdale, was indicted for the alleged counterfeiting of 275 strip stamps used for liquor bottle labels.

Jove Miljus, of Pittsburgh, was indicted on four counts of violation of the prohibition laws.

Alfred Knox, of Pittsburgh, was named on six counts in a true bill charging him with violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Glen Shaffer and an accomplice were indicted on charges of stealing an automobile in Warren, O., and transporting it to Cheswick, Allegheny County.

William Mangan, of Pittsburgh, was indicted on a charge of selling narcotics.

George C. Dodson, alias "Spats," of Castle Shannon, Allegheny County, sentenced in 1922 by Judge W. H. S. Thomson for violating the Harrison narcotic act, yesterday pleaded guilty on a similar charge before the same judge and was sentenced to three months in the Allegheny County prison. Dodson was sent to jail to be cured of the habit.

Asa E. Debolt was sentenced to Atlanta for three years, and William Ervin, Negro, alias "Baker Shop Bill," drew a sentence of six months in the Fayette County jail when they pleaded guilty to charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act. Both prisoners come from Uniontown, Pa. On two previous occasions, Debolt was sentenced to 18 months and two years in Atlanta. Judge Thomson said he would give Debolt five years the next time he was brought before him on a drug charge.

Convicted by a jury on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act, Anthony Picklo, alias "Red," of Johnstown, Pa., was sentenced to one year and a day in Atlanta.

Father Fights Aid For Scalded Child

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 20.—Following a scuffle with the father, juvenile officers took Junior, 27-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Devault, of Second drive, S. W., to Union Hospital for treatment of scalds suffered by the child yesterday when it fell into a tub of hot water. Parents objected to giving the child medical attention because of their membership in a local religious organization which believes in faith healing. Neighbors complained to authorities, who ordered medical treatment.

Beats Quinine For Colds

RELIEF IN 30 MINUTES

Quinine causes roaring head, pimples, nausea. And it ISN'T the best treatment for colds or grippe. Milk and Cocoa--

Blended as in our Famous Milk Chocolate

THE milk's already in Peter's Milk Cocoa, blended with the cocoa and sugar just as our famous milk chocolate bar is blended.

WITH ORDINARY COCOA YOU MUST BUY 3 THINGS SUGAR, COCOA, MILK

You don't cook Peter's Milk Cocoa. You make it right in the cup just by adding hot water. This hot water merely replaces the moisture that has been removed from the milk.

So there is no "cooked taste" of boiled or heated milk—no scorching—no scum. Nothing to impair the chocolate taste. In Peter's you always get the full natural flavor of rich chocolate.

Peter's Milk Cocoa is prepared in the heart of a famous dairy region with an unfailing supply of the freshest, purest, full-cream milk. Its purity and freshness are safeguarded by the most scrupulous inspection and supervision from milking time until Peter's Milk Cocoa is ready for you in vacuum-packed, air-tight tins.

WITH PETER'S YOU NEED ONLY HOT WATER

Fresh full-cream milk and fine table sugar are already in it. No bothersome cooking, no scum, no scorching, no pans to wash.

Desert Rat, Fighting for Life Before Jury, Is Saved By Little Alex

CHAPTER XXVII.

A BLOWOUT on the road to Reno next morning delayed Dick and his party, so that they did not reach the courthouse until nearly half an hour after the coroner's jury, hastily recalled to consideration of the case after its first brief inquiry immediately following Brett's death, had started hearing the Rat's testimony.

A young assistant county attorney led the questioning carefully, determined to make a record for himself in this, his first murder case. And while Dick, out in the highway, finished his work of replacing the ruined tire and resumed the journey, the attorney was asking:

"Now, Mr. Pierce, is it not a fact that you once met Mr. Brett on the Tahoe road late at night?"

Pierce grudgingly admitted he had met Brett on the Tahoe road, but—

"And did you not, at that time, attempt to attack Mr. Brett with a knife?"

"Yes." The Rat's voice was a bare whisper.

"A little louder, please, so the jury can hear you."

"Yes, I did."

"Is it not true that Mr. Brett and you were lifelong enemies?"

"Yes, but—"

"You accused him of stealing the love of your wife, did you not?"

"He did!" It was a gasp.

"Is it true that you charged him with wrecking your business—pauperizing you?"

Dully the Rat wondered where this man had got all this information—learned all these things that he had never told a soul until that night on the Tahoe road when they had tumbled from his lips with only one person to hear. Felicia! Of course. She knew about his hatred for Brett, and she must have told about it. So she must have hoped that he would be caught, made to pay for killing Brett, even though she did not love him. Probably her idea of justice—an eye for an eye. She was not in the courtroom—avoiding him probably, as something unclean, letting the law take its course.

The sound of the coroner's voice roused him.

"Mr. Pierce, you will answer the question!"

Pierce had forgotten the question. It was put again, and he replied that he had blamed Brett for the collapse of his fortune.

"Your attack on Mr. Brett on the Tahoe road was frustrated by his wife, was it not?"

"Yes."

"But your rage against him, your hatred of him, did not die with the failure of that attack?"

"No!" The flash of ferocity in his tone made the attorney raise his eyebrows the merest trifle, and glance significantly at the languid men in the jury box.

"And when you met Mr. Brett again—out in the desert—where there was no one to interfere with you, no one to balk you, you shot him down in cold blood!" The last words cracked like rifle shots in the courtroom, empty save for the handful of men concerned with the case.

"No!" The Rat was on his feet, trembling as he shouted his denial.

"Sit down." Pierce slumped in his seat. "You wanted revenge! You found your opportunity for it in that desert meeting. The hatred of a lifetime seethed within you—you killed Brett to pay him for the misery he had caused you!"

"No!" The Rat's voice rose to a choking cry. "No! No! No!"

"Then why did you kill him?"

"He drew a gun. We fought. I got the gun—I only wanted to keep him from shooting me—it went off—"

"Why did you fight?"

"To save myself."

"To avenge yourself!"

"No!"

"Then why—?" The attorney broke off, and all eyes in the room turned to the courtroom door, suddenly swung open.

"Oh, mummy! Mummy! It's Stephen!" Little Alex tore his hand from Felicia's, raced across the room shouting, "Stephen! Stephen!" and flung himself into the arms of the aged figure trembling in his chair. After a moment the boy drew back slightly.

"What you shakin' for?"

A husky whisper, almost a sob, broke from the old man. "Just glad to see you, boy—and afraid of— things . . ."

Little Alex stood upright, stared into his friend's face.

"'Fraid? You 'fraid?" He laughed, a boyish gurgle. "You ain't 'fraid o' nuthin—not even guns. Didn't you fight my father when he aimed a gun at us—an' you made him drop the gun, too."

The young attorney jumped, whirled on the boy. Swiftly he got the story of the fight from him; quietly the coroner's men conferred. Suddenly the foreman stood up, turned to the coroner, sitting on the bench.

"We, the jury, find that Alexander W. Brett, deceased, came to his death through accidental causes."

And Stephen, thinner than ever before and deadly pale beneath his tan, looked up through tear-dimmed eyes to find himself surprisingly in the arms of Felicia, across whose cheeks streamed happy tears. Dick patted his shoulder reassuringly and brushed away a suspicious moisture from his own lashes. Little Alex looked on in wonder, but held his fire of questions until he was trudging from the building with his hand once more tucked gratefully inside that of his strange companion.

Back at the ranch that night, with little Alex again in the tender care of Pierce, Felicia seemed to slip a great load of despondency from her shoulders for the first time since her escapade with the university crowd. Snuggling beside Dick in the cool dark of the ranch house veranda, she murmured softly, "I'm happy, Dickie. But I feel so guilty about being happy when I know you are not, that you can't be until you are free, too."

Dick pressed her hand, looked down into her shadowed eyes. Some twinkling elfin light deep within them held him, and as he saw the wistful little twist to her mouth he drew her close, pressed his lips down upon hers. Then, for the first time since that night when he had held her in his arms after Judge Cooper's dinner party, he crushed her against him—fiercely, tenderly—and kissed her as he had longed to do.

His lips slipped from hers, brushed her cheek, nestled against her ear.

His whisper was husky, vibrant. "I am happy—free or not—so long as I have you . . . You darling girl . . . And I'll be free so soon . . ."

A light footfall sounded on the veranda steps; Dick and Felicia drew apart.

A lithe, pretty girl of about 19 or 20, humming to herself, came up the steps and passed into the house.

"That's Audrey Burgess, isn't it?" Felicia asked.

Felicia made a wry face. "And now she's getting a divorce?"

"Her mother's dragged her out here to the ranch to keep her away from the colony. She's a wild kid—no balance wheel at all."

Felicia shrugged. "Let's not talk about her. I just want to think about beautiful things—I've had enough ugliness to last a lifetime." There was a sudden tenseness, a note of strain, in her voice.

After breakfast next morning, as she and Dick walked to the stables for their horses, she noticed he was oddly silent.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

His mouth twisted. "Did you know about the Burgess girl?"

"No."

Dick looked away. "She has been carrying on a flirtation with some cowboy. They've asked her to leave the ranch."

Felicia's eyes darkened. Suddenly she clenched her hands into tight little fists and thrust them high, her mouth distorted in an agony of disgust.

"Oh, Dicky! Why can't we escape the sordidness, the baseness, of this rotten divorce colony! Let's go away anywhere . . . now . . . together . . . Dear—"

Small white hands, like magnets of life itself, thrust out toward him—drawing him; great blue eyes singing their "Miserere" to his heart. Flame racing in his veins, Dick moved toward her . . .

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl :=: Story by Lloyd Mayer :=: By John Held, Jr.

OH, ARAB, ISN'T IT WONDERFUL TO BE HERE AT PALM BEACH, WARM SUNSHINE AND THINK OF IT, BATHING IN THE SEA!
YEH, NOTHING BUT SUNSHINE EVERY DAY!
HERE WE ARE DOWN IN THE WARM OCEAN, AND THE REST OF THE BUNCH UP NORTH IN THE ICE AND SNOW!
YEH, BUT I MISS THE ICE AND SNOW. I WONDER WHO WON THE SKI JUMPS THIS YEAR?
AND ISN'T BASIL WEALTHINGTON A WIZZ? THINK OF IT! AN AUTHOR. AND I DIDN'T SUSPECT IT AT ALL. OO, I CAN HARDLY KEEP FROM RUNNING MY FINGERS THROUGH HIS CURLY HAIR!
AND I CAN HARDLY KEEP FROM RUNNING MY FINGERS ROUND HIS CURLY THROAT!
ARAB, YOU ARE SO VIRILE!

"My dear, I'm on the VERGE of coILAPSE at this point—I mean I'm ACtually WHIPT down to a NUB, no less, because I had this treMENdous confab with ARab while I and he were kind of CASurally sprawling on the BEACH, and I've never seen ANYbody in such a THORoughly luGUBrious and LACHrymose MOOD, my dear! I mean I was FRANtically trying to imPRESS him with the fact that we ought to be TERribly thankful we were down here at Palm BEACH amid the saLUBrious TROPical vegeTAtion effects and with divine SWIMming and everything to REVel in and all, and nothing to do but think of the REST of the crowd FREEzing helplessly midst the ICE and SNOW up NORTH, but, my dear, the obTUSE oaf merely heaved a WISTful SIGH and he remarked that he MISSED the ice and snow and he WONdered who won the SKI jump this year—can you BEAR it, my dear? ACtually, I've never HEARD of anybody so GRIM, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, I proceeded to talk about how simply MARvelous BASil was, and, my dear, I've HONestly never SEEN such an expression of feROcity as Arab assumed when I COYly admitted I could HARDly keep from running my FINgers through Basil's curly HAIR—can you cope with it? ACtually, my dear, I was SIMply TERrified because he replied in FRENzied tones of WRATH that HE could hardly keep from running his fingers round BASil's curly THROAT at this point—can you BEAR it? ACtually, my dear, Arab's so VIRile, sort of at TIMES, he FRIGHTens me! But I'm simply FRANtic to tell you what happened AFterwards, my dear—I mean I ACtually AM!"

The Defense :-: :-: By ELEANOR WILMOT :-: :-: Daily Short Story

THERE really was no sense in the peppery little quarrel which Dick and I had the evening we were listening in to the description of the landing of the big Graf Zeppelin. Quarrels are usually silly, and this was especially so.

I happened to say that I was just dying to cross the ocean in some kind of an air craft. Dick was tired that night, and he replied testily,

"You're crazy! I can't see why women are so wild to get their names in the papers and their pictures in the movies! To take the risks and chances of airship travel now, unnecessarily and for no good purpose, is simply idiotic."

"Then I'm an idiot!" I flung back irritably. "But even at that, I don't propose to be dictated to by any man living. Please remember that!"

"Is that so?" drawled Dick. "Well, believe me, my wife is going to listen to me when I decide she'll not start any wild goose, trans-Atlantic flights."

"I think chase is right," I retorted frostily, "and I think I'll begin and cut out all wild goose chases right now. Here's your ring, Dick, and as it is getting late, I hope you'll excuse me if I say good evening."

Dick looked at me quizzically. I knew by the little quirk at the corners of his mouth that he didn't think I meant a word of what I was saying.

For a minute or two I was on the point of relenting, and then some way his attitude made me furious, and I rose haughtily to indicate that I expected him to go at once.

"Do you really mean it, Beatrice?" he asked quietly.

"I certainly do," I exclaimed emphatically. "Of course I hope we can go on being good friends, but under existing conditions, it is best to call our engagement off."

"Very well," Dick replied with a funny little hurt in his voice. "You are the one to make the decision, and as you point out—under 'existing conditions' it may be the best thing to do."

Dick's repetition of my very words stung, for I knew he thought I meant that which I hadn't intended at all—a reference to the fact that I had money, a lot of it, while he is just beginning a business career and finding it a good deal of a struggle to get started right.

But before I made an attempt to repudiate his interpretation of my words, he was gone. My impulse was to fly to the telephone as soon as he reached home, call him up, and make peace with him. But I was too proud to do it!

I spent a miserable night. I knew Dick was too proud to beg for my favor, and in the morning when I called his office, they told me he was out of town on business—had left that morning and would not be back for several days. I knew he had an important matter pending in Chicago, and a call there had been expected by him for several days.

I decided to run down to New York for a few days and visit Sadie Gilbert. Sadie was a girlhood friend with whom I had not kept very closely in touch for some time. She didn't even know I was engaged to Dick. Sadie had married Jack Gilbert in her last year of high school and was now pretty well tied up with a couple of children, and Jack was barely making a go of it. The four of us had been pals in the old days, and somehow at this time my heart cried out for Sadie.

I waited until I got into the city, and then telephoned her that I was coming to visit her for a couple of days, whether she wanted me or not. I sensed at once something of dismay in her voice.

"Just tuck me in anywhere," I entreated, "and I'll not make a bit of trouble. I must see you!"

Sadie hastened to assure me that I would be welcome, and an hour later a taxi left me at her door. It was good to see her and her two kiddies were adorable.

We spent a pleasant day together, and when Jack came at night, his welcome warmed my heart. Of course we talked over old times with enthusiasm. But it was not until Jack got up to go into an adjoining room to get some matches to light his cigar, that he spoke of Dick. The door had been closed, and man-like he left it open as he came back. He paused by the door as he remarked,

"How's Dick getting along? He's a queer duck, isn't he?"

The remark didn't please me.

"I don't see anything especially queer about him," I frowned. "He's doing as well as the average young man, I fancy."

"Yes," drawled Jack.

"But you know all his family are blunt and rather self-opinionated," burst out Sadie. "And I remember that Dick never curried favor with anyone!"

"Why should he?" I snapped. "He has as good a right to his opinion and individuality as other folks!"

"But," went on Jack, "you must admit Dick always had considerable respect for money. I rather thought he would hunt up a girl with a fortune and marry her!"

Really, I was never so angry in my life, for the last thing in the world anyone would accuse Dick Caruthers of is gold digging or fortune hunting. Instead of that, he leaned over backwards in the opposite direction. He had even insisted that we must live on his income when we were married or he couldn't be self-respecting.

Neither my host or hostess seemed to notice my indignation, for Jack interrupted by saying with what seemed to me like an almost malicious grin, "Is he still as bossy as he used to be?"

I suppose my nerves were on edge, for I quite forgot myself, as I stood right up and exclaimed in no uncertain manner:

"Anyone who runs down Dick Caruthers does so at the peril of losing my friendship! Dick is one of the sanest, best-principled men I ever met!"

The door behind the chair Jack was sitting in swung open, and who should come walking through but Dick himself! I was so amazed I nearly passed out, and when he walked right up and took me into his arms, I made no resistance.

"Where—how— when —" I gasped.

Everybody laughed but Sadie, who was busy explaining that Dick was in New York staying with them and had confided his troubles to them when my telephone message came. He offered to go elsewhere at once and had only returned at this time for an important document which had come in by the late mail for him, and without his knowledge, Jack had promptly framed up this conversation and tipped Sadie off with a wink, to find out where my heart really was.

They found out, but what was more to the point, Dick did too!

LOCAL CUEIST BEATEN

MILWAUKEE, March 20.—(AP.)—Three players, including Percy N. Collins, of Chicago, the defending titleholder, have survived the second round of the national amateur 18.2 balkline tournament without a defeat. Alec Elmslie, Milwaukee, who is Wisconsin state champion, and M. C. Walgren, Pacific Coast champion of Everett, Wash., are the two who with Collins have won two and lost no games.

Ray Fessenden, of Madison, Wisconsin, and M. P. McClure, of Pittsburgh, Pa., trail the leaders with one victory and one defeat each. Harry Postal, Detroit, and Arie Schaap, St. Louis, have lost three games each, with no victories. Yesterday's results:

Elmslie defeated Schaap, 300-139 in 20 innings.

Collins defeated Postal, 300-241 in 30 innings.

Fessenden defeated McClure, 300-149 in 21 innings.

Walgren defeated Postal, 300-106 in 25 innings.

SHARON BUMPS HOMESTEAD, 24 TO 19

By JESS CARVER.

(Historical Note: It is said of Napoleon, as the tide at the Battle of Waterloo was turning against him, that he turned to one of his aides with this remark: "If only I had a regiment of Murphys.")

Plans for the formal celebration of Homestead High School's winning of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship, temporarily suspended until the Steels should have finished their competition in the P. I. A. A. tourney, will be resumed today. Homestead passed out of the state tournament picture in a tri-final game with Sharon High in the Stadium Pavilion last night, 24 to 19.

As a result of the triumph, Sharon moved forward into the semi-finals of the state play, and will engage in one of the champion-producing round games here Friday night.

Mercer County has always been a dependable bet to turn out good things, both animate and inanimate. Fine people come from Mercer County, and also fine basketball teams. One hit this town last night with a resounding whack, and planted a kayo wallop on Mr. William (Still Smilin' Bill) Campbell's hopes for a state title. The best team won last night's ball game, and don't let anybody tell you a bit different.

BIRCH STOPPED

Sharon did a very necessary thing, and in doing so served itself a victory. It stopped Paul Birch, Homestead's fine guard, the spark plug of the team. McCamant played Birch hard all night, keeping him so busy that he had little time to direct the play of his club as he was wont to do. The score is the result.

A second factor that played a whooping big part in Sharon's victory was the center work of "Jimsy" Murphy, a "foine broth of a lad," as we say in the original Celt, and a good basketball player. Homestead hardly got a tip-off all night. So important was Murphy to his team's success that he led it in scoring, with two field goals and four fouls.

Sharon hopped off to an 11 to 6 lead in the first period, field goals by McCamant, Murphy, Mitchell and Laycock playing an important part in the scoring. At the end of the half, a typical Homestead rally, which seems to have come just a wee bit too soon, enabled the Steelers to pull up to within a point of the Mercer boys. The score at the intermission was 15-14.

SHARON CLINCHES GAME

In the third period, Sharon went to work and gathered up all the odds and ends in the way of points it needed to sew up the contest, scoring eight points t' Homestead's four, reversing the record of the second quarter. Then, with the game safe in their hip pockets, the Sharon lads very calmly fixed the ball for the greater part of the final quarter.

Homestead's second half rally failed to materialize. To learn the reason, re-read the fourth paragraph of this article. It must be said that no fewer than five fine shots taken by Homesteaders in the last quarter found a lid on the basket and might as well have been thrown into the crowd for all the good they did.

Another of those monster crowds was on hand, one that came close to equalling the record breaker that saw Homestead beat Bellevue for the W. P. I. A. L. title. Sharon ran a special train load of rooters into town and possibly as many more came via bus and private auto. Dr. Dick Booth, a Sharonite of the first water and a former Pitt gridiron star was on deck. It might be said that some of the crowd walked in, too. The lineup:

Sharon—24.		Homestead—19.
Deems	F	Delaney
McCamant	F	Johnston
Murphy	C	Oates
Mitchell	G	Sertich
Laycock	G	Birch

Score by periods:

Sharon	11	4	8	1—24
Homestead	6	8	4	1—19

Substitutions — Sharon, Crompston. Homestead, Bair, Kalupson.

Field goals—Sharon, Deems, McCamant 2, Murphy 2, Mitchell, Laycock 2. Homestead, Johnston 2, Oates, Birch 2.

Fouls—Sharon, Deems, 1 out of 2; McCamant, 0 out of 1; Murphy, 4 out of 7; Mitchell, 1 out of 2; Laycock, 1 out of 4. Homestead, Johnston, 1 out of 2; Oates, 2 out of 2; Sertich, 1 out of 3; Birch, 1 out of 2; Bair, 3 out of 7.——1 out of 2.

Team fouls—Sharon, 8 out of 16; Homestead, 9 out of 18.

Leading scorer—Murphy, Sharon, 8 points.

Referee—Herklotz.

Umpire—Fitting.

SEMI-FINALISTS

Altoona, District VI champ, Reading, of District III, Hazelton, defending state titlists of District I and Sharon of District VIII will take part in the semi-finals and finals here on Saturday. Reading won its tri-final game Monday night, defeating Williamsport and last night, Hazleton eliminated East Stroudsburg, conquerors of Nanticoke and Altoona put out Meyersdale.

MAILS ADDS COMEDY TO HURLING

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Walter Mails of the Seals apparently is in better condition now than he has been for several years. The best drawing card in the Coast League is taking his work so seriously the Pirates have noticed his actions. Walter has pitched sections of games twice against the Buccos and has not been scored on.

Fans here come out to watch the antics of the colorful Mails and he would disappoint many if he failed to put on his little stunts. The comedy of the lefthander is clean and wholesome. He is one of the highest salaried players in the Seal lineup, and he surely earns his pay.

UMPS "FIXED"

Mails seems to have put over a "fast one" on the Pirate strategists in his two appearances on the mound. Duster has a movement that smacks of a balk, but he uses it rarely. The Pirates knew all about it and it is said they had cautioned the umpires to watch for it. So the umps were set, but Mails crossed up everybody in failing to use the movement in either game.

"I knew the Pirates were all ready to yell the minute I uncorked the move," said Mails. "If the game were at stake I would have tried it and might have got away with it. But there was no need."

Dick Bartell seems to be able to play any of three infield positions with much efficiency. Asked for his choice between short and third, Dick replied "I'd rather play short."

REAL PUZZLE

With Traynor uncertain as to the shortfield, the situation on the first defense seems to be more scrambled now than it was before the Buccos left for spring training. It would not be at all surprising if Adams were to be in the shortfield when the Buccos jump off against the Cubs on April 18. Stroner is getting a lot of action, but the ailing player has not been able to show any of the hard-hitting for which he is noted. Nevertheless there is something about the style of the Chicago boy that leaves a good flavor.

Bartell would be almost a sure bet for second were Adams and Traynor to be at short and third when the bell rings. It is hard to see how Adams can be left out of the lineup regardless of the status of Traynor and Stroner. Sparky seems to be the best lead-off man on the club. At any rate he is needed in one of the top positions.

Tri-State Tourney Entries Close Soon

Because it is the only bowling tournament to be conducted this year under the Lewis Class System, or the four-class plan of prize money division, the Tri-State duckpin classic, to be rolled on the Strand Alleys in Oakland, March 27, to April 6, is expected to be the largest event of the local season. Entries do not close until Saturday midnight.

Local Linksman In Florida Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 20.—The first round of match play in the Florida winter amateur championship golf tournament is being contested today on St. Augustine links.

Among those participating is W. B. Hall, Pittsburgh, who is matching strokes with Ray Lemahon, of Providence, R. I., in the second flight.

In the championship sixteen, Fred Wright, of Boston, is opposing George L. Dantzler, of New York.

LLOYD WANER JOINS MATES TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Elated over the brilliant attack shown in the fifth battle of their series with the San Francisco Seals yesterday, when the Pirates pounded out a 17-1 victory, the Pittsburgh Pirates will send Remy Kremer and Larry French to the mound this afternoon in an effort to even the count. So far, the Seals have won three out of the five games.

Barney Dreyfuss and Company are all set to greet Lloyd Waner, who apparently is travelling by himself from dear Old Oklahoma. Inasmuch as he advised President Dreyfuss he would leave on Monday, it is expected that he will reach the Golden Gate by tomorrow. And provided he arrives at that time, he may swing into action before the Buccos leave San Francisco, for Sprout is the sort of boy who can get into shape in about two bounces.

COMMY "HOT"

The coming of Lloyd probably means that Adam Comorosky will move to right field to make room for Sprout. Commy is one of the outstanding players on the Pittsburgh club at the present time, and the same thing might be said of George Grantham, who is playing left field cleverly, while spanking the ball with his customary vigor.

The form shown by both Commy and Brickell may furnish a fine battle for the Garden position when Paul Waner arrives. There is nothing new today to report on the great hitter, but nearly everybody in camp feels that he will be at his right field post when the bell rings.

Capt. Traynor is still out of action with an ailing hip. The club medicos expect to get a report this morning on an x-ray picture taken of Pie's injury yesterday.

ADAMS LEADS ATTACK

Fred A. Fussel and Joe Dawson, the same pair of hurlers who threw the Seals back for a loss at Monterey a few days ago, repeated their stuff in the fifth game, while their mates were amassing 17 runs and 20 hits. For the second time, the two

MORE PIRATE PITCHERS SOON TO GO

IN the cutting down of the Pirate baseball squad, Manager Donie Bush took another step that was quite in line with expectations when he handed an unconditional release to Pitcher Duncan MacKay. With at least eight men certain to be dropped from a slab staff that originally totaled 18 members, there was no doubt at any time MacKay would be numbered among those let go, as he had come up from the amateur ranks of Seattle with no professional experience and clearly had no chance of qualifying for immediate service in the majors.

Duncan MacKay

Of all the pitchers now in the big show, or who have been active there in recent years, only one was able to make the big jump from the sandlots and without minor league schooling, the lone exception being George Uhle, of the Tigers.

Indeed, it is only occasionally that even a star college slabman, who has had the benefit of being coached by a former big leaguer, is able to negotiate the grade. Young Ed Walsh, of Notre Dame, did it with the White Sox last year, but such successes are greatly outnumbered by cases like that of Owen Carroll, of Holy Cross, now with Detroit, in which hurlers with brilliant college records had to be shipped to the minors temporarily for development.

MACKAY is the fourth Buccaneer pitching recruit to walk the plank this spring, counting Heinie Meine, who was allowed to linger at his home in Luxemburg, Mo., because he demanded the modest salary of $15,000 for his first season in the majors. The others dropped were Lee Roy Mahaffey, sent to Portland, Ore., and Homer Blankenship, returned to Dallas, Tex.

Manager Bush still has 14 flingers on his spring corps, so it may be expected that at least four more, and possibly five will be let go. In all probability three of those turned back will be Leon Chagnon, Ralph Erickson and Glenn Spencer. The one or two others to figure in the pruning will be determined by their showings from now on.

NO inkling has been given by the management as to whether it will make another attempt to get Ernest Wingard, Athletic southpaw, now that he has become a free agent through a ruling by Commissioner Landis.

Pittsburgh refused to waive when Mack first took steps to send him to Milwaukee, but finally did so when the boss of the A's persistently declined to put a reasonable price on him.

Lionel Conacher

THE balance of power in the National Hockey League still rests with the Canadian Group, where it has been ever since the major professional circuit was expanded to include American cities four years ago. About mid-season the pendulum swung toward the American Group, and for a time it appeared that the skaters representing Uncle Sam's cities might wrest the honor from their Dominion rivals, but the across-the-border icemen put on a strong finish, winning 47 and tying 22 in 100 games played with Yankee rivals during the

PITT GRIDDERS TO GET HARD PRACTICE

The loafing period for football players at the University of Pittsburgh, which extends from Thanksgiving Day until the latter part of August, will be interrupted, beginning tomorrow, for a period of some five or six weeks as Jock Sutherland calls his gridironists out for their spring workouts.

Jock Sutherland.

With the exception of the candidates from the freshmen squad who are to get out there and show Dr. Sutherland they are all potential all-America candidates, there is much weeping and wailing and knashing of teeth among the varsity performers, who do not relish the spring drills to any appreciable extent. With nothing to look forward to, but another week of work, no games to break the monotony or to become keyed up for, spring drill is nothing more or less than plain, hard work for the boys.

But it is a good thing and Coach Sutherland annually gets a lot of value out of the workouts. The varsity squad was outfitted yesterday, the graduating freshmen will get their duds today and work will begin tomorrow.

FIELDING YOST HERE

Among the list of Pittsburgh visitors today are Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Yost, of the University of Michigan. (For the uninitiated, Mr. Yost is somewhat known as a football coach). Coach or rather Athletic Director Yost will address the Pittsburgh Chapter of the University of Michigan Alumni Association here today and will leave for Philadelphia tonight, where tomorrow he will talk before the "5" Club of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dan Brickley, the well known Zip, unanimously was elected president of the Western Pennsylvania Basketball Officials' Association at the regular weekly meeting of that organization and now has the full right and power to make Buck Snyder take his iron hat off in the solemn conclaves of his organization. It either or for Buck now.

Pirates Deny They're After Jolley

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—A report current in the Pirate camp to the effect that the Pittsburgh club was negotiating for the purchase of Outfielder Smead Jolley, of the Seals, and home run king of the Coast League, was denied when the Sun-Telegraph correspondent interviewed an official of the San Francisco club.

The terrific pace set by big Smead is the big topic of conversation in the Pirate family circle, but apparently no offer has been made for his services.

GAMES TOMORROW NIGHT.

Canadiens at Boston.
Americans vs. Rangers at New York.
Detroit at Toronto.

BOSTON, March 20.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins, champion of the American division of the National Hockey League, got the final cup of Les Canadiens, International Section titleholder, by a 1-to-0 victory here in the first game of the Stanley Cup playoff.

Though both teams appeared equally matched, the Bruins were able to take advantage of the only break of the game, in the opening period. The clash was less than nine minutes old when little Cooney Welland, the Bruins' second-scoring center, rushed with Capt. Lionel Hitchman. Hitchman tapped Welland a perfect pass, and the little center rammed a left-hander I shot into the open corner of the net.

Half way through the second session, the Flying Frenchmen had almost the same scoring chance, when Conacher swept in and caged the rubber, while Thompson was outside. But Referee Smeaton ruled that Conacher was offside, and the tally was ruled out.

The Bruins' victory was the first they have scored on Les Canadiens in Boston since November, 1926.

The lineup:

BRUINS—1.	LES CANADIENS—0.
Thomson	G. Hainesworth
Hitchman	L. D. Burke
Shore	R. D. Mantha
Cleghorn	C. Lepine
Galbraith	L. W. Joliat
Weiland	R. W. Gagne

Boston spares—Welland, Gainor, Clapper. Les Canadiens spares—Morenz, Ledue, Patterson, Gardiner. Referee—Smeaton and Hewitson. Summary—First period scoring: 1, Boston, Welland (Hitchman), 7:30. Second period: No scoring. Third period: No scoring. Penalties: Hoist (3), Shore (3), Gagne (2), Morenz.

AMERICANS, RANGERS TIE

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—New York's two hockey teams, the Americans and Rangers, battled through 40 minutes of hard hockey to a scoreless tie last night in the first game of the playoff series between the teams finishing second in their groups in the regular National Hockey League race. The series is of two games, total goals to count. No overtime was played in the first contest.

Neither team had any marked advantage through the closest game of the season at Madison Square Garden. The Rangers made a few more shots, but the stellar goal tending of Roy Worters and the fine defensive play of the entire American team more than offset this advantage.

The only semblance of a score came in the first period when Paul Thompson of the Rangers jammed the puck into the net, but the goal was not allowed. Only six penalties were called, five going to the Rangers and three of these to Ching Johnson. The teams meet again tomorrow night. The lineup:

Americans—0.	Rangers—0.
Worters	G. Roach
Reise	R. D. Abel
Conacher	L. D. Johnson
Burch	C. Boucher
Roadhest	R. W. W. Cook
Connor	L. W. F. Cook

American spares—Himes, McVeigh, Dye, Simpson, Shepard, White. Ranger spares—Vail, Murdoch, Thompson, Keeling, Oatman, Carson, Bourgault. Officials—Mike Rodden and Lou Marsh. Summaries—First period: No score. Penalties: W. Cook. Second period: No score. Penalties: Johnson 2, Thompson. Third period: No score. Penalties: Johnson, Conacher.

LEAFS TOP COUGARS

DETROIT, March 20.—(AP.)—Toronto's Maple Leafs piled up a 3-to-1 victory over the Detroit Cougars before 14,000 fans here in the first National League playoff game between the two third-place teams.

Ameder Blair scored a goal in the first period and one in the last for the Leafs. Art Smith, a newcomer, scored a goal in the first period for the Leafs while George Hay, Cougar star wingman, counted for the Cougars late in the final period on a long drive.

Fifteen penalties were called, one or other of the teams being a man short during a greater part of the play.

Billy Barton Fit For Big Test On Friday

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 20.—(AP.)—Billy Barton, sturdy steeplechaser from the Blue Grass country of Kentucky, is just about ready for his second attempt to win the greatest of horse racing honors in Europe—the famed Grand National at Aintree Friday afternoon.

The crack jumper of Howard Bruce, Baltimore sportsman, wound up training with a canter at the Wroughton quarters and will arrive here today for the first test of Aintree's four and half miles of treacherous hazards, cruel jumps and baffling water.

Where last year the pride of Maryland came to the races just another horse in a geld of 48, this season the big fencer is one of the prime favorites.

Wins Bout, Sings 'Mother Machree' From Ring

NEW YORK, March 20.—(INS.)—Tommy Lown, former champion amateur boxer, believes in "saying it with music." ST. LOUIS, March 20.—(AP.)—Davey Abad, the Panama Kid, won a newspaper decision over Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, in a 10-round fight here last night. Abad started out strong getting in hard lefts to the body and head in the first round. The second and third passed in furious milling, while in the fourth Bass sent the Panama Kid down. In the fifth both tried strongly for a knockout with Bass getting the edge.

THE poor showing of the Chicago Hawks and the strong play of the New York Americans, headed by ex-Pirate Lionel Conacher, were deciding factors in the inter-group debate. The Windy City's nomads won three and tied three in 20 games with Canadian group foemen, and the Americans, representing America's first city, but playing as a member of the Canadian group, contributed much to the Dominion division's margin of superiority.

Pittsburgh's Pirates, like the Chicagoans, were a handicap to their American group mates. The locals won four and tied six in 20 games with Canuck sextets. The average attendance at games played in U. S. cities was greater than it was at games played in Canada, and the magnetism of dollars, extremely powerful in any pro sport, probably will draw the balance of power over to the American group within another season or two.

WHEN boxing is resumed at Motor Square Garden on Monday, April 1, with Mike O'Dowd meeting Eddie Martin in the topline number, Manager John L. Hernon will try out a plan to determine what degree of financial success may be expected to result from the running of glove shows at cut prices.

This card, and later ones—during the early spring, will be put on at a new scale of prices, with a top of $2.50 and a bottom of 75 cents. The best seats, 3,000 of them, that formerly sold for $3, will be offered at $2.50 each; 2,000 of the old $2 reserved seats will be placed on sale at $1.50 each, and the price of admission to the bleacher seats on the Center avenue side will be 75 cents.

Emil Yde

A MONG the other features in evidence at Motor Square when the boxers get busy again there one week from next Monday after a long shutdown will be a new ring. It is now in course of construction and will be ready for the first show. The ring will be 23 feet 6 inches square, outside measurement, and 18 feet square inside the ropes. That is the average size in use nowadays. The Marquis of Queensberry rules call for a ring 24-foot square, "or as near that size as practicable." Manager Hernon plans to continue holding popular-priced Monday night shows as late into the spring as the attendance warrants.

WAS it a shattered romance that caused Emil Yde to fade out gradually as a Pirate pitcher after he had made such a great start in 1924 as to lead the National League hurlers that year with 16 games won and only three lost?

A new light is thrown on Yde's change of form by Charles J. Brill, of Oklahoma City, where the Dane pitched in 1922 and 1923. He relates that just before he came up to the majors five years ago Emil's planned marriage to his sweetheart of high school days was "postponed indefinitely" because the young woman's guardian aunts insisted that he give up a professional baseball career, which he declined to do.

AFTER his brilliant first year in the majors, goes the story, Yde learned that his former sweetheart had been married to another suitor, in his home town of Freeport, Ill.

This may or may not have had anything to do with his collapse as a major league pitcher, but the fact remains that he went steadily back until last year, when he took a brace with Indianapolis.

IT may have been just coincidence again, Brill says, but it is a fact that just about a year ago Yde learned that the man who had married his former sweetheart had died. Thereupon Yde and the widow renewed their correspondence. In 1926, the Dane won only one game and lost 14, and in 1927 he went from bad to worse, winning only one game and losing three. But last year he pulled himself together and won 19 games against 12 lost, earning for himself another big league chance, this time with Detroit. "And to make the film come out right," Brill adds, "Emil's brother, Harry, informs me that Emil and his old sweetheart were married a few weeks ago. Perhaps his work with the Tigers will show that a broken heart, that has now been mended, was responsible for his bust as a Pirate."

MARTIN G. M'CUE, New York political leader, who formerly was a member of the assembly and state senate, and at present clerk in the Surrogates' Court and prominently mentioned as a possible choice for the Tammany chieftaincy recently given up by George W. Olvany, was one of the best known figures in the boxing game three decades ago.

In those days he was known to the fight world as Marty McCue. He was born in Brooklyn in 1876, and was active in the ring from 1894 to 1899, inclusive, boxing at from 122 to 130 pounds and meeting practically all of the leading men of his weight at a time when bouts frequently were scheduled for 20 to 25 rounds.

Martin G. McCue

ONE of McCue's battles was a 20-round draw with Jack McClelland, Pittsburgh's great featherweight, fought in Brooklyn on September 1, 1899. In another bout there six weeks later Marty defeated Jimmy Reeder, of New Castle, in 11 rounds. On November 6 of the same year, McCue won a decision over Oscar Gardner in 25 rounds in Brooklyn.

Among the others whom Marty faced were such prominent battlers as Kid McPartland, Dave Sullivan, Tommy White, Joe Bernstein, Jack O'Brien, Sammy Kelly, Danny McBride, Danny Needham, Elwood McCloskey, Patsy Sweeney, George Siddons, Joe Fairburn, Frank Dallas and Billy Whistler. His final public bout was a 20-round draw with Billy Whistler in Baltimore on December 7, 1899. In the last three months of his istic career, McCue took part in four bouts of 25 rounds each, two of 20 rounds each, one of 11 rounds and one of six rounds—197 rounds of fighting, or practically 20 bouts of present-day length, all within a space of little more than 90 days.

Albright - Lehigh May Stage Spring Grid Battle

READING, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Possibilities of a spring football game between Albright (Schuylkill) College, Reading, and Lehigh University, became closer, following an exchange of messages between Coach Alvin Julian, of the local team, and Coach Austin Tate, of Lehigh.

If the game is played, according to Julian, the periods will be shortened, but a full game will be played, so as to give the coaches a relative idea of the abilities of their squads. Indications pointed toward the playing of the game in Reading within the next two weeks.

H. O. D. Segrave, holder of the world automobile straightaway speed title.

They will drive in the last event on each of the two days of the annual Miami Beach regatta. On Friday, after the close of the angatta proper, both will attempt to better the world mark of 92 miles an hour made by one of Wood's boats.

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

SMOKE CIGARS IF YOU WISH TO ENJOY TOBACCO WITHOUT SHOCK TO YOUR NERVOUS SYSTEM—

DOCTOR HENRI BRODIER

Chief of the Surgical Clinic of the Paris Faculty

Doctor Henri Brodier is a former Chief of the Surgical Clinic of the Paris Faculty, Assistant Surgical Consultant at the Necker Hospital, and President and Charter Member, Society of Surgeons of Paris.

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar (OVER A MILLION A DAY). Its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality.

"The intense manner of American living is responsible for the great amount of nervous disorders existing amongst men in the United States. Therefore, I would advise those who use tobacco to smoke cigars, since they have a tendency to quiet rather than irritate and excite the nerves. And the smoking of them rarely becomes a habit that requires constant indulgence for its satisfaction."

Dr. H. Brodier

DOCTOR BRODIER advises men who smoke to smoke cigars. For the cigar, made only of the finest, choicest tobaccos, contains no adulterants such as glycerine, sugar, licorice and saltpeter—used in curing other forms of tobacco to make them smokeable.

These adulterants form, when the tobacco with which they are combined is smoked, nerve irritants which, when inhaled, cause sleeplessness, depression, irritability and other ailments.

Because the cigar contains no adulterants; because it is rarely inhaled; because its smoke is cool—it is the opinion of medical authority that the cigar smoker escapes the nerve and throat troubles prevalent amongst smokers of other forms of tobacco.

Test cigars, yourself—for one week. Smoke them exclusively. You'll find yourself feeling better—with improved nerves, increased vitality, less of that tired feeling, and free from coughs and throat irritation.

To really test cigars—with justice to yourself and to cigars—we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. You can smoke them, confident that they will please you, for they are America's largest selling high grade cigars—over a million a day.

The sensational success of the La Palina Cigar is the result of an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar—an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

GUIDO TO BOX M'TIERNAN IN MOOSE RING

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Promoter Francis Flynn has completed his card for his boxing show in the Moose Temple with the signing of Young Guido, of Sharon, to meet Buck McTiernan, Swissvale's classy boxer and puncher, in the semi-final. No less than six other 150-pounders turned down the match with McTiernan, whose ability is widely recognized. Guido already has met Buck once, in Youngstown. It was a no-decision bout and one of the Youngstown papers called it a draw, while the other credited McTiernan with a shade victory.

Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, boxes Tony LaRose, southpaw socker, of Cincinnati, in the 10-round main event; Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, and George Tomosky, of Wilmerding, meet in the second event and Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, and Jackie Griffiths, Negro newsboy of the Hill, open the show.

GRANDE VS. WOLGAST

The Willie Davies-Frisco Grande bout at Hamilton, Ont., next Monday night is off and instead Grande will return to New Castle, where he lost a few weeks ago to Davies, to box Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, who turned down Davies on the plea that he has just recovered from an attack of boils and wants more time to prime himself. Davies and Wolgast will be brought together in the Jolly Bowl for what will be their fifth meeting as soon as possible.

A bruising windup is in prospect at Washington, Pa., next Monday night when Leo Kyburski and Leo Sala meet. They are rugged and willing mixers.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, believes the fact that Ray Newton lost his return bout with Terry Lingo at Little Washington Monday night should help rather than hurt his Newton-Johnny Mellow battle Thursday night. "Newton has been having things pretty much his own way with his string of knockout victories," McGirr said this morning. "Now that he has been checked, he'll have a real incentive to rise to his best against Mellow, a clever boxer. I look for him to make a determined fight to make up for the defeat by Lingo."

Chet Smallwood, of Akron, who meets Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, in the semi-final of the McKeesport show, holds two victories over U. S. Carpentier, one scored in Akron and the other at New Castle, and also has defeated Joey Goodman in a bout in Cincinnati and won a handful of battles in Indianapolis. The weight for the Hargraves bout is 133 pounds.

WELCH TO BOX RUDY

Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, who defeated Jack McCarthy at East Liverpool, O., Monday night, meets Young Rudy at Wellsville, O., next Tuesday night. McCarthy boxes Freddie Edwards of Chester, W. Va., in the semi-final.

Freddie Polo, the welterweight, of New Jersey, who boxes Joe LaGrey in one of the 10-round preliminaries to the Jimmy McLarnin-Ray Miller bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night, has scored 26 knockouts in 35 fights. Among his sleep victims have been Johnny Reisler, Jack McFarland, Jackie Horner, Jimmy O'Gatty, Tip Gorman and Pal Silvers.

Roleaux Saguero, the Cuban southpaw heavyweight, boxes Walter Palmer, Columbus Negro, in a 12-round bout at Dayton next Tuesday night. Lon Lovelace and Johnny Curtain will meet in the semi-final.

Glenn Massena, a 126-pounder of Latrobe, who has had experience in bouts throughout Illinois, Kansas and Iowa, is anxious to meet any of the featherweights in this section.

Freddie Boylstein, of New Kensington, is back home from a campaign in Detroit, where he fought in almost a dozen bouts under the name of Young Harry Greb. He lost only the last of the battles, on a foul. Boylstein plans to remain around here for some time and will meet a worthy opponent at East Liverpool, O., April 1.

BASS, FORBES AGAIN

Benny Bass boxes Harry Forbes of Columbus, O., in a return bout in Philadelphia Monday night, with Baby Joe Gans and Young Ketchel clashing in the semi-final. Forbes won his first meeting with Bass on a foul.

Freddie Mueller and Stanislaus Loayza are billed for a 10-rounder at Buffalo Monday night.

K. O. Christner has turned down a guarantee of $5,000 and 25 per cent of the receipts to box Armand Emanuel in Los Angeles next month.

Four local amateurs box in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight and the Cresent A. C., Brooklyn, tomorrow night. They are A.

Carey Is Elected President of Garden

NEW YORK, March 20—(AP.)—William F. Carey, railroad builder and financier, was unanimously elected president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, succeeding the late Tex Rickard, at a meeting of the board of directors.

John S. Hammond, who was named acting general manager upon Rickard's death, was elected vice president, to fill the post left vacant by Carey's elevation.

To fill two other Rickard vacancies, Bernard F. Gimbie was elected to the board of directors, and James I. Bush to the executive committee.

The directors declared a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents per share, payable April 15 to shareholders of record of April 5, 1929.

Jack Dempsey is said to be ready to form an alliance with Humbert Fugazy and Edwin Cole and certain unnamed "millionaires" whereby he will act as matchmaker and appear in the "Kid's Last Fight" under their auspices in the fall. He is said to be peeved at the Garden corporation because of his small profit and credit for having put over the Sharkey-Stribling fight in Florida.

Andrucci, George Bretsch, George Chambers and Mose Butch. The Garden bouts constitute a Pittsburgh, New York, Boston inter-city show.

Charley Belanger and Leo Lomski box at San Francisco late next month. Belanger also is matched with Al Rieux at Montreal, April 10.

LOCAL WRESTLING NIPPED

Jim Londos, who was booked to wrestle here next Monday night in the headline bout of promoter Ray Fabiani's second show, meets Toots Mondt at the Arena in Philadelphia Friday night. There will be no second show here, the boxing commission having turned things down after last Monday night's performance.

Johnny Dundee, the veteran former featherweight and junior-lightweight champion, boxes his three hundred and thirty-fourth bout when he meets San Sanchez at the Olympic A. C., in New York Saturday night.

Tommy Freeman and Tillie (Kid) Herman have been match to box, at Erie Friday night.

Johnstown's next boxing show, originally scheduled for Thursday night of next week, has been set back to April 4. Al Webster and Eddie Bow will box the main bout.

Johnny Hahn, of Oil City, and George Rohanna have been signed for one of the six-round preliminaries at New Castle, next Monday.

A Mickey Solmen-Buck Tiernan return bout is in the making for the semi-final of the reopening show at Motor Square Garden, April 1, to be featured by the Midget Mike O'Dowd-Andy Martin battle.

RIDGEWAY DUO SCORES WELL

CHICAGO, March 20.—W. Johnson and C. Luty, of Ridgeway, Pa., paced Western Pennsylvania representatives who rolled yesterday in the American Bowling Congress here, spilling the pins for a 1,172 total in the doubles.

The main event in the tourney had a new leader today in the team of the Triangle State Bank of Chicago. This quintet rolled up a total of 2,934 to top the Cordes Mets, of New York, by 2 points.

The Pressler Welding team, of Chicago, went into fourth place with a score of 2,922. Duke Quinliven, of this five, shot 276, 233 and 193 for a total of 702 in this event.

The ranking 10 scorers in the other divisions held their positions despite determined assaults by pinsters from Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Results of Western Pennsylvania entrants yesterday follow:

BUCS BATTLE SEALS AGAIN

clever twirlers held Smead Jolley hitless. Fussell worked the first five rounds. Dawson taking the remaining four.

Sparky Adams, in the lead-off position for the Bucco, led the Pittsburgh attack with four blows. Catcher Bob Linton, whose hitting has been a big factor in the games here, connected for a home run and a single.

The Pittsburghers piled up 10 runs in the first rounds, the immediate victim of the assult being Pitcher Turpin. Lefty Gomez relieved him and Couch also had a turn on the mound.

It was the misfortune of Turpin to catch the Bucs as they were coming out of their batting slump. He received a fine shellacking.

W. & J. GETS "CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH"

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 21.—The Carnegie Foundation has given Washington and Jefferson a "clean bill of health" in the operation of its athletics. In making this announcement President S. S. Baker said that the Foundation had informed him that the institution stood in the topmost rank among the hundreds of colleges and universities of America included in the list which the Carnegie authorities have been surveying for some years.

The definite establishment of W. & J. as practically above reproach in the maintenance and operation of competitive athletic teams, followed a partial survey made by a representative of the Carnegie Foundation about three years ago and a more recent follow-up probe of local conditions made less than two weeks ago. While the general results of the investigation made throughout the country have not been made known, the Foundation has formally notified W. & J. of the results of the probe insofar as this institution is concerned.

BAKER PLEASED

In expressing pleasure and satisfaction with the results of the survey affecting Washington and Jefferson, President Baker said that the commendation received from the Carnegie Foundation climaxed onerous and tedious effort on the part of authorities at the institution to dissipate all suspicion of irregularity and to establish sports here on a basis that could not honestly subject Washington and Jefferson to criticism.

"We have honestly and completely co-operated with the Carnegie Foundation in its survey here," said Dr. Baker, "and are, of course, more than pleased with the 'certificate of health' that has been given us. Making no super-claims of purity we have always laid our cards on the table, figuratively speaking, and aided in every way possible. We believe we have arrived now at the point toward which I have striven since assuming the presidency, and the public can be assured that we expect to maintain the high standard which had won commendation from the Carnegie Foundation."

SITUATION PROBED

When the representative of the Carnegie association was here 10 days ago, it became known, the entire method of procedure prevailing in the operation of Washington and Jefferson athletics was thrown open for inspection. The Carnegie representative interviewed President Baker, the athletic coaches, sport managers, members of the faculty, varsity sports team men, newspapermen, prominent alumni and citizens of Washington known to be in close touch with the athletic situation at W. and J.

A great mass of detailed information bearing on every angle of sports at the institution was secured and examined. Varsity athletic performers, especially, were questioned in detail and extensively, particularly as to possible assistance in maintaining their college existence and so far as the report from the Foundation indicated practically nothing warranting criticism was obtained.

Kaufmanns Nose Out Light, 36 to 34

Kaufmanns, first half winners in the Commercial and Industrial League, scored first in the post season series for the league's championship when they won an uphill fight, led by Tom Foley and Bill Miller, in the South Side Market House, barely nosing out Duquesne Light, two-time champion of the loop, 36-34, last night. The winner showed one of the greatest and gamest comebacks of the season and its play in the fourth period just about electrified the crowd.

The second game is to be played tomorrow night and the teams will be found at their best. It will be staged at Columbus Temple, with the Lighters determined to defend their title. The lineup:

Lighters—34.		Kaufmann—36.
Ritzel	F.	Serbin
Kubiak	F.	Rubenstein
Gibson	C.	M. Paris
Fisher	G.	Miller
Rhodes	G.	Foley

Field goals—Kubiak 5, Ritzel, Gibson, Fisher, Rhodes 3, Rubenstein 3, Serbin 4, Paris, B. Miller 3, Foley 3. Foul goals—Duquesne Lights, 12 out of 18; Kaufmanns, 8 out of 22. Substitutes—Hartman, Hughes. Referee—Mervis. Umpire—Griffith.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Money Influence Predominant.

The curious spectacle of 10 per cent call money halting a decline on the stock exchange was witnessed today, but it was a negative proposition in that the Street was pretty well set for a 12 per cent rate and its failure to materialize strengthened the courage of the traders following the long side. The early uprush in prices of copper shares was not unexpected and the anticipated raise in metal prices was reported later in the day, copper being quoted at 23 cents a pound, domestic delivery. Numerous industrials and specialties went ahead with the coppers early but the entire list dropped back around midday when selling made its appearance in response to reports of tightening in the call money market. Opening rates on demand money were 9 per cent but there was enough to meet the requirements up to 2 o'clock when 10 per cent was posted. Very little loan business is conducted after that hour and the Street assumed that the 10 per cent would be the top. Consequently, traders resumed buying and many substantial rallies were recorded. The Federal Reserve re-discount situation continued in a muddled state, some observers favoring a raise and others contending against that course. A story that the first gun would be fired at Chicago with a raise to 5½ or 6 per cent there brought many pro and con comments with nothing definite developing. Chicago meets Friday and the New York bank directors Thursday. The list has not been moving as a unit for a long time and the selective factor of different groups and different stocks swinging in opposite directions is more apparent in the current market than at any time in the past.

Three-Cornered Radio Fight.

Wall Street expects early announcement from the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, of formal opening of transcontinental radio communications. Experiments with radio circuits between Sayville, N. Y., and three Mackay stations on the Pacific Coast are reported to have been successful. This is interpreted as further indication of a three-cornered struggle for the communications business of the country among the Radio Corporation of America, Western Union Telegraph Company and Mackay.

Gulf Oil Earned $8.06.

The Gulf Oil Corporation of Pennsylvania reports for the year ended December 31, 1928, after all charges including minority interest, net income of $36,325,140, equal to $8.06 a share on 4,504,-921 shares, compared with net income of $13,707,627, or $3.08 a share, in 1927. The report: "During the year this company made additional investments in properties, plants and equipment of $49,600,-000. Gross production in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Venezuela and Mexico was 74,248,793 barrels, a daily average of more than 202,800 barrels. The large increase in the production of crude oils containing high sulphur content obtained in West Texas and in Venezuela makes necessary substantial expenditures for changes and additions to plant looking to more economical processes of refining. This, together with the necessity for additional marketing facilities, causes the management to believe that it is prudent to continue the policy of retaining the surplus earnings for reinvestment."

Cotton Up On Gin Report.

The census bureau reports running bales of cotton, counting round bales as halves and excluding linter, ginned and to be ginned from the crop of 1928, as 14,269,313 bales, as against 12,783,112 bales ginned from the crop of 1927 and 17,755,079 from the 1926 crop.

At the initial call, cotton advanced nearly $1.50 a bale in reflection of the report.

Exports of cotton were 25,670 bales during February against 16,333 bales a year ago, and for the season so far 6,672,550 bales, compared with 5,657,896 a year ago.

Suggests Ford Explain.

The Wall Street Journal today voices objection to the action of W. R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, in issuing a highly pessimistic statement last January on the company's outlook, when it has since been announced that the company plans a 20-for-one split-up of its stock and the issuance of additional shares on favorable terms. The paper says, "Mr. Ford is now financing his operations in foreign companies through public offering of stock. It is even believed in some quarters that he will shortly invite investors into his American company. If only to preserve that public confidence, which is the basis of stock financing, a thorough explanation of this Campbell episode is highly in order."

Taylor Lands Steel Plan

The proposed capital readjustment of the United States Steel Corporation, involving substitution of common stock for funded debt, is described as "highly advantageous to all of the stockholders and conducive to the best interests of the corporation" by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, in a letter to stockholders. He urged ratification of the plan at the annual stockholders meeting in Hoboken, N. J., April 15.

DELICATE SHAD ROE

.. with Broiled Shad and Butter Hotelière

This week on the PENNSYLVANIA DINERS

MANY THINGS melt in your mouth—but none so pleasantly as Shad! This flavorful fish is served piping-hot—after having been boned, sprinkled with a little olive oil, broiled.

Served with the Shad are the myriad delicate orbs of the Roe, with their subtle flavor—light and stimulating!

Over all is poured soft Butter Hotelière—golden butter, smooth-mixed with chopped fragrant parsley, salt and pepper, tart lemon juice, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire Sauce.

It is a dish to linger over in the comfortable diner as the awakening landscape flashes, panoramic, past your window and Spring seems nearer with each click of the rails.

Try it this week—on Pennsylvania dining cars. You'll find it your pleasantest memory of the awakening year.

Market Reactionary

Local Stock Quotations

HEAVY SELLING TURNS STOCKS REACTIONARY

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Heavy selling, inspired by fears of a further tightening of money rates, turned the course of prices reactionary in today's stock market despite sporadic efforts of pools to bring about a general rally. Early gains of 2 to 4 points in a number of representative copper, public utility, office appliance and miscellaneous issues were cut down or wiped out, and a long list of stocks were carried 1 to 5 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent as against 8 yesterday and 7 the day before. There was only a nominal calling of loans during the morning, but funds were scarce and unless a fresh supply comes in from out-of-town the rate is expected to work higher. Some uneasiness developed as a result of private Chicago dispatches forecasting a higher rediscount rate in that city on Friday.

REVIEWS OPTIMISTIC

Except for a drop in freight car loadings, the day's business news was largely favorable. Steel trade reviews were unusually optimistic. Iron Age states that "March will undoubtedly break all previous monthly production records, and a continuance of the current high rate through April seems assured." The Iron Trade Review reports that "seasonal requirements for steel are making their contribution to the unprecedented market situation."

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in cotton, which advanced $1.50 to $2.00 a bale on the publication of a bullish government ginning statement, and reports of adverse weather.

Coppers enjoyed a temporary outburst of strength in the morning during which several of the leaders moved into new high ground. When large selling orders appeared, Anaconda dropped from 173¾ to 169, Greene Cananea from 197¾ to 191 and Chile from 125 to 122.

BALDWIN RALLIES

Baldwin Locomotive, which is slated for a 4-for-1 stock split up and a new management, broke 12 points to 252 and then rebounded to 263. Rossia Insurance dropped nearly 10 points, Victor Talking Machine certificates 5 and Johns Manville, Commonwealth Power, Goodyear Rubber sold down 4 points or more, with at least a score others, including Radio, Montgomery Ward, Woodworth, International Combustion, Wright Aeronautical and General Electric falling 3 or more points below yesterday's final quotations.

Standard Oil of California moved up more than 2 points to a new top at 78½ in response to the ending of th gasoline price war on the Pacific Coast. Houston Oil sold 3 points higher; International Telephone ran up 9 points to a new peak at 234, but was unable to maintain all its gain. Advance Rumely issues moved into new high ground on reports that new interests had acquired a dominant position in the company.

Oils, coppers and public utilities were in the van of a late rally which attained considerable momentum in spots despite a mark up in the call money rate to 10 per cent. American Express rose 10½ points, Warner Brothers Pictures 5, and Standard Oil of California, over four points to a new high at 80⅝. The closing tone was irregular. Total sales approximately 4,900,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 20.—Despite early setbacks, wheat showed an upward trend in the late dealings today. Numerous standing orders from holders of wheat future deliveries that losses be stopped at various set limits were forced into operation on declines, but toward the last the offerings became scarce. Meanwhile, crop reports today, especially from the Southwest, were of mixed character, but in the main rather favorable. Liquidating sales on the part of holders of corn were also a feature of the day's trading.

Wheat closed nervous at a shade to ⅝c to ¼c net advance, corn ½c to ⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Assertions that for the most part winter killing of wheat in the southwest has been only of normal amount were circulated widely today, and had a pronounced bearish effect at times. Supplementing this were advices that throughout Central Illinois the wheat crop outlook left nothing to be desired, and that the acreage was larger than usual, with fields greening-up completely and no indications of winter killing, even in low spots.

On the other hand, some Kansas reports today said high winds in the next 10 days would prove very destructive to wheat. Much notice also was taken of dispatches from a Chicago crop expert who said he did not remember ever having seen a poorer showing for Kansas wheat at this time of year in McPherson, Reno, Sedgwick, Sumner, Harper, Pratt and Kingman counties. These counties contained nearly 20 per cent of the entire Kansas acreage.

Will Banking Be Effected by Building and Loan Groups

—By B. C. FORBES—

OMAHA, Neb., March 20.—Bankers in many parts of the country are paying the penalty for having held themselves rather aloof from the ordinary folks.

The ordinary folks have retaliated by getting together and doing their own banking—handling their own savings and making their own investments, through building and loan associations.

The three largest associations in Omaha have assets equal to the combined deposits of the three largest national banks. And the city hasn't one savings bank.

IN the suburb where I live near New York, and in the neighboring suburbs, I have been hearing lately far more than in former years about building and loan associations. Is that this form of banking—and that is what it is—will grow and grow among the people and that it will affect the growth of other banking?

What is happening here, and what it is doing in the way of multiplying home ownership, deserves thoughtful attention as a phase of American social, financial, economic evolution.

IN Omaha 53 of every 100 homes are owned by those living in them. This is claimed to be a record for any city of comparable size—the population is approximately 225,000.

In 1900, when these co-operative associations were negligible, the Federal census gave home ownership as under 28 per cent. During the next 10 years the associations grew and so did home ownership, to 40 per cent. By 1920 the percentage of homes owned exceeded 48, giving Omaha fourth place for the whole country among cities of its class. And since the building and loan associations have waxed stronger so has home owning.

OF the mortgage money placed in the city during the last 30 years, over 40 per cent has been building and loan funds.

Think of this in these recent days of innumerable bank failures:

In their 50 years of operation, only two small building and loan associations in the whole state of Nebraska have failed, and in these cases no appreciable loss was suffered.

THOSE who want to build their own homes here do not have to pay extortionate rates for money. For years the two leading associations in Omaha, one having $35,000,000 and the other $27,000,000 assets, have charged only 6 per cent, with either a very small commission or no commission. Nebraska has money to burn, so to speak. One association now has a lending rate of 5¾ per cent and another is making many loans at 5½ per cent. Eastern insurance companies and other lenders are eagerly looking for satisfactory outlets for funds in this part of the country—at rates distinctly lower than those current in Wall Street.

Change days, isn't it? Time money in the world's chief financial center is quoted at 5 per cent and in Nebraska money is pressed upon trustworthy borrowers at 5½ to 6 per cent.

PRESIDENT E. A. Baird of the Conservative Savings and Loan Associations, which has $27,000,000 resources, gives me these facts:

The associations are purely mutual. Members cannot invest more than $5,000 in one association. No loan can exceed $50,000 to a single borrower. All savers and borrowers become shareholders—thus there are no depositors. Earnings are distributed, not as interest, but as dividends. Any member can withdraw his investment on 30 days' notice, but if the association desires it need pay only as funds become available.

It has no creditors, only stockholders.

THIS table shows how these associations have grown in Nebraska:

Year.	No. Asso. Op.	Tot. Assets
1892	71	$2,962,557
1902	58	$4,317,000
1912	68	$28,946,108
1922	80	$91,994,729
1928	84	$161,398,927

Membership totals 253,000, about one-fourth borrowing and three-fourths saving or investing members. From 1896 to 1928 they financed 66,000 buildings, of which 90 per cent were homes. The total loaned exceeded $286,000,000.

More money is offered the associations than they can now lend. Dividends usually are 5 per cent, although 4½ per cent has been paid lately by at least one organization.

INTERESTING facts, aren't they?

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—The curb market turned weak today, as heavy selling was precipitated by the call money renewal rate of 9 per cent and predictions that it would go higher. The general list sold off rather sharply after the first half hour, but some support came into the market in the early afternoon, in sympathy with improvements on the "big board."

Arcturus Tube was a strong feature in the early trading, soaring 10 points to a record price at 41, but later falling back below 34. Firestone Tire opened strong, then fell 7 points to 270. Ford of Canada fluctuated wildly, falling 10 points to 991, rallying to 1010, falling back to 993, and again touching 1010 in the early afternoon. Fox Theaters "A" was under moderate pressure.

Utilities were irregular, Electric Investors moving up about 3 points and Federal Water A making a small gain, while American Superpower issues and American Light and Traction fell 3 and 4 points.

Oils were generally heavy, although Gulf attracted some support, on announcement that 1928 earnings equalled $8.07 a share, a jump from $3.08 a share in 1927. The management stated, however, that the high sulphur content in its crude oil will necessitate plant changes, and that surplus earnings will, therefore, be retained. Imperial Oil of Canada and International Petroleum each lost a point.

In the mines, Newmont dropped 7 points in the early trading, but rallied somewhat later when a more favorable interpretation was placed upon its 1928 earnings report; showing a sharp drop from 1927.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stock and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Legal Notices 107

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

In the matter of the petition of Dilworth, Porter & Company, Incorporated, for satisfaction of mortgage. No. 2985 April Term, 1929.

To Mary O. Phillips or her legal representatives or whoever may be the holder or holders of the mortgage hereinafter mentioned:

Take notice that on March 19, 1929, Dilworth, Porter & Company, Incorporated, presented its petition, averring that it is the owner of all that certain lot or piece of ground situated in the Seventeenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning on the northwardly side of Bingham street at the distance of one hundred twenty (120) feet eastwardly from Fourth street; thence along Bingham street eastwardly one hundred twenty (120) feet to a lot formerly owned by Josephine Ormsby; thence by said lot parallel with Fourth street three hundred fifty-three (353) feet eleven and seven-twelfths (11 11-12) inches to Water street; thence along Water street westwardly one hundred twenty-five (125) feet seven (7) inches to a lot formerly owned by Caroline Ormsby; thence by said lot parallel with Fourth street three hundred sixteen (316) feet eleven and seven-twelfths (11 7-12) inches to the place of beginning.

Being the same lot of ground upon said premises remains of record in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, given by George Porter, Herman M. Rolfe, and James H. Sweet, partners, trading under the name of Porter, Rolfe & Sweet, to Mary O. Phillips, dated April 24, 1857, in the amount of $3,700, payable in three equal annual installments from the first day of March, 1858, as more fully appears of record in said Recorder's Office in Mortgage Book Volume 31, page 491, and that a period of over twenty-one years has elapsed since the principal of said mortgage became due and payable, and no payment has been made on said mortgage or either principal or interest, and praying for the release of said property from the lien of said mortgage and the satisfaction thereof.

Whereupon said court ordered that notice of said facts be served by the Sheriff of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, on the said Mary O. Phillips or her legal representatives, or whoever may be the known holder or holders of said mortgage, if to be found in said county and having known residence, and if not, publishing a notice by advertisement requiring them to appear in said Court on the first day of May, 1929, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer said petition and to show cause why a decree should not be granted vesting the above described property from the lien of the said mortgage and ordering said mortgage satisfied of record.

ROBERT H. BRAUN, Sheriff.

MOORHEAD & KNOX, Attorneys for Petitioner, 1062 Frick Building Annex, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

IN THE Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, No. 2981 April Term, 1929. In the matter of the Petition of Alice Uthammer to be declared a feme sole trader.

Notice is hereby given that on March 16th, 1929, the petition of Alice Uthammer, wife of Fred Uthammer, was presented to the above named court to make a decree that she shall have the rights and privileges of a feme sole trader, and to grant her a certificate that she may be authorized to act have the power, and transact business, as provided by the Act of Assembly in such cases made and provided. Whereupon the court, on the 20th day of April, 1929, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., or as soon thereafter as the business of the court will permit, for the hearing of said petition, when and where all persons interested may appear and show cause, if they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. In the matter of the petition of Dilworth, Porter & Company, Incorporated, for satisfaction of mortgage. No. 2985 April Term, 1929.

To Mary O. Phillips or her legal representatives or whoever may be the holder or holders of the mortgage hereinafter mentioned:

Take notice that on March 19, 1929, Dilworth, Porter & Company, Incorporated, presented its petition, averring that it is the owner of all that certain lot or piece of ground situated in the Seventeenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning on the northwardly side of Bingham street at the distance of one hundred twenty (120) feet eastwardly from Fourth street; thence along Bingham street eastwardly one hundred twenty (120) feet to a lot formerly owned by Josephine Ormsby; thence by said lot parallel with Fourth street three hundred fifty-three (353) feet eleven and seven-twelfths (11 11-12) inches to Water street; thence along Water street westwardly one hundred twenty-five (125) feet seven (7) inches to a lot formerly owned by Caroline Ormsby; thence by said lot parallel with Fourth street three hundred sixteen (316) feet eleven and seven-twelfths (11 7-12) inches to the place of beginning.

Being the same lot of ground upon said premises remains of record in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, given by George Porter, Herman M. Rolfe, and James H. Sweet, partners, trading under the name of Porter, Rolfe & Sweet, to Mary O. Phillips, dated April 24, 1857, in the amount of $3,700, payable in three equal annual installments from the first day of March, 1858, as more fully appears of record in said Recorder's Office in Mortgage Book Volume 31, page 491, and that a period of over twenty-one years has elapsed since the principal of said mortgage became due and payable, and no payment has been made on said mortgage or either princip

BARNEY GOOGLE AND SPARK PLUG
It's Like Old Times to Barney

WHEN MRS. KLOTZ MARRIED HORSEFACE SHE BELIEVED THAT ALL HER WORRIES AND UNHAPPINESS WERE A THING OF THE PAST — HER FIRST HUSBAND (AS SHE FIRMLY BELIEVED) HAD LEFT THIS WORLD UNDER VERY VEILED CIRCUMSTANCES, BUT WHEN YEARS HAD GONE BY WITHOUT WORD FROM HIM, SHE SECURED AN "ENOCH ARDEN" DECREE, RELEASING HER FROM ANY TIES THAT BOUND HER AND PROCEEDED TO FORGET HIM —
IMAGINE HER CONSTERNATION WHEN SHE FOUND THAT HER NEW HUSBAND'S BEST AND DEAREST FRIEND WAS THE MAN TO WHOM SHE WAS ONCE MARRIED AND WHOM SHE BELIEVED PAST ALL MORTAL THINGS FOREVER!
HER ANGER KNOWS NO BOUNDS AND SHE IS DETERMINED AT NO MATTER WHAT COST TO SEVER THE FRIENDSHIP OF HER HUSBAND FOR BARNEY GOOGLE.
BELIEVE ME, I'M NOT GONNA STAND BY AND WATCH MY POOR FRIEND TAKE IT ON THE CHIN ANY LONGER! I KNOW THAT WIFE OF HIS BETTER'N HE EVER WILL AND I'M GOING OUT TO NEW ROCHELLE ON THE NEXT BUS AND HAVE A TALK WITH HER — SHE'LL LISTEN TO ME AND LIKE IT-
MADAM KLOTZ. GOOD AFTERNOON! I WISH TO HAVE A WORD WITH YOU REGARDING THE SHAMEFUL WAY YOU ARE TREATING MY BEST FRIEND -

AS RELIEF for the present theatrical depression, Barrett Clark, writing in The Drama, urges producers to incorporate and sell shares in their plays to the public.

Well, why not? They have co-operative cheese factories in Oregon.

New York theatergoers have been well trained for Clark's plan. Already they pay about as much for a seat in a theater as it costs for a seat on the stock exchange.

The chief drawback to Clark's proposal is the bullishness of prices and the bearishness of the entertainment.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS FOR PRACTICAL MEN

MANY a man has lost employment simply because he struck an unpleasant attitude in the presence of his employer. Do you know that the position of the elbows indicates ease and refinement, whether on the rostrum, on the street or in exclusive social circles? When the elbows are carried out, the employer says to himself—

"Mr. So-and-So is self-conscious. He should carry the head high and somewhat back, turned a trifle to the side, else I shall seek and find another for his place as floor-walker in my large department store."

Self-consciousness is just another term for timidity. A timid man is shifty—and will not look you in the eye. And a man who will not look you in the eye is a liar. And a liar is a thief. And so on, ad infinitum.

State, City Legislators Join Income Tax Protest

The campaign to induce Congress to rectify the injustice of the income tax law to give the earned income at least the same standing as property has, with regard to deductions for "wear and tear," has been indorsed by the House of Representatives in Harrisburg and by the Council of Pittsburgh. Each has adopted a resolution urging Congress to revise the taxation on earned incomes.

That is one action for which our state and local lawmakers should receive the thanks of the public.

And it is a matter in which the great earning public should not be indifferent. Congress will be guided by the demands of the constituents of its various members. Resolutions by such important bodies as the legislators of Pennsylvania and of the city of Pittsburgh will bear great weight, of course, with our national representatives and senators, but their plea will be immeasurably strengthened by your support.

If you are an earner of a taxable income it is to your own personal interest to join in this movement. You can do that by signing the petition. The only labor asked of you in your own behalf is to take your pen in hand and attach your signature to a prayer to Congress to relieve you and others who suffer the same injustice that you suffer.

Such a petition appears elsewhere in this edition of the Sun-Telegraph. Your own signature will suffice, but if you are disposed to do a little more you can circulate it among your friends and have them sign it, too. The Sun-Telegraph is sponsoring this movement in Pennsylvania. If you have friends living beyond the circulation limits of this newspaper, you can help, too, by clipping the petition blanks and sending them the slips. You can assist greatly in this way if you wish to.

Congress must be made to see the unfairness of the present basis of taxing the earned income. And will if we all do our part.

An Ingenious Crime

American Bank Vaults Would Make It Impossible Here.

THESE PICTURES ILLUSTRATE A CRIME THAT STARTLED GERMANY

Germans, and Europeans generally, call the crime illustrated here "the most daring crime in a century." We should not consider it very remarkable, not in the least daring, in this country, where in the bootleg prohibition age, specializing in crime has been reduced to a fine art.

The burglary and robbery in Berlin of the Kleist Strasse branch of the Disconto Gesellschaft is briefly this: Burglars from an adjacent building tunneled underneath the road, into the cellar of the bank, containing safes of many bank customers, broke them open, stole a million marks, about $250,000 in cash, many securities, and peacefully went their way.

The hole that you see in the street in the left hand picture is a hole leading down to the tunnel that the criminals dug from their own quarters into the bank cellar.

They couldn't do that in the United States, and no ingenious criminal need put his mind on it. This idea, suggested by Sherlock Holmes long ago in one of his detective stories, would be useless in America. Here every bank vault is surrounded on all sides with steel that no burglar could penetrate. MONEY TAKES CARE OF MONEY by spending what is necessary.

There is one amusing feature in this big German burglary. It was desired to find out what securities had been stolen, and how much cash had been taken. But complete facts could not be obtained, because many individuals whose private safes had been robbed feared to tell of their losses lest income tax officials should prosecute. They didn't want the authorities to know how much they really had, or to ask how they got it.

Wise Britishers—A Trifle Suspicious

But We Trust Them.

After the Charleston earthquake, a cautious old colored lady moved from the brick church to the wooden church. She had seen brick buildings falling down and said: "I trust the Lord, but I don't believe in fooling with him."

The British trust their dear brother, Uncle Sam, but they don't believe in fooling with him. British naval plans provide for starting 25 new warships and, especially interesting to Americans, for a great increase in the British fighting air fleet.

Wise Americans welcome this news. The British have no more desire to fight with us than we have to fight with them. Therefore, the bigger the defense arrangements of the two big English-speaking aggregations, the better for world peace generally.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

AN occulist told me an odd thing. I was having my eyes tested. He gave me letters of different sizes to read, at varying distances. Some were easy to read, some not so easy.

I said—"that's good" or "that's not quite so good."

He smiled and said: "People reveal themselves so clearly in this work. They disclose much more than eye weakness—they often disclose mental astigmatism as well. Just that simple test shows."

"Shows what?" I was puzzled.

"Shows the caliber of the persons—his attitude toward life. Whether he has a positive or a negative attitude toward life. For instance, you say 'that's good' or 'that's better' or 'that's not quite so good.' Your emphasis is always on the 'good' angle. You're looking for a bettering of conditions—you're eager to find a bettering of conditions. You have a positive, constructive, attitude toward life. But some people in commenting on exactly the same tests will use a different phraseology. They'll invariably say—'that's bad' or 'that's worse.' They're always stressing the reverse side of things—the negative side.

"SOME PEOPLE EXPECT THE BEST OUT OF LIFE—SOME PEOPLE EXPECT THE WORST. AND THEY USUALLY GET WHAT THEY EXPECT."

That's a great check on human nature.

Some people work with life—some people work against life. Much of what we call "good luck" or "bad luck" springs from our own inner attitude toward life—our expectancy of life.

Macterlinck once wrote an essay on Luck. He showed how some people make magnets of themselves by their positive, optimistic attitudes. They draw good fortune to themselves because they expect good fortune—they are on the alert for it. They work with life and life gives them of its abundance.

But other people miss that abundance because they do not expect it. They exert no expectancy of good luck—rather they always seem to expect bad luck. They meet life with suspicion, envy, discouragement, resentment. They are never filled with positive, fighting hope.

No man can change the mysterious tide of fate with its flooded mingled good and evil—no man can fully determine the circumstances of his life. BUT HE CAN DETERMINE HIS OWN ATTITUDE TOWARD THAT TIDE. He can work with life, or against life. He can cast himself hopefully into the current, accepting its buffeting as a challenge, looking always for food in its salty depths. Or he can sit huddled upon the mud flats, weeping tears of self-pity over himself, seeing only danger and disaster in that vast flood. And be he swimmer or huddler, he'll get what he expects.

It's up to the man.

HOW FAR CAN YOU SEE?

By Garrett P. Serviss

"How far can anybody see with the naked eye here on the earth? I heard it always, by clear weather, 10-15 miles is the limit. I am a little near-sighted, but I claim to see a good deal of landscapes on the moon. I remember to have seen the Bavarian Alps from my window in Munich, and so much I see on the moon, with near-sighted eyes.—G. C. Gentz, Baltimore."

THERE'S a whole lot of interest in this question, rich in natural philosphy. Ah, those old days before "physics" was born! Then science could stoop to explain simple, everyday things in ordinary language, without putting on a mathematical cap to kill a fly. Of course there always has to be some mathematics in dealing with such things, but the plain kind that everybody knows and loves and does his little sums with, will go far and create no fogs.

In seeing there must be something to see. You can't see nothing. Yet something may become nothing to the eye by being too far away. For instance, you see a mail plane passing overhead. It is so clear to the eye that even the pilot is visible. But in a few minutes it has gone miles away. Shrinking like magic as it goes. Presently it appears so small that it looks no larger than a high-flying bird; then it diminishes to a dot, and looking aside for a moment you lose it. It has become nothing, to the eye, though it is in reality as big as ever, and looks so to those who are now right under it.

What has happened is that the distance of the plane has grown so great that the image which it makes on the retina of your eye has, in turn, become so small, or so faint, that it no longer produces on the brain the effect which we know as vision, or seeing. Look into a book on physiology to find out how the sense of sight acts.

Now the question arises: How far off must an object be in order that it shall cease to form a recognizable image on the retina of the eye? The answer depends to some extent upon circumstances. A bright, shining object can be seen much farther than a dull one. The shape of the object also has some effect on its visibility. But, in general, the clue is to be found in the so-called law of inverse squares, according to which the area of an opaque object, and also the intensity of any light, diminishes as the square of the distance increases.

Take a board one foot square and place it about 57½ feet from the eye and it will have an angular diameter of one degree. That is nearly twice the apparent diameter of the moon, and of course it is very plainly visible. But increase the distance to about 3,438 feet and it will appear as a speck, one minute-of-arc in diameter, and you will have difficulty in seeing it at all, unless it is well placed and brightly illuminated. And if you placed it a little farther away, say a mile, it would cease to be visible, except that you could see it at night if it were a shining object.

It appears, then, that a non-luminous object in ordinary circumstances is lost to the eye if its distance is more than 3,500 times its diameter. A man four miles away would appear as a vertical line less than a minute-of-arc high—too small to be distinguished by the naked eye. But a body of men moving about at that distance would be seen as a crawling spot on the landscape. A cow 10 miles away would subtend an angle of two-fifths of a second. But a high mountain in the background 50 or 100 miles away, would be plainly visible, if there were no intervening hills. When the distance becomes too great in comparison with the height of the object or of the observer, the rotundity of the earth shuts off the view even of objects that would be plainly visible if the earth were flat. If in your youth you saw the mountains of Bavaria from Munich, looking about as large as the moon, then the distance of the mountains from your eye was relatively the same as the distance of the moon from the earth.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Time to Quit

FOR every man some plans go wrong.
Some hopes, unnourished, wane
Till he is blizarded to the joys,
The beauties that remain.
And in such hours' despairing thoughts
Across the mind will flit,
Some temper whispers to him then:
"It must be time to quit!"

It must be time to put aside
Loved plans of by-gone days,
To turn with heavy heart away
From fancy's fondest ways,
To take life's drudgery unalloyed
Without its gold of dreams,
It must be time to let them go,
Blue vistas, sunny gleams.

But stay, the coming dawn may bring
The long-awaited hour,
Cling then to every promised prize,
And none can say what day will see
The brightest hopes in flower.
Of faith lose not a whit,
And answer to the tempter's cry:
"There is no time to quit!"

Bible Passages

God's Majesty

(Psalm 50)

THE mighty God, even the Lord, hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof.

Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty, God hath shined.

Our God shall come, and shall not keep silence: a fire shall devour before him, and it shall be very tempestuous round about him.

He shall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth, that he may judge his people.

Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice.

And the heavens shall declare his righteousness: for God is judge himself. Selah.

Hear, O my people, and I will speak; O Israel, and I will testify against thee: I am God, even thy God.

I will not reprove thee for thy sacrifices or for thy burnt offerings, to have been continually before me.

I will take no bullock out of thy house, nor he-goats out of thy folds.

For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills.

I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beasts of the field are mine.

If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulness thereof.

Will I eat the flesh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?

Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High:

And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.

But unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth?

Seeing thou hatest instruction, and castest my words behind thee.

Thou givest thy mouth to evil, and thy tongue frameth deceit.

Thou sittest and speakest against thy brother; thou slanderest thine own mother's son.

These things hast thou done, and I kept silence; thou thoughtest that I was altogether such an one as thyself: but I will reprove thee, and set them in order before thine eyes.

Now consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

Whose offereth praise glorifieth me: and to him that ordereth his conversation aright will I show the salvation of God.

Tales That Are Told

The Imposter

SHE had been to a bridge party the previous night, and to her husband it seemed likely she had had more than ordinary bad luck. At any rate, breakfast next morning found her silent and depressed.

"Have a bad time last night?" asked the husband at last.

"Awful!" she snapped as she beheaded an egg. "And it was your fault, too!"

"My fault?" he gasped. "Why, you know I wasn't playing."

"No, but you introduced me to the man who you said was a famous bridge expert, and—"

"Well, so he is, my dear."

"Nonsense; he's nothing of the kind. He's only an engineer."

Passing the Time

THE branch-line train had been held up all along to make way for an express. After taking half an hour to cover half a mile, it came to a halt between two stations and alongside several trucks containing bricks.

Seeing these, a passenger stretched himself wearily and climbed out on to the line. He was seen by the guard.

"Hi!" shouted the latter. "You can't get out of here. There's no station."

The passenger glanced in the guard's direction.

"All right," he replied, calmly, "I'm a bricklayer, so what's the matter with building a nice big one while we're waiting?"

Carry On

By Herbert Kaufman

ELIHU ROOT, erect and unseamed at 84, has safely arrived at Geneva, where he and associate hard-nut crackers are laboring to render international relations stress-and-strain-proof.

Members of the Dodo Club, hibernating about tropics and cowering at the reports of home weather, will please note that Mr. Root is none the worse for his mid-Winter voyage or activities.

He sees no reason why any man, in full mental prime, should retire from affairs to a hot-house. Or pack an unimpaired mind with camphor-ball attitudes.

His brain is still hitting on all cylinders. There are no squeaks in his frame; and America hasn't yet noticed any signs of wear in the transmission of his thought.

He's too busy scanning futures to mourn over mile-stones.

He retains vigor and vision, because constant service keeps his batteries charged and head-lights bright.

The human body, like any other machine, corrodes and disintegrates in idleness. Rust is a much swifter destroyer than attrition.

Gladstone, bearing the burdens of Empire to the end of his unfaltering career, thrust wit as fiercely, and parried counter-politics as shrewdly, as in youth. He still molded history at four-score.

Voltaire strode in full genius and blossom to his monogenarian goals.

George F. Baker, executing financial coups at the threshold of ninety, holds the reins of the First National in unquavering hands, and proves that almost a century's use of faculties hasn't diminished or dimmed them.

He's on the job and in the saddle—dictating policies with the same aptitude that made him a Wall Street colossus "when Hector was a pup."

Occupied folk haven't leisure to worry over expiring leases on life and leadership.

They keep going and growing. Neither man nor trees wither while they're throwing tap-roots.

It's the weak, unimportant, weedy-natured stuff that dies down at the first frost nip.

Supreme Court duties don't permit cobwebs to gather on Judge Holmes' memory.

Von Hindenburg's projections leave no room for disheartening instrospection.

And Von Moltke, concentrating night and day upon the Franco-Prussian War, was neither haunted nor handicapped by an emptying hour-glass.

Action erases time-limits from confidence.

Carry on, and stay young.

Avoid the birthday counters. Steer clear of the drop-outs—those melancholy Danes, with no occupation left except to wander the roads to yesterday—broodily dwelling in the past and on the poor Yoricks they knew so well.

Senility always follows fast on idleness. Work, think, and last.

Use your remaining mileage, and don't hop off with an unexpired ticket for all performances—to sit on a siding, and "watch the trains go by."

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

SET it down to the incurable kindness of folks that they are daily flim-flammed and yet they persist in dropping coins into the imploring, tear-spattered hat.

Here is a tale as true as sunlight, which came to me last night from a Florence Nightingale, a visiting nurse who plays her angel-of-mercy role on New York's pathetic East Side.

The Bowery has its rear houses. That means squalor back of penury. It means a hog pen back of a cow stable. There is nothing beyond but the bread line and a jump into the East River.

In a rear house of two stingy rooms dwelt a blind man and his "landlady;" she in one room, he in the other. And, curious to say, he was really blind, as blind as bats, moles, owls and fixed policemen.

Morningly a man came and for a daily dollar he led the sightless fellow to the corner where pickings were good and suckers plentiful.

Yesterday Florence Nightingale was sent to attend the afore-mentioned landlady and was met with a rare and juicy morsel of gossip, which rang as true as the blacksmith's anvil.

Only a handful of hours before the poor blind man had taken a boat for Europe and carried with him his little savings of $40,000.

Secondly, the good man who earned his daily dollar had built himself a nabob house in The Bronx out of the cute little pennies he had stolen from the blind man's tin cup.

And when Florence asked the buxom housekeeper whether she, too, was rolling and lolling in wealth, the answer was, "If I had $100 I wouldn't stay in this place long enough to swat a fly."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IT IS fine to be high-spirited and good-natured and feel that you will not permit petty matters to interfere with your good temper.

You want to be known as one who looks upon the bright side and you don't want to consider anything that distresses you.

Tomorrow is another day; why worry, even to fortify yourself against possible bad effects?

Aren't you too easy going?

You have schooled yourself to take everything—good and bad—as matter of fact, and yourself as neutral.

Your mistakes fail to make enough impression for you to avoid the same kind of mistake next time.

You wonder why some persons are so irritated because of your deficiencies or because you do so little thinking with your work?

You excuse yourself with the plea that good results are not worth what they take out of you, and thereby you prove yourself pretty shallow.

Everything you do is worth your best efforts.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 20.—Among the unsung heroines, to my notion, are those constituting the army of beautiful girls struggling so valiantly and honorably merely to exist in the metropolis. Most of them, through sudden reverses of family fortune, were cast upon their own resources.

They had no training to cope with their sisters in the business world, and yet survive—uncomplainingly, hopefully and respectably. Three young ladies of my acquaintance, nurtured in homes of refinement and graduates of select finishing schools, are cases in point.

All are employed at salaries of not more than $25 a week each. They occupy a comfortable apartment which they maintain by renting rooms to paying guests. They do their own cooking and housework, and by frugality are able to attend the theater and symphony concert now and then.

These are examples easily multiplied into thousands and are ignored by the various welfare organizations chiefly because they neither seek nor want help. They carry on and are not the sort to be dredged out of murky waters and consigned to nameless graves.

They are, indeed, almost invariably light hearted and strangely enough devote their slight spare time to helping others. They have a way of laughing at dilemmas that would be the utter despair of the more frivolous creatures who take a "sugar daddy" and the easiest way.

Few smoke, nor do scarcely any drink, yet not in this age of hectic hurrah would they be called prudes. They have a girlish freshness and buoyancy and they are most engaging—square shooters who seem to many of us to be on the losing end of a rather one-sided game.

It is heartening, therefore, to record that during the past year society editors report more than a dozen of these "working girls" contracted extremely brilliant marriages with scions of not only rich but illustrious families. And that, fellow Kiwanians, is as it should be.

And around the Y. M. C. A.'s of the boroughs nightly will be seen innumerable young men courageously battling the metropolitan Goliath. They are reading, attending night classes or playing harmless games. The lights o' Broadway are just so many lights. They retire early to be up early, and for those of us who have frivoled away much of our youth there is a conviction they are lads the next generation will be reading about in the up-and-at-'em success stories.

Candor—we love to be candor—compels the observation, however, there are a number of highly successful men not conforming to the copy-book formula. There is one who was booted out of three colleges, married a marvelous lady, whom he deserted shamefully, is slightly potted half the time and is a conscienceless liar, yet a great industrial organization pays him a staggering sum to sit at a desk three hours every morning merely to suggest ideas. Ideas, too, that have compensated them handsomely despite the price.

Success of this sort packs the bread lines with those who think they can follow the same slip-shod method and achieve similar results. The ratio of those who do is not one in a million. And such odds are too long for even the sure-thing gambler.

I am among the increasing number of human jelly fish completely fed up with police incivility. Last evening I inquired, as politely as my bringing up warrants, of a cop if an automobile might be parked near a certain restaurant outside the congested zone. "Not unless you want a ticket!" he fairly snarled. I wanted to ask how the 10 speakeasies on the block—including the one he had just left, wiping his mouth on his coat sleeve—were getting along, but was too much of a ninny.

Apropos of nothing at all, I wonder if there are others also somehow secretly pleased when escaped prisoners make successful getaways. Sometimes I think it was the fall out of the high chair.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a nice girl that married a young doctor, and he was good to her and all that.

One day when he came home all tired, she says, "You know, dear, I been trying to get acquainted with our neighbors. I made a cocoanut pie and sent it down to Old Man Wright, that white-haired old fellow on the first floor."

"Yes," says the doc, "I was called in on that case almost as soon as he had eat up the pie, but I couldn't save him. Died of acute indigestion. By the way dear, it's mighty nice of you, and all that, but I really don't need practice that bad. You just save your pies for those dogs that have been keeping us awake nights lately."

Isn't It So?
